

EVE OF PRIMARIES

Exciting Ante-Caucus Campaign Draws to a Close

This is the eve of the primaries and marks the close of the most interesting ante-caucus campaign that the democrats have held in many years. With six candidates in the contest, five of whom are strongly in the running, the democratic voter has been obliged to think twice before making up his mind as to how to vote on the head of the ticket. Each candidate has been making many speeches and they are not done yet. With the number of candidates, and the excitement attending the campaign, the general harmony of the situation has been most remarkable. While each candidate has delivered at least 25 speeches whatever has been said of a personal nature was so little as to be easily overlooked and the primaries are here without any bitter feeling on the part of any of the candidates. Thus the situation gives the democracy great hope for success at the polls.

More Speeches

All of the democratic candidates put in several busy hours Saturday evening and a busy day Sunday. Tonight all will make several speeches, the places and time being advertised in another column.

Messrs. Crowley, Daly, and Meehan were the guests of the Manhattan club yesterday afternoon and made addresses that were well received.

Major Crowley and William E. Mahoney held all day meetings at their respective headquarters and met a large number of voters.

The rain this noon somewhat interfered with the crowds at the mill gate rallies of Candidates Daly, Mahoney and Meehan but they addressed good sized audiences nevertheless. The remarks of all three, abounded in the spirit of harmony and all three asked for unity of party after the caucuses.

Mr. Daly will make to speeches this evening starting at 7.15. His headquarters will be found in another column. He addressed large gatherings Saturday night and made a good impression.

James E. O'Donnell addressed a large gathering at his headquarters yesterday, and among other things he said that he was thankful to the earnest and energetic friends who had toiled night and day in behalf of his candidacy. Mr. O'Donnell said he felt if nominated he could claim and would receive the hearty co-operation of his competitors. He had discussed with the voters his views on public questions affecting their interests and had endeavored modestly but faithfully to advance his own qualifications without disparagement to the claims of his other candidates. He felt from the generous assurances that he had received from all sections of the city that he would be his party's choice and if so he would labor unceasingly for his own and his party's triumph. He pleaded with his hearers to attend the

A SAD SERVICE

Funeral of Miss Mary A. Shanley Today

One of the saddest funeral services that has taken place in a long time at St. Patrick's church was that held this morning over the remains of Miss Mary A. Shanley, the young and talented daughter of Mr. Joseph A. Shanley, who dropped dead while at her studies in the Lowell High school on Friday; for aside from the shocking suddenness of the taking away of one in the bloom of girlhood, the blighting of a personality so beautiful, rendered most poignant the grief of all who enjoyed the pleasure of her acquaintance. The deceased was a young Miss of lovable disposition and character, was adored within the family circle, well beloved by her large circle of friends and universally admired at school.

Throughout the sad hours prior to the funeral the saddened home was crowded with sorrowing friends, drawn thither to extend their sympathy to the heart-broken family and to breathe the silent tribute of a prayer for the eternal happiness of the departed soul. A wealth of floral tributes, mately and fragrant bore testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by friends, even far beyond her family and kin. The lengthy funeral cortege left the house of mourning, 26 Phillips street, at 9.30 o'clock, and proceeded to St. Patrick's church, at which the deceased was a devout and constant attendant, where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Joseph Curtin, assisted by Rev. Timothy Callahan, deacon, and Rev. J. A. Fitzgerald, sub-deacon. An unusually large congregation was in attendance at the service, including many of the older families of St. Patrick's parish, of which the family of the deceased have been highly respected members for many years.

Among those present of note were: John and Joseph Shanley of New York, brothers of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welch of Lawrence; Miss T. H. Heffernan, Mr. John Heffernan and Miss Ellen M. Franks of Framingham; Mr. and Mrs. James McManus of Natick; Messrs. Terese and Annie Smith of Framingham; Mrs. Cassin of Natick; Miss Mary Kirby of Boston; Mrs. John Welch and Miss Julia Welch of Lawrence.

The choir, under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, who also presided at the organ, rendered the Vatican edition of the requiem mass. At the offertory Mr. Andrew A. McCarthy sang Terry's "Domine Jesu Christe." After the elevation Miss Alice Murphy gave "Pie Jesu" from the Gregorian. At the conclusion of mass the choir rendered "In Paradisum" and as the funeral procession was leaving the church, "De Profundis" was sung. Mr. McCarthy sustained the solo. The casket was borne by Messrs. James, John and Joseph Shanley and Mr. John Heffernan.

The funeral cortege then proceeded to St. Patrick's cemetery, where the remains were tenderly consigned to their final resting place. Rev. Fr. Curtin reading the prayers at the grave. The interment was in charge of James H. McDermott.

The grave was completely hidden under a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, which included the following:

Large cross on base, of roses, chrysanthemums and galax leaves inscribed "Our Darling" from the parents; closed book of roses and galax leaves, inscribed "Her Courage" as exemplified from her brothers, Joe and John; spray of pinks and chrysanthemums from her sisters, Theresa and Jeanne; star and crescent on base, of white roses and giant white and yellow chrysanthemums, from teachers and classmates of the Bartlett school, class of 1909; mammoth wreath of pinks, maiden hair ferns and galax leaves from Principal Irish and the following assistants at the High school, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Brennan, Miss Vinton, Miss Cassidy, Miss Allen, Miss Ward and Miss Lambert; pillow inscribed "Mary" Misses Sarah, Hannah and Mary Ryan; basket of pinks and roses, inscribed "Dear Mary" Mr. and Mrs. James Spiers; spray of 16 double pink chrysanthemums, Mr. John Orr and family; wreath of roses, pinks and chrysanthemums, the Misses Tully; large cluster chrysanthemums, Mrs. F. Hogan and family of Natick; spray of white pinks, Master Willie and Miss Katherine Ready; large spray of pinks and chrysanthemums, Mr. James McDermott; spray of pinks and ferns, Mrs. John Conroy; spray of pinks, Mrs. Foye; spray of white chrysanthemums, Miss Gladys Crowley, Abington, Mass.; spray of pinks, Misses Grace and Marie Dunn; spray of pinks, James and Michael O'Donnoghue; spray of pinks, Miss Mary and Mr. Charles Deehan; spray of pinks, Miss Rita Quinn; spray of chrysanthemums, Miss Annie White; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Armistead and many others.

REVIVAL CLOSED

The last meeting of the two weeks of revival services was held at Calvary Baptist church last night and the church was crowded to the doors. The revivals have been conducted at this church with the aid of and in conjunction with the Highland Congregational and Highland M. E. churches. The pastors of these two churches have assisted the pastor of Calvary Baptist church in leading the meetings. The evangelist, Rev. George R. Starr, has been the central figure. Singing by J. W. Reynolds was a pleasant and inspiring feature of the meetings.

A large number of men attended the mass meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Highland M. E. church under the auspices of Evangelists Starr and Reynolds. The afternoon's program was a well planned one and proved interesting to those present. There was singing by Mr. Reynolds and the church choir and the affair came to a close by congregational singing "Oportuit Semper." Some laugh at "Opportunities Lost."

OLD TREMONT HOUSE

To be Converted Into Theatre for Moving Pictures

Present Tenants Will Have to Move—Another Picture Theatre to be Built in Bridge Street—Some Talk of Another Garage

The old Tremont house in Merrimack street is to be turned into a theatre for moving picture shows and what means that two new picture theatres are to be added to Lowell's present list, as another is looked for Bridge and Paige streets. No applications for permits to build or make alterations have been submitted at the office of the inspector of buildings, but it is known that the theatres are to be established.

The one to occupy the old Tremont house will be arranged and managed by George Henson. The inspector of lands and buildings has already looked the building over, but no permits of any description have as yet been issued. Mr. Henson will first have to do business with the state inspector and if the building ordinance is complied with he will not meet with any interference on the part of the local inspector.

The studding in the old Tremont house is low and there are two propositions being considered. It is either a case of raising the building or dropping the floor. There are two stores in the building at the present time, a fish and a fruit store, and it was stated this forenoon that both had been given notice to vacate.

The other new theatre, at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets, will be engineered by a son of Alexander Strauss, proprietor of the Casuar Misch store. The theatre will be built on the White property. It will take about 50 feet on Bridge street and will extend back to the alley in Paige street.

Another Garage

It is reported that negotiations for a location for a new garage near the site of the proposed new picture theatre in Bridge street are pending. If built the garage will stand just beyond the theatre, and it, too, will be on the White property.

STANDARD OIL MEN

Discuss Course to be Taken by the Company Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Conferences of officers and leading counsel of the Standard Oil Co. were held in this city today to begin the work of outlining the company's course of action following the adverse decision in the government's suit against the company rendered on Saturday.

Thirty days are allowed before the decree of the court takes effect and within that time the form of the appeal which the corporation has announced that it will take to the United States supreme court will have to be perfected. The voluminous opinion and decree of the U. S. circuit court are not to be digested by the attorneys for the corporation. Early beginning of this process was considered essential, hence the prompt summoning of legal forces at the command of the Standard Oil to essay the task.

In speaking of the decision today John D. Archbold, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co., took an optimistic view of the situation. He said: "I believe that the decision will result in legislation looking toward the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act. For under that law it is not only impossible for practically every corporation to transact business but even co-partnerships may be attacked. I believe that the officials at Washington are coming to the view that the law is too drastic and that even Mr. Roosevelt himself shares in that opinion. Standard Oil stock was again affected on the curb market today by the court's decision. The stock closed at 69 1/2 Saturday and the first sale today was 65 1/2, a decline of 40 points. Early prices on the stock exchange showed declines of nearly a point in some issues but there was support detected and prices rallied.

These preparations are so elegant it is not too much to say that pharmacy has reached its highest mark right here in Lowell.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Prepared to Take Steps in the Nicaraguan Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Strained now almost to the breaking point, it remains for the next few days, perhaps one or two will suffice, to show whether the relations between the United States and Nicaragua are to be snapped off short.

This government has not accepted as facts beyond all contradiction the explanation of Nicaragua touching the execution of Grace and Cannon in that country. Sufficient credit has been given statements that have been made to the department of state to prompt inquiries into the reasons that moved President Zelaya to order the two Americans put to death. Secretary Knox himself is authorized for the statement that a demand for reparation will be made upon Nicaragua should these inquiries develop that allegations touching the death of the Americans are well grounded.

Late last night the secretary declared himself and proceedings in the Nicaraguan affair today will doubtless be along the line of prosecution of the inquiries to ascertain the truth as to Grace and Cannon.

Secretary Knox is acting with the full approval of the president. Mr. Taft has had the Nicaraguan situation presented fully and he is prepared to take any needed steps to bring about a more satisfactory status than now exists.

American ships of war today are speeding toward the shores of Nicaragua. The gunboat Vicksburg will probably arrive at Corinto on the Pacific coast today and the cruiser Des Moines may arrive at about the same time at Port Limon. The Marietta, too, is on her way to the Atlantic coast. The transport Buffalo coming at Pichilique bay, Cal. is under orders to Panama. There a force of 500 marines will board the vessel should orders to that effect be issued. Such orders will doubtless be forthcoming should the two countries not prove able to settle peacefully the issue that has arisen.

PANIC AT SEA

Was Caused by the Heroism of a Steward

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Heroism on the part of a young steward caused a panic at sea among the 141 stowaway passengers of the Cunard liner Pannonia, which arrived yesterday from Mediterranean ports. When the immigrants were released many of them sought to kiss the man they had threatened three weeks ago.

"Girl overboard!" "There she goes!" shouted a score of steerage passengers on the night of Oct. 30, when a steward rushed to the rail and threw a lighted lamp covered with a long white sheet into the ocean.

A few days after the Pannonia had left Flims one of the passengers was hearing water over an alcohol lamp. A sudden lurch of the vessel tipped over the lamp, which was resting on the edge of the woman's berth, and the sheet took fire. Immediately there was a cry of "Fire!"

The cry of "Fire!" had been heard by a young steward, who seized the sheet, wrapped it about the lamp, and, running on deck, threw it overboard. Several scores of other steerage passengers who knew nothing of the fire, seeing the white sheet, began to shout in their native language: "Girl overboard!"

In an instant a panic followed. The crowd of excited foreigners gathered around the steward and began to threaten him. Several of them tried to strike him. The noise and shouts reached Captain Irvine, who was on the bridge. He ordered that the vessel be stopped. He then tried his best to calm the frightened passengers. Calling to six sailors and two junior officers, he sent them out in lifeboats and also threw overboard two illuminated buoys. For fully 20 minutes a search was made around the vessel for the supposed girl that had been thrown overboard. Finally an interpreter was secured, who told the steerage passengers the truth.

The steward was thanked by the steerage passengers for his heroism and presented with trinkets which came from different parts of the world. Before the excitement had subsided the ship's doctor announced that Mrs. Julia Kovas, a young woman who was coming here to meet her husband, a farmer in New Jersey, had given birth to a boy. Count Vaya de Vaya Lusko, Lord Abbott of St. Martin's, who happened to be a passenger on the same vessel, presided at the christening at the request of the steerage passengers. A collection of $250 was made for the new arrival. Mrs. Kovas said she would place the money in a savings institution in the name of her little son and keep it there until he became of age.

A BRAVE WOMAN

Rescued Several Persons From Burning Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—A fire which burned the greater part of the night, causing a loss of $25,000 to $30,000, and which was attended by the thrilling rescue of several women and children, broke out in the Connor and Verette blocks, corner of Elm and Spruce streets, shortly before midnight Saturday.

The fire originated in some unknown manner in the basement of the saloon of Napoleon J. Pischette in the Connor block, a four-story wooden structure with a brick front. The flames made their way through the partitions to the room and spread to the Verette block.

The first floors of both blocks were occupied for business purposes and the three stories above as tenements. Women and children were rescued on ladders by the firemen and police after egress had been cut off by smoke and flames which filled the stairways.

Mrs. Mary Colonge, who had just returned to her home after giving birth to a child in a hospital, was placed on a stretcher and the stretcher pulled across a ladder from one of the windows in the Connor block to the roof of an adjoining building. Mrs. Colonge's child was rescued by Mrs. Mary Cloutier, one of the occupants of the block, who performed heroic work in aiding the occupants of the tenements to places of safety. Patrolmen John Watts and Florence O'Leary were instrumental in removing Mrs. Colonge to a place of safety.

Councilman William Connor of ward 10, with the aid of James Harlan and Dominick O'Gara, raised ladders in back alley by means of which seven persons escaped. Mr. Connor looks after the plumbing in the blocks, and being familiar with their interior, was able to render valuable service.

The fire burned in the partitions to the top of both buildings. The heaviest damage was done to the grocery and meat store of Mose Verette, which was heavily stocked and occupied the entire first story of Verette block, extending from 609 to 613 Elm street.

Mrs. Cloutier, who rescued the child of Mrs. Colonge, is being mentioned for her heroic deed. She was seen to crawl about her head and then dashed into the burning smoke, picked up the infant and returned with it under her shawl. She brought out the other children in the same manner, feeling her way with her hands on each journey into the building, and she was familiar with the rooms, having made her home in the building for a long time.

The Connor block is owned by Michael Connor, and he was overcome by a suffocating smoke after having entered the building and was carried out by the firemen.

The grocery of James J. Griffin, situated on Spruce street, was filled with smoke and the proprietor suffers some loss.

SCHELEY ANGRY

At the Action of the Ballet

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 22.—Admiral Scheley and United States Senator Geo. T. Oliver were Saturday night the victims of practical jokes on the stage of the Gaiety theatre.

The joke was a sort of boomerang on the instigators for many of them are today trying to explain to indignant wives why they, too, were the party that shipped wine from a comical loving cup with chorus girls Saturday night while an audience of 2000 bawled the song, "How Dry I Am."

The admiral and the United States senator were so plainly the victims of a French joke that they have escaped censure and the hero of Santiago was beginning to smile once more when he left for Washington yesterday. There was blood on the moon for a few moments Saturday night, however.

Admiral Scheley was the guest of Ely Temple of the Mystic Shrine all Saturday and Sunday evening when the entire Gaiety theatre had been bought out by the Shriners for a stag night.

One of the features near the end of the show was the presentation of a beautiful loving cup made of silver plated to the admiral.

United States Senator Oliver presented the cup formally to the admiral on the centre of the stage and as he finished there rushed from the wings half a dozen chorus girls in short skirts, etc.

Two of them had opened bottles of champagne, which they emptied into the loving cup which they found in the hands of the admiral. Then they stood on either side of the embarrassed admiral and made signs for him to drink.

lyzed since the ballet descended on them.

The senator took his sip, then gallantly passed it to the chorus girls, who in turn passed it to the score of Shriners who had come on the stage with them to assist in the complete embarrassment of Admiral Scheley and Senator Oliver.

PRETTY HEIRESS

To Become Bride of Blind Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—When Miss Vera MacFarland Moses, whose father is a multi-millionaire, leaves St. Thomas' Church on Dec. 1 as the bride of Edward Matthews Chamberlain, hers will probably be the most pathetic wedding procession that has ever walked down the aisle of that famous church.

The white satin and tulle and orange blossoms, with which she will be arrayed, will be unseen by her husband, although she will lean proudly on his arm.

The childish prattle of the two little flower girls, her niece, Lydia Merrill, and his niece, Edith Clendenin, will be heard by him, but their happy faces, their baskets of posies will count nothing for Mr. Chamberlain, who comes of an old Virginia family, is blind.

The God of Love, however, is also supposed to be sightless. and Miss Moses is happily preparing for her coming marriage to the man of her choice and is planning all the details as thoughtfully, as carefully, as though each would come under his special notice.

The bride-to-be, a beautiful young woman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moses of the Hotel Savoy.

SON OF MILES

TO BECOME HUSBAND OF MISS NOBLE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—The marriage of Miss Davida Vutec Noble, daughter of William Madison Noble, U. S. A., to Lieut. Sherman Miles, U. S. A., son of Gen. Nelson A. Miles, will take place in this city on Wednesday next at St. John's church.

The bride, who will wear a costume of white satin with point lace tulle and orange blossoms, will be attended by Evelyn Chew, Frythorn Zerd, John Schreder, Mary Scott and Elizabeth Barker as bridesmaids.

HOUSE OF LORDS

Determined to Kill the Budget Bill on November 25

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The United Kingdom is more absorbed in politics now than for many years and the coming week will see the culmination of the fierce warfare which has been carried on over the budget.

The house of lords is expected to vote on Lord Lansdowne's resolution calling for the rejection of the budget Thursday. Before then most of the big guns in the upper house will speak. Lord Rosebery's effort for the conservatives and that of the Earl of Halsbury for the liberals are awaited with the most interest.

Probably the largest number of lords will be mustered for the vote since the rejection of home rule. About 450, many of whom practically are strangers to parliament, are liable to be assembled and not more than one-quarter of these will support the budget.

Most of the politicians predict that when the question goes before the people at the general elections in January it will be impossible to wipe out the great liberal majority and that the liberal government will be returned, but with a comparatively small majority. The betting at Lloyd's is 3 to 1 in favor of the liberals.

The liberal leaders declare that the issue is whether the hereditary chamber shall rule the country. The conservatives argue that the house of commons has no mandate from the people to introduce new forms of taxation and that the house of lords is fulfilling its function as a balance on the commons by forcing resort to a referendum.

Conservative gains will be acclaimed as victories for protection.

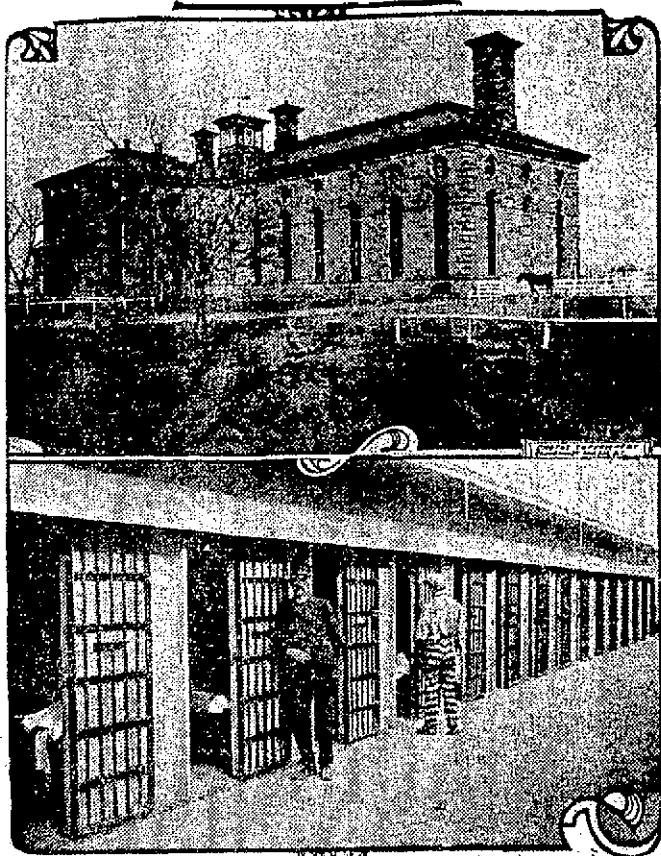

The uncertainty of the country's financial policy is paralyzing the stock exchange and the possibility that the government will have to raise a large loan to meet current expenses makes the money market too uncertain for extensive private enterprises.

SHORTAGE OF $27,000

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—Louis La Beaume, national secretary and treasurer of the Travelers Protective Association of America, has resigned and the board of directors yesterday accepted the resignation. A shortage of at least $27,000 it was announced, exists in the books of the order. The directors in accepting La Beaume's resignation gave him a vote of confidence and he will continue with the organization in another capacity.

La Beaume said last night that the records of William H. Hochen, head bookkeeper, who committed suicide last July, show a shortage.

DISTRICT JAIL AT WASHINGTON WHERE SHERIFF SHIPP IS HELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Here are two pictures of the district jail at Washington, where Sheriff Shipp of Tennessee is confined by order of the United States supreme court, for having permitted a lynching in his county, after the prisoner's case had been appealed to the highest tribunal. This jail will come in for further prominence in case Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison are actually confined on the contempt charges now pending against them. The time for the labor leaders to surrender themselves to the United States marshal has been extended to Nov. 23. It is expected that they will then sue out a writ of habeas corpus before some judge of the district supreme court, and should the judge refuse to discharge them the next step would be an appeal to the United States supreme court. No doubt exists of this right of appeal in a habeas corpus case, the same being provided for in the first amendment to the constitution.

BEAUTIFUL GIFT

Rev. Eugene A. Carney Honored by Lowell Friends

Sunday afternoon the officers of the Children of Mary and the Immaculate Conception sodalities of St. Michael's parish called on their former director, Rev. E. A. Carney, at St. Patrick's parochial residence, Roxbury. Father Carney has recently been transferred to Roxbury. In behalf of the members of the sodality and his friends in St. Michael's parish, the young women presented him with a substantial check. The children's offering was a handsome challenge, beautifully inscribed. These gifts but faintly voiced the people's appreciation of the beloved priest's labors in our city.

Shortly after his appointment to Lowell, nearly ten years ago, Father Carney organized the Young Ladies' sodality. His fidelity to its interests soon made it the leading parish organization. Quiet and unassuming in his work, the affairs undertaken by the society met with a success that was really phenomenal. Materially and spiritually it became a powerful influence for good and thus Fr. Carney made for himself in less than ten years a record of which men might feel proud.

In the children's societies and in the Sunday school Father Carney's efforts were equally effective. His own faithful attendance at both, his systematic grading of classes in the Sunday school, his keen, personal interest in every detail of the work soon showed results in a largely increased membership and in the almost perfect attendance in many of the divisions. A quiet, but effective earnestness and zeal characterized every other phase of his work as well and it is not too much to say that, judging from his earliest efforts, the young priest's success in his chosen career is already assured. While his friends keenly regret his departure they just as sincerely congratulate him on his promotion to one of the most important parishes of the diocese. The good wishes of every member of St. Michael's parish go with him to this wider field. If these wishes are even half realized, he will indeed be blessed.

ELECTROCUTED

Man Murdered Two Children in Utica

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Theodore Rizzo who brutally murdered Theresa Procopio, seven years of age, and Freddie Infusino, two and a half years old, in Utica, N. Y., on Sunday night, Sept. 12, was put to death in the electric chair in Auburn prison at 6:15 o'clock this morning.

The execution was the thirty-sixth to take place here. Three shocks were necessary to kill, the first of two seconds more than a full minute, the next of three seconds, and the third of ten seconds.

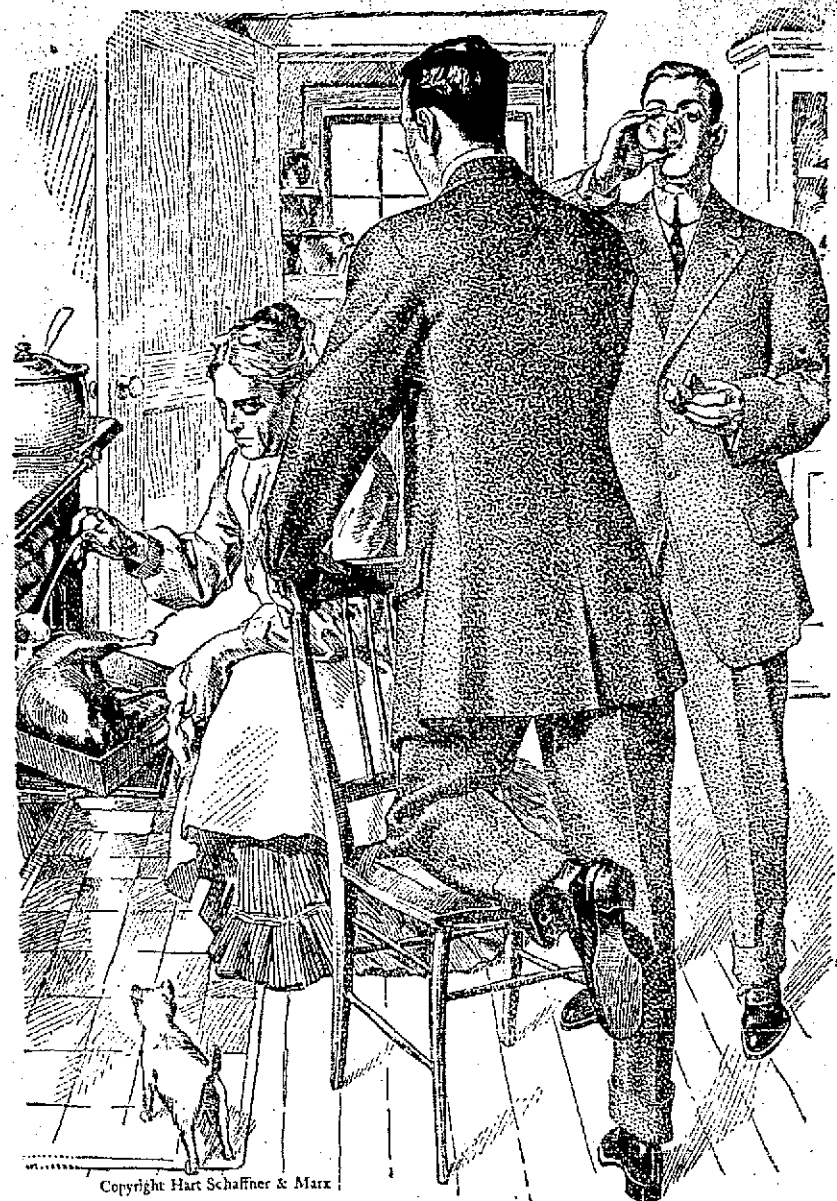

Rizzo died calmly and the prison physicians pronounced the execution successful.

AT FOREST HILLS

Boston "L" Road Opens New Station

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—With the opening of the Forest Hills branch of the Boston elevated railroad the rapid transit service was further extended today. The new station at Forest Hills is 350 feet long and 75 feet wide. It is equipped with double tracks running between separate platforms for loading and unloading passengers which is a new feature in the elevated system of this city. The new branch runs south from Dudley street, the former terminal, to Forest Hill square, with one way station at Eggleston square. The running time between the new terminal and Dudley street is reduced by the elevated from 20 to 8 minutes. The extension is expected to be of great benefit to the people of Hyde Park and other suburbs as well as the district through which it runs and will bring them closer to the hub.

HARVARD DEFEATED

Yale Won in Great Struggle in the Stadium

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 21.—The annual income of $100,000 spent for admission tickets represented only a part of the struggle between Harvard and Yale for eastern football championship honors Saturday. Crowds that gathered in the Harvard stadium where the game was played numbered nearly 40,000 people. It was a college assembly not unlike that at class day, although vastly larger. It was intensely enthusiastic and well versed in the mysteries of the game and the relative strength and ability of the teams and the players. It was warmly clothed and gaily decorated. College colors were carried almost universally and crimson and blue flags added lustre to the ranks. Some students in higher mathematics estimated that half a million violets and 50,000 red chrysanthemums contributed to the floral display; that 100,000 cones had given up their lives for furs to keep out the cold. And all to see twenty-two swift, agile and sturdy undergraduates trained to the hour and well drilled in football knowledge, run, kick and wrestle for seventy minutes. These chief actors remained well away from the scene until a few hours before the game began. The Harvard team, which had been quieting its nerves and conserving its strength at a suburban hunt club reached Cambridge just before noon for the last lunch at the training table. The Yale team was somewhat later and had lunch in its hotel at Auburnville street, before one o'clock. In the meantime the assembly at the stadium had begun.

The weather was somewhat uncertain. A lazy southerly wind brought up murky conditions, but while the sky was overcast the clouds were thin and did not promise rain.

The main body of students reached Cambridge shortly after noon. While only one special train was advertised from New Haven over the New Haven system it was found necessary to split the train into six sections and this method was also adopted with the regular trains. The midnight train from New York, due in Boston at 7 a. m., which is usually made up of ten sleeping cars, was run in four sections of twelve sleepers each. Regular trains from New London and Norwich were also split up and rolled into the South station in Boston heavily laden with football enthusiasts.

Over the Boston & Albany division of the New York Central came a special from New York and one from Pittsfield. Each was in two divisions. The Harvard club of New York had a special train of parlor cars. All the trains on this line stopped at Allston, less than half a mile from the stadium. The demand for accommodations from the north and east of Boston was so great that it was found necessary on the Boston & Maine railroad to run the trains from Maine and New Hampshire in sections.

The excursionists burdened with overcoats and sweaters streamed out of the cars and after snatching a hasty luncheon started for the stadium. At least a third of the arrivals were women. Several of the parlor cars were classes and frats held impromptu reunions.

The announced lineup was as follows:

Harvard	Yale
L. Smith	is Kilpatrick
is Kilpatrick	is Hobbs
L. Withington	is Andrus
P. Withington	is Conroy
Fisher	is Corbett
Fisher	is Lillie
Brown	is Savage
O'Flaherty	is Philbin
Corbett	is Deley
Leslie	is Coy
Minot

Teams Were Prompt

Both teams were unusually prompt in appearing. Yale running on to Harvard at 1:40 and Harvard appearing a few minutes later. Five minutes before the fixed time officials and captains met in the center and after a couple of minutes' discussion the coin was tossed.

Start of Game

Yale won the toss and took the south side of the field and the wind, giving Harvard the kickoff. P. Withington kicked off to Yale's 35 yard line. It was a purposely short kick, but Yale caught it without gain. There was Harvard interference and it was Yale's ball on their 50 yard line. Lillie was injured and took his place. A Harvard fumble on the 15-yard line gave Yale the ball. Philbin made three through center and Coy two more. On the third down Coy failed at a try for a field goal from the 10 yard line.

Harvard put the ball in play on a scrimmage on the 35 yard line. On the first down there was a fumble, but the ball was not lost. Leslie ploughed through center for three yards and Philbin fumbled the ball in the center of the field. Fish of Harvard fell on it.

Minot made five yards through center and Corbett circled Yale's end for three more.

On a skin tackle play Leslie made more than his distance and it was Harvard's ball on Yale's 35 yard line. Three similar rushes resulted in slight gains and a Harvard forward pass went outside on Yale's 20 yard line. There was interference, however, and it was Yale's ball on their 40 yard line.

Coy made a long run round his right end but the net gain was only four yards. He kicked on a second down to Harvard's 25 yard line. On a double pass Corbett made 25 yards on a dash through Yale's left wing. Leslie was dragged through the Yale team to the center of the field.

Then Fish shook off the Yale team and placed the ball on Yale's 25 yard line. Some of the Harvard players began to hold and the Crimson was sent back to the 50 yard line. Corbett kicked on the first down but it was Yale's ball on their 35 yard line. Coy kicked on the first down to Harvard's 35-yard line. Corbett could make no gain round Kilpatrick's end and Leslie only got two yards more on a delayed pass. Minot kicked on the third down to Philbin on Yale's 35-yard line. The ball was nailed there for no gain. Philbin made two yards through right tackle. Coy kicked on the second down to O'Flaherty on Harvard's 20-yard line. For the third time the Harvard back fumbled but recovered the ball. A double pass resulted in no gains. Minot kicked on a second down to Yale's 47-yard line where Philbin was thrown without gain. Up to this point Yale had outkicked Harvard. The Crimson, however, had made more distance in rushing. Coy again kicked outside on Harvard's 30-yard line.

Corbett and Leslie found the Yale line in nervousness. Minot kicked to Yale's 15 yard line. There was Harvard interference and the ball was Yale's on Harvard's 50 yard line. Daley tried a long run round Yale's left end but was thrown back for a loss. On an onside kick which Cooney caught it was Yale's ball on Harvard's 25 yard line. On the first down Coy plunged through for 8 yards. On the next rush he only got a yard. It was a third down with half a yard to gain. Philbin made more than the needed distance and carried the ball to Harvard's 15 yard line.

Philbin struggled through tackle for a scant yard. Coy could only make two more. On the third down Coy made a second failure at a field goal. Harvard put the ball in play by a scrimmage on their 25 yard line. Leslie went into the mighty Cooney for three yards. Corbett made seven yards through right tackle. Then there came a discussion of football ethics between Corbett and Kilpatrick. Minot then kicked on a third down to the center of the field.

Coy's forward pass went outside but as there was holding in the Yale line, the ball was brought in and the Blue retained it. Coy kicked on the first down to Harvard's 42-yard line. On the first down Minot made ten yards and then fumbled. Fish, however, was on the spot and rushed the ball into Yale's territory.

Three scrimmages in the center of the field resulted in no gain. Harvard kicked on the third down to Yale's 35 yard line and Daley ran it back to the 42 yard line. Philbin was thrown back for a loss of seven yards on the first rush and then Coy kicked to O'Flaherty on Harvard's 35 yard line. O'Flaherty for the first time caught the ball, but as he was outside there was no gain. Brooks goes out and Spencer takes his place.

Three Harvard failed to gain on delayed passes. Minot's kick on the third down was blocked. Although the ball went behind the goal line Harvard recovered it. The ball was put in play on Harvard's 25 yard line. Again the double pass was tried without gain. There was a Harvard penalty which sent the Crimson back to their two yard line. Minot punted out to Harvard's 40 yard line where Philbin made a fair catch. All this time Yale tried a goal from placement. Andrus tried for a goal from placement. The kick went over the Harvard goal post, but was brought back for a second trial. On the second trial Andrus kicked low over Harvard's goal line.

The Harvard side heaved a great sigh of relief at the escape. Minot kicked on the third down to the 45-yard line and Philbin ran it back 14 yards.

Coy tried an onside kick on the first down and it was Harvard's ball on the 10 yard line.

On the first down standing on Harvard's 35 yard line Coy kicked a goal from the field.

Three Harvard rushes netted five yards and then the Crimson was sent back nearly to the goal line on a penalty where Minot kicked on the first down to Harvard's 25 yard line, where the ball was nailed.

There was a long discussion on Andrus' kick over Harvard's goal line when a Yale man fell on the ball, and finally the score board announced that it was a Harvard safety and Yale was given two points.

Coy failed at another goal from the field and on the first down Harvard kicked to the center of the field.

Play was resumed by Cooney kicking off to Leslie who ran in back to Harvard's 25 yard line.

After two Harvard rushes with slight gains, time for the first half was called with the ball in Harvard's possession on their 25 yard line.

Score at the end of the first half: Yale 5, Harvard 0.

SUMMARY, FIRST HALF

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 20.—Superior kicking gave Yale an advantage of 5 to 0 in the first half of today's game with Harvard. Two points were gained on a Harvard safety due to a mixup in a Yale kick over. The other three points were on a pray goal from the field which Coy made standing on Harvard's 35 yard line. It was the Yale captain's fourth attempt at one of these plays as the greater portion of the half was in Harvard's territory. Nevertheless, the Crimson showed wonderful offensive power and play in the first ten minutes, carrying the ball 55 yards in five rushes and made only one first down in the first half. The Yale play seemed to be to rush the ball to Harvard's 25 yard line and then try for a field goal.

Between the halves it was explained that the Harvard safety came when Minot's kick was blocked and a Harvard man fell on it behind the goal line. The second half started with Cooney kicking off to McKay on Harvard's 20 yard line. The ball was rushed back four yards. Minot kicked on the second down to Yale's 40 yard line and Philbin ran it back four yards.

A forward pass on the second down netted five yards and it was Yale's ball on her 52 yard line. Coy kicked on a third down to Harvard's 25 yard line. There was no gain in the run back. Leslie made four yards and then the ball was carried by Leslie dragged to the 40 yard line. Three line plunges only netted three yards and then Harvard carried off success. Daley made a long run round Yale's 35 yard line. On the first down Yale was off-side and the ball was on her 41 yard line in Harvard's possession. Frothingham was dragged through for four yards and Minot made five more through center. It was the

STURDY MOLESKIN WARRIORS OF PENN AND CORNELL THAT WILL CLASH IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Although no championship title hinges on the outcome of the game between Cornell and Pennsylvania on Franklin field, Philadelphia, Nov. 25, considerable interest is being taken in the struggle. The game between the two eleven will wind up the football season among the big universities, the annual Army and Navy clash scheduled for Nov. 27 being called off on account of the death of Cadet Byrne. Cornell and Penn are evenly matched this year—in fact, more so than has been the case in many years. Cornell and Penn are the only big eastern eleven that stack up against the westerners annually and who give as near a line as possible on the difference between eastern and western football. Michigan recently defeated the Quakers by a score of 12 to 6. Cornell after being defeated by Harvard the week before tackled the Chicago eleven and held the Maroons down to a tie score of 8 to 6. In the last sixteen years Cornell has won only one game from Penn. that in 1901. In 1905 they played a nothing to nothing tie. During the other fourteen times the eleven have clashed the Quakers have won easily. This season they have an excellent chance of scoring a victory over the Quakers. The team, which was very weak at the start of the season, has improved considerably during the last few weeks. On the other hand, Penn is not nearly as strong as it was in 1908 or 1907. Taken all in all, the struggle looks like an even bet and take your pick. The probable line of the two eleven is as follows: Penn—Braddock, left end; Pretz, left tackle; Dietrich, left guard; Cozens, center; Lamberton, right guard; Ferrier, right tackle; Large, right end; Miller, quarterback; Sommers, left halfback; Irillman, right halfback; Hutchinson, full-third down on Yale's 35 yard line. Minot made it a first down on Yale's 29 yard line. Here the Yale line stood firm and Frothingham could gain but a yard and Minot only three more. The ball was on Yale's 25 yard line and Harvard tried an onside kick. The ball went over the goal line for a touch back. The ball was brought out and put in place by Yale on her 25 yard line.

On the first down Coy on a fake kick made 9 yards. On the second play Philbin made a second down on Yale's 42 yard line. Here there came a five-minute pause while the players had their faces sponged and Goebel had his neck rubbed.

After nine yards had been made Coy kicked to Harvard's 25-yard line. Minot kicked on the third down and it was Yale's ball in the center of the field.

The Harvard line made only six yards in three rushes and Yale kicked to Harvard's 25 yard line. Wigglesworth took O'Flaherty's place.

Minot was dragged and pushed through Yale's line to Harvard's 30 yard line for a first down. Minot and Frothingham gained nine yards in two rushes and then there came a Harvard penalty which took the ball back to the 35 yard line. Minot kicked out of bounds to the center of the field. After Yale had made 8 yards in three downs Coy kicked to Harvard's 10 yard line.

There was penalty in the second down which sent the ball to within a yard of the Harvard goal line. Minot kicked out to Philbin on Harvard's 30 yard line.

Six yards were made in three rushes and then Coy dropped back for another onside kick and the ball fell in Harvard's hands on their 15 yard line.

The second rush was put in play so quickly that Harvard made 15 yards.

The Yale line held firmly and only five yards resulted in three rushes. Harvard tried an onside kick but the ball went to Yale on the Crimson 50 yard line. Coy punted on the second down and Hobbs recovered it on Harvard's 40 yard line.

With Yale's side shouting "Touchdown," Philbin made five yards through center and then Coy tried another onside kick, but again it was Harvard's ball on the 15 yard line. A Harvard trick play resulted in a loss of 10 yards and standing behind his own goal line Minot punted to Harvard's 15 yard line.

Again Coy kicked on the third down to Harvard's 15 yard line. Neither Minot nor Frothingham could make the distance in three rushes and an onside kick gave the ball to Yale on Harvard's 20 yard line.

The Yale stands rose and began to sing "Bright College Years." Three rushes however only yielded six yards. On the third down with the ball on Harvard's 35 yard line Captain Coy ten yards farther back dropped his second field goal of the day and the score was: Yale 6, Harvard 0.

The teams changed sides and Harvard kicked off to Coy, who ran the ball back 15 yards to Yale's 33 yard line.

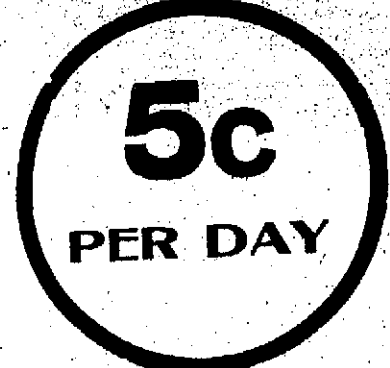

He kicked on the first and it was Harvard's ball on the Crimson's 22 yard line.

Holt took Howe's place. Poor rushing and penalties sent Harvard back to the 19 yard line where Minot kicked, where Minot kicked to the 40 yard line. Coy rushed it back 10 yards before he was downed. Coy tried an onside kick on the second down and Frothingham ran it back ten yards to Harvard's 20 yard line. A penalty sent it back 5 yards on the first rush.

CORNELL WON CHAMPIONSHIP

BROOKLINE, Nov. 22.—Led by T. S. Berna, Cornell's team easily won the intercollegiate cross country championship over the Massachusetts Institute of Technology course from nine other colleges yesterday. It was Cornell's eighth win in ten years. Technology was second, Michigan third and Yale fourth. The others finished in this order: Dartmouth, Syracuse, Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, Columbia, Princeton. Berna's time was 33.05 1-5, remarkable going for the broken Technology course of six miles. Behind him only one second at the finish was his team-mate Tappan.

The first five men to finish with their times were as follows:

T. S. Berna, Cornell, 33.05 1-5; W. H. Tappan, Cornell, 33.06 1-5; D. C. May, Michigan, 33.15; P. Withington, Harvard, 33.24; H. Young, Cornell, 33.41.

GIRL IS ACCUSED

Of Having Shot Waltham Man

WALTHAM, Nov. 22.—Up to a late hour last night the police had been unable to find any trace of Hattie LeBlanc, the pretty 17-year-old girl who was accused by her employer, Clarence F. Glover, with his dying breath Saturday night of having shot him twice with his own revolver while the couple were together in the Waltham laundry, which Glover managed and in which he had a controlling interest.

All day until dark last night the metropolitan park police dragged the river opposite and below the laundry in the hope of finding the body of the girl, while thousands looked on from the bridge and the banks.

The girl's body was not found, and last night the impression that she did not drown herself is growing stronger. Apparently the only thing on which the theory of suicide by drowning was based was the statement made by Glover an hour or so before his death to the effect that after the LeBlanc girl shot him and ran out of the office of the laundry she turned into the Metropolitan park reservation.

Late yesterday afternoon Police Inspector William P. McKenna received information from an undivided source that Hattie LeBlanc was alive and was going to take the 7 o'clock train out of Boston last evening en route for her old home at W. Arichat, Cape Breton. Inspector McKenna considered the tip important enough to act upon and he went into Boston, accompanied by Mayor Edward A. Walker, in whose employ is Irene LeBlanc, a sister of the missing girl. Mayor Walker knows Hattie LeBlanc through having seen her with Irene, and was depended upon to identify the fugitive, but a search of the train just before it started failed to reveal her.

Clarence F. Glover remained conscious until about a minute before he died at midnight Saturday night in the private hospital of Dr. Nicholas W. Cousins at the corner of Gifford avenue and Crescent street, to which the wounded man had dragged himself, and in his dying statement Glover said that Hattie LeBlanc had shot him without cause. He declined to tell why he and the girl were in the laundry alone at 9 o'clock at night, but he did say that Hattie had shot him with his own revolver.

TOOK HIS LIFE

Suicide Paid Funeral Expenses in Advance

John Wheeler, aged 53 years, committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple at the home of George H. Files, in East Chelmsford, Saturday forenoon, after making complete arrangements for his funeral, even to paying the undertaker.

For some time past he has informed his friends of his intention of ending his life and several months ago went to a local undertaker, made all arrangements for the funeral and paid the bill. He left notes to his relatives and instructions as to the disposal of his body.

About 10 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Files went to a neighbor's house, leaving Mr. Wheeler alone in the lower part of the house, apparently in his usual health and spirits. When she returned shortly afterward she heard groans in a room on the second floor and upon investigating found Wheeler lying upon his bed, a revolver beside him and a wound in his right temple. Dr. Seabrook was hastily summoned but the aged man was beyond human aid and he died early in the afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Notes of direction were found upon the bureau, together with money to pay the expense of notifying relatives. He leaves one brother, Elbridge Wheeler of Chelmsford, a sister and two daughters living in Melrose.

FAMOUS SURGEON

Operated on Himself

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Prof. Jonnesco, dean of the University of Bucharest, who performed an operation at the Semmen's hospital Thursday, using the new anaesthetic, stovaine, has aroused the deepest interest in British medical circles by the successful demonstration of the possibilities of his discovery. Although a man of the highest standing at home, he came to England without having put himself in connection with any medical association or even an individual medical man of mark. He at first found great difficulty in securing a hearing and an opportunity for a demonstration of his discovery. He was surprised and hurt.

Fortunately, however, meeting Dr. Bland-Sutton, one of the greatest surgeons in England, his difficulties were removed, and the week after his arrival Prof. Jonnesco performed the operation. He was invited to lecture before the Royal Society of Medicine the following afternoon.

Prof. Jonnesco began his experiments in 1908, and soon proved on animals that the mixture of neutral sulphate of strychnine with stovaine in solution gave a perfect anaesthesia without any of the drawbacks of a general anaesthetic. The proportions of the mixture vary with the seat of the puncture and the age and general condition of the patient.

Prof. Jonnesco, in hundreds of operations of all kinds, on all parts of the body from head to foot, and on patients varying in age from 21 months to 75 years, did not find a single instance of the heart or the respiration being affected. He has maintained the condition of analgesia during various periods up to two hours, which was the longest.

Many advantages for this form of analgesia are apparent immediately. One notably is the avoidance of difficulty to the operator from the danger to the patient in operations in the throat when the patient is unconscious, caused by blood interfering with breathing. Prof. Jonnesco's methods enabled him to do without tracheotomy in these cases.

A good example of the completeness of the analgesia and its total lack of bad effect on the patient was given by the professor in his lecture before the Royal Medical College, when he showed on a screen photographs of a surgeon operating on himself. The surgeon is a specialist in hernia living at Jersey, Roumania. He himself developed inguinal hernia, and had a strychnine-stovaine injection and operated on himself before a class of students, to whom he lectured while performing the operation.

Eight days later he removed the stitches, etc., and was perfectly cured. In no case has there been the slightest after ill-effect of stovaine. The man operated on Thursday by Prof. Jonnesco had a headache for a couple of hours at night. Otherwise he was not affected. Prof. Jonnesco will sail for America on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

SAVED BY ROPE

Five Persons Rescued
From Burning House

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—John Noseworthy of 54 Pearl street, Chelsea, lowered his wife and daughter to safety early yesterday morning when his house burned, dropped his baby and four year old boy into their mother's arms, then slid down the rope himself.

Florence, the 14 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noseworthy, arose in the night to take some medicine. She illuminated her path through the rooms with a match, and it is supposed the match set the fire. After Florence had returned to bed, Patrick J. Boyle, a nightman returning to his home at 55 Pearl street, saw the fire. He aroused Noseworthy and the family by banging on their front door.

The tenement has only one exit, and that was completely cut off by the flames. Noseworthy ran to the rear of the house and, seizing a knife, leaped far out of the window and cut a clothes line running from the window to a post in the yard.

With the six foot length of line, Noseworthy first lowered Mrs. Noseworthy as far as the rope would reach and she reached the ground safely. Sadie, 18 months old, was then dropped by Noseworthy into the arms of his wife. Then Ralph, four years old, was dropped and caught in the same manner. Florence was lowered, and then Noseworthy made his way to the ground by hitching one end of the rope to the blind fastening and sliding down.

The house, owned by Jacob Cohen, was damaged to the amount of $200, and Noseworthy's furniture was damaged $500 worth. The Noseworthy family were victims of the Chelsea conflagration of 1908.

TO KILL BARON

Attempt on the Life of Rothschild

BRESLAU, Prussia, Nov. 20.—What appears to have been an attempt upon the life of Baron Aubert Rothschild of Vienna, is reported from Schillersdorf, the Rothschild hunting seat in upper Silesia. A schoolmaster who was on his way to Schillersdorf was stopped by a man who courteously requested the other to deliver a letter to the baron. The schoolmaster consented and had continued on his way when the letter exploded, frightfully injuring the bearer.

THE NICARAGUAN DIFFICULTY.

The action of President Taft in sending two warships to defend the rights of Americans in Nicaragua will be strongly approved by public sentiment throughout this country. There is a revolution in the little republic, and it seems that a de facto president has got the upper hand in the struggle and is now setting out to strengthen his position by executing a lot of the belligerents opposed to him. The latter cannot be regarded as revolutionists in the ordinary sense of the word because they are fighting for the deposed president, in the hopes of restoring him to power.

The fact that President Zelaya has executed two Americans without trial should result in prompt recognition of the opposing belligerents by the United States, thus giving them a standing in international law that would operate to their advantage during the struggle.

There are so many revolutionary and other outbreaks in the Central American republics that it is difficult to keep track of them and difficult to tolerate some of their outrages. It is likely that the offenders in the present case will be taught a severe lesson.

Some months ago the coarse treatment of our minister, Mr. Coolidge, caused his recall, so that we have now no minister in Nicaragua. President Taft has refused to receive any representative of the de facto government, and it is not improbable that as a result of early recognition by the United States, the belligerents opposing Zelaya may be able to recover control.

THE FIRST BOYCOTT.

There may be some people of the rising generation who do not know the origin of "boycotting." The word boycott was added to the English language about twenty-five years ago when the land war was at its height in Ireland. There was a certain Captain Boycott in the west of Ireland who evicted a lot of his tenants and attempted to bring strangers in to occupy the farms thus vacated.

Now, it was a rule of the Land league that nobody should rent a farm from which the tenant had been evicted; and anybody who did so incurred the enmity of the people far and near.

This Captain Boycott had cleared out a lot of tenants and made himself so obnoxious by his deeds of tyranny that the people conspired to ostracize him. They refused to work for him, to speak to him, to have any dealings whatever with him, so that he felt as if he were upon a desert island. He tried to bring servants, laborers and even tenants from a distance, but these were treated same as himself. They too soon tired of the isolation, and from this cause or actual fear they soon left the place.

In the end Capt. Boycott had to give up the fight, and whenever any other landlord made himself obnoxious, the leaders issued the order to "boycott" him. That was the origin of the word, and the term "boycott" therefore originally meant a conspiracy to ostracize socially, to ruin a man's business and drive him out of the community. As applied in labor conflicts in this country it is aimed only at the business of the concern boycotted.

LAST WORD RELATIVE TO CANDIDATES.

The campaign for the nominations now drawing to a close has been one of the most harmonious ever conducted by the democratic party. The five young men who are seeking the mayoralty nomination are to be congratulated upon the clean lines on which they conducted the canvass. It bespeaks victory at the polls; for we are confident that the voters appealed to, and educated as they have been in reference to the essential qualities in the candidate who can win, will nominate the strongest man.

Once again we would remind the democratic voters of the great importance of attending the primaries and voting according to their best judgment for the man who will be most likely to win on election day. The citizens of all parties look to the democratic party on this occasion to redeem this city from a condition of humiliation under which it has suffered during the present year.

The list of candidates to be voted upon at the caucuses includes men for all offices who are eminently qualified to fill the various positions sought. There are weak men and strong men; there are men who can win and men who cannot. It is the duty of the voters to discriminate wisely in casting their ballots, remembering that they are not voting to put a man in any office, but simply selecting a candidate to be put before the voters on election day.

It is the duty of every voter to use his influence in favor of the strongest candidates for all offices. By the "strongest" we mean those men who by training and experience, by their record of public and private honesty and official integrity, whether as public officials or business men, have given proof of their ability to serve the city acceptably in every respect, men who, if elected, will reflect credit upon themselves, their party and the city at large.

We need a new charter, but until we get one our only hope lies in selecting our best men for office. In this way the evils of a defective system will in a measure be overcome, and good government secured in spite of the old charter.

While the people attach the greatest importance to the office of mayor and properly so under present conditions, yet it is very important to select a good aldermanic ticket that will back up the mayor in any reform he may inaugurate. Where the aldermen and common council are of a high standard then the city will have the benefit of progressive ideas and the mayor will find it much easier to carry out the various reforms demanded by the people.

There is a feeling in certain quarters that anybody is good enough for the common council. That is a mistake that should be corrected in the coming primaries. To put a weak man in the common council will reflect discredit upon the democratic party and injure its prospects for the future. Furthermore, the men who serve in the council may be regarded as in training for the position of alderman or some other office. That is another reason why no weak man should be selected for the lower branch of the city council. What is said of the need of good men in the city council may also be said in regard to the school board in which matters affecting the educational interests of the city are to be decided upon. Remember that water does not rise above its own level and neither does education. Men who are not fairly well educated should not be sent to the school board.

SEEN AND HEARD

Sometimes a farmer can raise almost everything on his farm except the mortgage.

Forward children don't always make the smartest men. Some of them are girls, you know.

Men who despise a kicker pay unheeded of prices for tickets to football games.

The man who is confident that he can do anything can usually do three or four things pretty well.

Even if a man has done nothing but his plain duty, he is always pleased to have a little commendation.

There are two kinds of men in this world—those who take off a porous plaster, and those who let it wear off.

Why buy expensive umbrellas? If other people want expensive umbrellas, let them buy them for themselves.

If a man really likes a woman's hat, he doesn't offend her any, no matter how frequently he says so.

"Know thyself" is good advice to follow. Anyhow, try to know yourself as well as the neighbors know you.

It may be true that the girl who has never been kissed doesn't know what she has missed, but she can imagine.

The inmates of the city farm are patiently awaiting the inauguration of a democratic mayor that they may get a good cup of tea.

You wouldn't be any happier if you had your own way all the time. Part of the joy of living comes from having something to complain about.

When a woman goes with her husband to buy him a new suit of clothes, he ought always to try to look as if he liked it.

When does a man really begin to become elderly? Young people think it is somewhere about thirty-five, but every man of sixty-five knows better.

Maybe living is cheaper in Europe than it is over here, but most of us will never know from personal experience.

Government seeds may be sometimes disappointing, but if you scatter seeds of discontent, they are sure to come up in course of time and bear a lot of fruit.

Once in a while a woman has courage enough to say "Yes" when a man takes a cigar out of his pocket, and asks her before lighting it if she objects to smoking.

THE LAST FLY

'Tis the last fly of summer,
All his peckish companions
Have vanished and gone.
Now he lingers with us,
But do his desolation
And grief makes us kind?

Oh, no! We all await him,
Try to fly, at least,
And call on each other
To slaughter the beast.
Our hearts are not tender;
No mercy is shown
To the last fly of summer,

T. & L. COUNCIL

HELD AN IMPORTANT MEETING YESTERDAY

At a regular meeting of the Trades and Labor council, held yesterday, Michael A. Lee was unanimously endorsed as candidate for the board of aldermen. ## PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of William M. Laffan of the N. Y. Sun, the Boston Herald says: "Mr. William M. Laffan, who has dominated the New York Sun for many years, and who has been its controlling personal factor since Mr. Dana's death, was a versatile man, astute in finance, interested in promoting inventions, organizer of a serviceable news bureau, a writer upon the fine arts, a connoisseur in ceramics, and the champion of ultra-conservative views in politics and social evolution. He was a good hater, a hard hater, and maintained the Dana traditions of brilliancy and candor. One of the least lachrymose mourners at his tomb will be ex-President Roosevelt."

When the Washington state legislature passed a law requiring superior and supreme court judges to wear gowns, it made no provision for paying for them. The judges, with one or two exceptions, footed the bills, but Judge Mitchell asked the counties of his district to pay for his gown. One county paid its share, but Thurston county refused, and is now being sued by the judge. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer does not approve Judge Mitchell's course. "The bad aspect of the whole controversy," it says, "is the manifestation of prejudice against the law by judges. The prejudicial man is not judicial in his mental processes and attitude."

Miss Helen Keller's first published verse since her remarkable "Chant of Darknes" will be "The Song of the Stone Wall," a long unrhymed poem, somewhat in the manner of Whitman, which will appear in the Christian Century with a photograph portrait of the writer.

Theodore Roosevelt in his third African article, in the Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine, says: "The English rule in Africa has been of in calculable benefit to Africans themselves and indeed this is true of the whole of Europe. I wish to add my tribute of unstinted admiration for the disinterested and efficient work done, alike in the interest of the white man and the black, by the government officials whom I met in East Africa."

Wilfrid Stevens of Shakopee, Minn., translator in the services of the United States government, has a working knowledge of twenty-odd languages and can converse in as many dialects of various other tongues as may be demanded of him. He knows more diplomatic secrets than any official of the government, with the possible exception of the president and secretary of state. In his capacity of chief translator of the state department he practically reads every secret message that comes to Washington from other governments. When he entered the state department as a translator a little more than five years ago he was familiar with nine languages, and since that time has mastered every language of political importance in the world. Mr. Stevens has recently perfected an entirely original classification of all the Chinese characters, whereby he is able to place his finger instantly on any one of the 13,000 and something which is said to be impossible under any other classification in use.

Miss Alice Fischer traveled all the way from New York to Cheyenne, Wyo., to cast her vote in the recent elections. The trip cost in the neighborhood of $200.

No less competent an authority than G. M. Siemens, editor of the Amsterdam Telegraph, who is now in this country, estimates that Dutch people have invested at the present time in American securities between $150,000,000 to $200,000,000. In preparing this estimate, Siemens among the estimated population of thirty Holland, which is placed around 5,000,000, we find the interesting and startling fact that if the wealth were equally distributed, it would work out at nearly $100 a head for each one of the population, says the Financial World.

SECRETARY KNOX

Says That Nicaragua Will Have to Make Reparations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—After a conference with the president at the White House last night on the Nicaraguan situation, Secretary of State Knox authorized the following statement:

"Certain representations of fact which have been made to the state department concerning the Grace and Cannon case are verified by inquiries that have been made. This government will at once prepare a demand on the Nicaraguan government for reparation for the death of these two men."

For two hours last night President Taft conferred with Secretary Knox on the Nicaraguan situation. The secretary of state, accompanied by Henry Hoyt, counselor of the state department, reached the White House shortly after 9 o'clock. Previous to going to the executive mansion, Mr. Knox held a conference in his home with Asst. Sec. Huntington Wilson.

The secretary carried a formidable array of papers when he entered his carriage to drive to the White House and Counselor Hoyt also carried a bulging portfolio.

The only other event of importance during the day was the dispatch of orders to the transport Buffalo, on duty on the Pacific coast, to sail at once for Panama. The navy department's instructions to the commander of the Buffalo were explicit, and the vessel was expected to set sail last night from Pichelinque Bay, Cal., after taking on adequate supplies of coal and provisions.

This hurried ordering of the Buffalo southward is taken to mean that this government is making ready to set a column of United States marines in the Nicaraguan turmoil for the protection of American lives and property. While the 500 marines are scattered generally over the canal zone they can be quickly concentrated by means of the railroad at Panama where there are military stores and supplies.

Any expedition against Nicaragua in which the marines figure would be undertaken on the Pacific side of the Isthmus. The Buffalo would land the men on the port of Corinto, which is a short forty miles from Managua. The authorities last night insisted that the dispatch of the Buffalo is not to be accepted as meaning that any expedition is to be launched against the delinquent government, but that the vessel is ordered south to be in readiness should occasion suddenly arise.

The Buffalo carries six guns, is of 6888 tons burden and her engines develop 3600 horsepower. The vessel will be carried at topspeed to Panama where on her arrival her commander has been instructed to report immediately to Washington.

PREPARING TO SAIL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Active preparations are being made at the Philadelphia navy yard for the sailing of the cruiser Dixie and Prairie. The latter is expected to depart for Panama on Thanksgiving day with 400 marines. Rumors were current at the yard yesterday that both vessels are destined for Nicaragua but the authorities could not confirm these reports.

Commander Rear Admiral Ulrich B. Harris said that the present sailing orders of the Dixie name Boston and those of the Prairie he said are "as far as we know for Colon in Panama, but of course any change in the intentions of the department may be announced at any time."

Preparations are also being made to prepare the battleships in the yard for their mid-winter cruise which is expected to begin about December 1.

WOMAN KILLED

She Was Murdered for Her Money

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 22.—Miss Ella Smith was murdered for her money and her body was incinerated in the ruins of her home on Bull Run battlefield some time Saturday night. Her charred corpse was discovered in the smoking wreckage of her small house yesterday.

The authorities are looking for a negro who lived close to the Smith house, but who is missing.

Miss Smith received a considerable amount of money within the past few days, the proceeds of the sale of jewelry and other valuables. The house was burned to destroy evidence of the crime. The community is greatly excited by the murder.

GREAT ACTIVITY

In Commercial Conditions in U. S.

The increased commercial activity which has characterized conditions in the United States during the past few months is beginning to make itself apparent in other parts of the world. The records of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, which have during the past several months indicated a marked improvement in both the internal and foreign commerce of the United States, are now showing improved conditions in the foreign commerce of many of the countries of the world.

Argentina's imports in the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a gain of 9 million dollars over the same months of last year; exports a gain of 28 millions. Australia, while showing a slight decline in imports, shows an increase of 7 millions in exports in the first 6 months of 1909 over the corresponding period of 1908. Austria-Hungary for the 7 months ending with July last shows an increase of 18 millions in imports and 2 millions in exports. Belgium for the 8 months ending with August shows a gain of 34 millions in imports and 14 millions in exports. Brazilian imports for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a drop of 8 million dollars, but the exports meantime show an increase of 23 millions. British South Africa shows for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a gain of 6 millions in imports and 11 millions in exports. Canada's imports for the 5 months ending with August, 1909, are 142 million dollars, against 112 millions in the corresponding months of last year; and her exports, 97 million dollars, against 90 millions in the same months of last year. Cuba for the 12 months ending June 30, 1909, shows an increase of 34 million dollars, against 97 millions in the preceding fiscal year; and the exports, 116 millions, against 97 millions last year. Egypt shows, for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a decline of 9 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 6 millions in exports.

France for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, shows an increase of 40 million dollars in imports and of 43 millions in exports. Germany shows, for the 6 months ending in June, 1909, an increase of 47 million dollars in imports and of nearly 3 millions in exports. British India for the 4 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 29 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 30 millions in exports. Italy shows, for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, an increase of 29 million dollars in imports and of 12 millions in exports. Japan for the 7 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 21 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 5 millions in exports. Russia in Europe for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, shows a decline of 1 1/2 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 76 millions in exports.

Sweden for the 8 months ending with June, 1909, shows an increase of 5 million dollars in imports and of 4 millions in exports. The United Kingdom shows for the 9 months ending with September, 1909, imports, 2158 million dollars, against 2121 millions in the same months of 1908; and exports, 1550 millions, against 1530 millions in the corresponding period of last year—an increase in imports but a decline in exports. Imports into the United States in the 10 months ending with October, 1909, the latest period for which figures are available, amounted to 1195 million dollars, against 900 millions in the same months of the preceding year; and exports, 1360 millions, against 1403 millions in the corresponding months of the preceding year; while for the single month of October the figures are, imports, 127 million dollars, against 102 millions in October of last year; and of exports, 139 millions, against 172 millions in the same month of 1908.

These increases in foreign commerce both in the case of the United States and of other countries, while indicating in some degree an increase in quantity of merchandise moved, are in part due to higher prices. Just as lower prices in many articles immediately followed the commercial depression of 1907-8, an advance in prices has in many cases, followed the improved trade conditions of 1909.

PASTOR RESIGNS

From Mt. Vernon Free Baptist Church

Rev. James A. Deodjay, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Free Baptist church has resigned his pastorate there. His letter of resignation was read by him yesterday morning. It was as follows:

On April 25, 1909, I received a call to become pastor of the Mt. Vernon church through the clerk of this corporation.

Upon May 7, 1909, I accepted said call. Believing now that the time has come, when it would be for the best interests of all concerned for me to withdraw the acceptance of the call, I do now withdraw it.

Thanking you for all the kindnesses shown me, while I have been your pastor, I pray the Heavenly Father through His Son, Jesus Christ, that we may be led in the pleasant ways of the Christian life.

Your pastor,
James A. Deodjay.

VALUABLE COLT DEAD

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—Howard, a bay colt, two years old, by Old Fellow-Nimrod, died in his stall in the Peralillo race track yesterday. He was imported from the United States for the $25,000 Mexican derby of 1910 and was held favorite in the future betting on that event. He was owned by George I. Hays, an American banker, who valued the colt at $10,000.

FRANK KRUG DEAD

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—Frank Krug, president of the local iron moulder union, died yesterday from a bullet wound in his head. He was waylaid and shot Saturday night outside a saloon. The police say they know who shot him.

DARING ATTEMPT

To Poison Army Officers in Vienna

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—An extraordinary attempt at wholesale poisoning of military officers here has caused a sensation. A large number of officers, just promoted to be captains in the general staff have received through the mails sample boxes of pills. These were accompanied by a circular recommending them for nervous debility. One of the officers, Captain Mader, took some of the pills and died almost immediately. An autopsy revealed the presence of cyanide of potassium, and that his death was caused by that poison.

A further investigation showed that all the pills contained cyanide of potassium in large quantities, and that many of the first lieutenants attached to the staff, but not promoted did not receive pills. The circulars were signed "Charles Francis", and bore a false address.

All attempts so far to unravel the mystery have failed, and it is suggested that the poison may have been sent out by some disappointed officer, or that the poisoning is an anarchist outrage.

HIGGINS IS SAFE

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A despatch from Funchal, Madeira, says that Eugene Higgins and his friends arrived there well. His yacht Varuna, which went ashore on the northwest coast, cannot yet be approached, as the seas are high and breaking over. The captain says that the yacht was out of her course for some reason unknown, and he maintains that there was a strong and unusual current which carried the vessel into the shoals.

EMERY ELEVATING CARRIAGE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Although the first appropriation for the construction of the so-called Emery 12-inch elevating carriage for the ordnance equipment of the army was made in 1893, the board of ordnance and fortifications in its annual report, made public yesterday states that "so far the government has nothing to show for its expenditure except the foundations for the carriage."

Additional appropriations have been made since 1893, so that the total available for the carriage is given by the board as $114,343, of which amount $206,311 has been paid the contractor, A. H. Emery.

In the latter part of 1908 Mr. Emery constructed a railroad track connecting the site selected for his carriage at Fort Hancock with the Sandy Hook proving ground railroad," says the board. "This was used for the transportation of the material for the construction of the concrete foundations for the carriage. Under the provisions of the act of May 27, 1908, Mr. Emery was paid $5000 on the completion of this work, since which time no further deliveries have been made."

The board states that "all the work on the Emery design has been done under direct legislative enactment and the only part taken, or to be taken by the board in the matter is that when completed the carriage is to be tested under the supervision of the board."

THREE WERE KILLED

Members of a Wedding Party in an Automobile Accident

CUTHBERT, Ga., Nov. 22.—Three members of a wedding party were killed and two probably fatally injured in an automobile accident here late last night. The accident occurred two miles west of this place as the party was returning from Cuthbert to Coleman.

With the purpose of being married, James Sheppard, a brother of the groom, and Miss Mary Mattox, a sister of the bride-to-be, secured an automobile at Fort Gaines late last evening, and were quickly driven to Cuthbert by Curtis Williams. All the Cuthbert ministers refused to marry the couple on account of their youth, neither of them having passed twenty. After being unable to secure the services of a minister, the party left town. Speeding along at a rate of 30 miles an hour and while attempting to light a cigarette, Chauncey Williams lost control of his machine crossing a 30 foot bridge over the Central railroad and the car was totally wrecked.

The chauffeur's neck was broken and death resulted instantly. The two Sheppards died in a few moments. Miss Helen Mattox was severely bruised and her face and arms were badly lacerated. She also received internal injuries. Miss Mary Mattox's injuries are also believed to be fatal. The ladies were removed to a neighboring farmhouse. The bodies of the three men were brought here on a handcar. Williams was 25 years of age and unmarried.

RAISE $150,000 ONE MAN KILLED

The Y.M.C.A. Campaign Begins Friday

Several Others Injured in a Fight

Next Friday in this city and in Lawrence campaigns for the purpose of raising $150,000 for the Y. M. C. A. will be begun and the fact that both cities are to engage in the same work and with the same object in view will add to the interest and enthusiasm. The money raised here will be devoted to the erection of a new building and in Lawrence for a similar purpose. Down in Lawrence they believe that the money can be readily raised and here in Lowell we believe that the amount can be raised quicker than in Lawrence.

The campaigns in both cities will be engineered by Charles S. Ward, the national secretary. He will visit Lowell and Lawrence every day while the campaign is on and will hear all daily reports. The undertaking may look a bit formidable to the ordinary man, but it doesn't jar Mr. Ward because he has engineered half million dollar propositions on the same basis.

The campaign has been fully mapped out and everything is in readiness for a big and vigorous start. Dinner will be served in Prescott hall Friday night and Mr. Ward will be present and from here he will go to Lawrence by automobile in time to attend the dinner there. All of the committees will attend the dinner in Prescott hall and the first gun of the campaign will be fired.

Circulars explaining just what the campaign is for and how it is to be conducted will be issued today and will be obtainable at all of the downtown stores. These circulars may also be obtained at the local Y. M. C. A.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My growth stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. M. G. MORGAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Surely such valuable testimony, therefore, should create confidence in the minds of suffering women.

NORMAN MACK

SEES GOOD CHANCE OF DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Chairman Norman E. Mack of the democratic national committee, in a signed article in the December number of the National Monthly, says that he believes democracy will triumph in the congressional elections next year.

Chairman Mack reviews the outcome of the November elections, and says: "The sugar trust scandals, the temper of the people and the dismembering of the republican party organization, together with the activity of the insurgents, cannot make hopeful the task of the republican candidates in close districts."

It was only a little more than a fortnight ago that announcement was made of the saving of two noted White Mountain waterfalls through the good offices of the Appalachian Mountain club. Now the club's trustees have accepted a gift of a Massachusetts hilltop, together with a mile of approaching woodroads, that one of the best viewpoints in Middlesex county may be forever kept open to the public.

This new reservation is on Gilson Hill in the town of Billerica, and it has been made possible through the generosity of Warren H. Manning of Brookline and John E. Rowell of Billerica. Mr. Manning is a summer resident of Billerica. Some years ago he acquired the old Manning homestead at North Billerica and restored the picturesque house which was one of the noted landmarks of that section. The new proprietor's interest extended beyond the boundaries of his own farm, however, and he soon became a moving spirit in the work of the town's improvement association. As a landscape designer his personal interest naturally centered on the betterment of the roadside trees, the embellishment of the grounds about the schools and other town buildings, and in directing public attention to the need of providing park reservations in anticipation of future requirements. One of his earliest thoughts in this connection was to secure the reservation of Gilson Hill. In this he was heartily supported by two townsmen, the late E. A. Macey and Mr. Rowell. Mr. Macey purchased a large tract of land at that time, including the hilltop, with the intention of dedicating it to the public. Unfortunately he died before he could carry out his intent, but Mr. Manning and Mr. Rowell conspired to fulfill the plan at their expense.

Gilson Hill is situated about two miles northwest of the Billerica station of the Boston & Maine railroad and it is approximately the same distance from North Billerica village. Thus the reservation will serve the two chief centers of population within the town. The hill is not high, being but 520 feet above the sea, but as it stands out by itself with comparatively level surroundings it commands a wide prospect including Wachusett, the Monadnocks, Joe English, and a broad sweep eastward to the sea. On the hill itself some nine acres have been reserved, while in the three 100-foot strips which connect the reservation with the highways on the north, east and south, there are approximately fifteen acres more. The hill and the approaches are largely covered by a growth of hardwood and pine, but under Mr. Manning's supervision the trees will be pruned and thinned with a view to develop the outlook from the summit, and the general attractiveness of the property. Gradually roadways will be developed through the hill, and 100-foot strips, which are so laid out as to wind prettily and naturally through the woods from the old Rangeley road on the north, and the equally ancient Treble Cove road on the south and east. Near the foot of the hill on Mr. Manning's land is a spring, near which one of the early settlers of the town, Gilson by name, built his house. The house has long since disappeared, but the spring and the hill still remain and bear the name of the colonist. Mr. Manning has decided a right of way from the reservation to this spring.

This acquisition of Gilson Hill swells the list of the Appalachian Mountain club's public reservations to 15. Ten of these are in New Hampshire, two in Maine, and three in Massachusetts. All are held under deeds of trust for the benefit of the general public, a board of five trustees managing the properties. In the case of Gilson Hill,

CAVALIER'S HAIR

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the "grand opera" soprano, whom some people call the most famous beauty in the world, had a long article in the New York Sunday American, Jan. 17, 1909, in which she says: "With a lifeless condition of the hair, I have always found two corresponding conditions. Also, the scalp is hot and dry. Also, the hair reveals dandruff—light, fine, and profuse. It is a condition that must be corrected. First to remove the dandruff, for the dandruff must be removed. Hair cannot thrive when that. One light powder lies upon the scalp, obstructing its pores. To rid one's self of it, the hair must be washed, not once, but often. I resolve upon washing it every day for a week." Mme. Cavalieri shows she has learned what most women never learn. She washes her hair and scalp often, while women generally do not do so more than once a month. There is just one way to have beautiful hair, and that is to have a healthy scalp, and there is just one way to have a healthy scalp, and that is to keep it clean, soft, and supple. Common soaps and shampoos won't do, because they contain too much alkali, and make the hair harsh and dry, and the scalp hot and scaly. Tonics and renewers and invigorators won't do either, because they do not cleanse. Burt's Head Wash is the new scientific preparation, is the best thing in the world for cleansing the hair and scalp.

THE MERRIMACK WOMEN'S STORE

ANNOUNCES AN

Important Thanksgiving Offering

200 High Grade

Tailored Winter Suits

At $25.00

This is a chance to buy Winter Suits of Merrimack standard for a lowered price—a sale that is the result of planning to do something "special" just before Thanksgiving time.

It should be understood that not one of these suits is of the ordinary commercial, ready-to-wear sort that wholesale tailors make up to sell the ordinary stores.

Every one of these suits was made expressly for us, and made in the Merrimack way. They were made by those tailors who put together our finest and most costly garments in stock. In fact, in our regular early stocks many suits identical with these have sold for $40.00 and $60.00.

There is enough variety in materials, patterns and colorings, so that every woman will find something that will please her. The special price will be $25.00, and the invitation to buy is especially extended to women who have not yet worn Merrimack garments, and do not yet know how much they are above ordinary standards.

A good range of sizes here today and we believe we will be able to fit most women with but slight alterations.

however, a departure has been made from previous practice, and a compact has been entered into between the club and the Billerica Improvement association, by the terms of which the latter society will maintain the paths and approaches, and in general care for the reservation at its own cost, but under such regulations as the trustees of the club may make.

This arrangement is similar to that made by the English reservation society (the so-called "National Trust") for the maintenance of the great reservations on the Hindhead in Surrey. There a special committee was formed by the local taxpayers, and the funds for the upkeep of the reservation are annually provided by subscription.

It is important to note that the Gilson Hill reservation and its wood roads are destined to form an important link in a carefully studied system of road and riverside reservations for Billerica. This has all been most carefully worked out by Mr. Manning, and arrangements have been made which afford reasonable assurance that some four miles of woodland way will be provided connecting with the Gilson Hill tracts both on the north end and on the south, and leading from Billerica Centre to North Billerica. In short, the general scheme, of which Gilson Hill is but a feature, is an example of how a town may provide itself with a modest park system without the necessity of incurring a bonded debt, provided, of course, that it has a few public spirited citizens who have the judgment to look forward to the probable needs of succeeding generations. It is only one phase of the policy of conservation of natural resources.

Vote for the man who can win at the polls. William H. McElholm is nominated for purchasing agent, will win.

TEWKSBURY

Miss Whittemore, of the State Infirmary, at Tewksbury, was thrown from a horse while riding Saturday and narrowly escaped being seriously injured. The accident was caused by the breaking of a stirrup which allowed her to slip to the ground. She struck on her head and was stunned, but some men who were working nearby rushed to her assistance. Dr. Larabee was summoned and after he had attended her she was removed to her home.

FIGHT ON ROOF

Hundreds Saw Policeman Battle With a Madman

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—For nearly an hour yesterday a policeman and William Lowe of Brooklyn battled with a lunatic on a house top to prevent him from throwing them four stories down an airway. Before the crazy man was overcome 2000 persons were attracted to the scene, and police reserves were called on for help.

The struggle took place at 480 Prospect place, an apartment house. Policeman Noll and Lowe, who lives in the apartment, had as opponent Charles Wygant of 330 Lincoln road, Flatbush. While Lowe was taking his bath yesterday morning his wife called to him that there was a strange man in an apartment on the floor below, and the women living there could not get him to leave.

Clad only in a bath robe and slippers, Lowe went downstairs and found a well dressed young man in the hall. When asked what he was doing there the man said he lived in the flat, and showed a key to prove it. He was told he would have to leave the house. The stranger refused to leave, and Lowe told his wife to get a policeman.

Some one got Lowe's shoes, and while he was putting them on the man ran up another flight of stairs and got out on the roof. Lowe locked the trap door and finished dressing.

Policeman Noll came a few minutes later, and from the sidewalk asked the man on the roof what he was doing there. "Looking for the north pole," was the answer. Noll went to the roof and tried to compel the crazy man to come down. Then the fight began.

Wygant was forcing Noll to the edge of the roof when the policeman called to Lowe for help. Lowe took a hand in the fight, but the lunatic was a match for both. Several times he had them almost to the edge of the roof, and it was only because each time they ran against a chimney that they were saved from a fall.

After the struggle had gone on for nearly half an hour, and the lunatic had ended only his antipathies, some one ran for another policeman, who sent in a call for reserves. A great crowd gathered in the street watching the struggle. The lunatic was getting stronger all the time, while the policemen and Lowe were weakening. Finally all three went down, the policeman under the lunatic, who was choking him, and Mr. Lowe on top. All three rolled to the edge of the roof again and it seemed they would fall off and be killed.

Just then the reserves gained the top of the house and pulled the struggling men back. It took only a moment to overcome Wygant. He was bound hand and foot and carried to the patrol wagon attending maniacal yells. At the Grand avenue police station Wygant said his name was John Sweeney, 92 years old, and that he lived in an airship. Letters found in his pockets established the fact that his name was Wygant and that he lived with an aunt, Mrs. Marietta Clark. He was removed to the Kings county hospital's observation ward. His aunt said he was under a physician's care for some time and had escaped from the house at daybreak. She could not explain how he got the key to the apartment house on Prospect place.

THE SURVIVORS

Of the Steamer St. Croix Landed

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 22.—Famished, nearly exhausted and clad in borrowed clothes the 106 men, women and children passengers on the steamer St. Croix, which was burned and sunk last night off Point Dume arrived yesterday. With them came the 75 members of the crew, likewise exhausted and destitute.

All were brought from Santa Monica by trolley car after the police department and residents of that city had furnished food that broke a fast which for some had lasted 36 hours. The survivors had walked, ridden and made their way to Santa Monica as best they could from the isolated landing place.

Mrs. L. A. Wallace remained at the beach city hospital with her six months old baby. She was severely injured when a davit rope broke and the boat she was in plunged bow first into the sea.

Captain Frederick Warner came into Santa Monica among the last of the shipwrecked through. He described the burning of the vessel and the rescue as follows:

"I was in my cabin when some one ran to my door and shouted, 'Captain, the ship is afire below the second cabin.' I rushed to the first officer, Mr. Miller, in the next cabin to take charge of the watch below and went on the bridge and ordered full speed astern to stop the ship's headway, so as not to fan the flames which I saw bursting out of the after port.

An alarm was sounded. Each man of the crew promptly went to his station. Mr. Miller had five lines of hose rigged. "The ship came to a full stop and the passengers were placed in the boats. Then the first officer of the refrigerated steamer burst and that the vessel was overwhelming his men. The fire was gaining about the second cabin. Apparently it started somewhere in the second cabin, and the powerful draft was drawing it through the shaft alley to the boiler room. Realizing that the fire was spreading, I ordered the men to go to the fire room where they were cleared.

"At no time was there any serious confusion. All the passengers provided themselves with life preservers. Mrs. Wallace afterwards said that she was a life preserver and her baby up after they had fallen overboard. "Boat No. 1 was the first to be filled and I ordered it cast loose. An eye bolt in the stern post drew out and the boat dropped bow first, throwing some of the passengers violently and slightly injuring a few.

B. & M. Conductors to Vote on Question

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—A general meeting of the conductors of every section of the Boston & Maine system who could attend was held yesterday at 164 Canal street to consider, informally, the general proposition now before the various divisions of the order of railway conductors regarding a request for a wage increase and an equalization of hours, and to enforce the demand with a strike if necessary.

The proposition is that decided upon at the recent convention in this city of the eastern association of the general chairmen of the conductors and trainmen's boards of arbitration and adjustment of every one of the railroad systems east of the Mississippi, north of the Chesapeake and Ohio road and including eastern Canada.

That convention decided that it was time for an effort in the east similar to that successfully conducted in the west a couple of years ago.

The wages are lower, the hours longer, and the work more exacting and arduous in the east than in the west, it was then declared, and that an equalization was desired.

Yesterday's proceedings were secret. It was admitted that it was more in the nature of an instructive general meeting than of a formal vote. The proposition is now before the B. & M. conductors' organization for a vote next week.

Labor Conditions Show Marked Improvement

The state bureau of statistics today issues its quarterly bulletin on the state of employment in the organized industries of Massachusetts for the three months ending Sept. 30.

Just 797 unions, with a membership of 113,464, made returns. That number, it is stated, represents about 60 per cent. of the unions and the same per cent. of organized workers.

Just 5451 of the 113,464 members of the 797 unions which reported were idle from all causes on Sept. 30, or 4.30 per cent. The figures show that there has been a return to more normal conditions than have prevailed since the industrial depression of 1907. A total of 616 of the unions, principally the smaller ones, reported no members idle.

But 0.15 per cent. of the members were idle by reason of strikes or lock-outs.

Of the unions reporting, 519, with a membership of 35,356, or 32.27 per cent. of the membership, are located in the 16 largest cities. The percentage of idleness in Salem, Lowell, New Bedford, Lynn, Fall River and Brockton exceeded the percentage for the state as a whole. Holyoke showed the smallest per cent. of idle members, 1.45 per cent. Boston showed 4.13 per cent.

In the building trades, which comprised 20.10 per cent. of the total members reported, the percentage of idleness was 3.05, as compared with 9.34 per cent. at the same time last year. In the boot and shoe manufacturing industry the percentage of idleness was 1.13, as compared with 17.14 at the same time last year.

In the textile industry there was considerable improvement, the percentage of idleness being 5.12, against 6.94 on June 30 of this year and 15.52 on Sept. 30 of last year.

City Clerk and the Registrars Have Everything in Readiness

Preparations for the primaries tomorrow are going on at the city hall today, and the offices of city clerk and registrars of voters were pretty busy places this forenoon. Tomorrow the boxes will be distributed, a policeman to every box.

One of the oldtimers at city hall broke in on a discussion of the primaries to remark that he couldn't see why the polls didn't open at six o'clock in the morning for the primaries just the same as on election day.

"I don't know why the polls shouldn't open till noon except for the fact that they want to keep it as near the old-fashioned caucus as possible. As a matter of fact the primaries represent practically three elections, and in my opinion the polls should open early. It may be that the object was to get the mill people and others in after six o'clock, but it has been my experience that a man who intends to vote will vote, no matter when the polls open or when they close."

Down in the registrars' office four men, old hands in the business, were busy on figures. They were trying to give at the total registration and when the reporter for The Sun left there was a discrepancy of about six votes which the figures were very sure

COLLECTOR LOEB

Conferred With Officials in Washington

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Collector Loeb of New York conferred with the administration officials here today regarding the investigation of the custom house frauds. Mr. Loeb was waiting at the treasury department when Secretary MacVeagh reached his office. Mr. Loeb's characterization of his mission here was a search for "rest." Replying to inquiries, he said that so far as the house cleaning in the New York custom house was concerned it was practically over, but intimated that the surveillance and closer watch over conditions there would be kept up continuously. He intimated that the amount of money already secured from the American Sugar Refining Co. was by no means all that would eventually be recovered.

U. S. Dist. Atty. Wise of New York held a short conference with Atty. Gen. Wickersham and the two almost immediately afterward left for the treasury department where they were soon closeted with Secretary MacVeagh and Collector Loeb.

Lowell Hunting Party Had a Very Successful Trip

Frank B. Kenney, president and manager of the T. C. Entwistle Co., in Market street, and Fred G. Webster, secretary and inspector of the Lowell Board of Underwriters, arrived home Saturday after a hunting trip of two weeks in the Maine woods, and they distinguished themselves by killing the first bull moose to be killed in the Rangeley region for thirteen years. The moose was a monster and carried fine antlers. There were also included in the trophies of the hunt four magnificent buck deer. The bull moose was shot by Mr. Webster and honors were even on the deer.

The hunters were accompanied by their wives and they made their headquarters at a camp of which Mr. Kenney is a part owner. The camp is picturesquely situated at a spot known as Black Point, near upper dam in the Rangeley region. The party enjoyed the trip immensely and feels justly proud of its trophies.

making many speeches and they are not done yet. With the number of candidates, and the excitement attending the campaign the general harmony of the situation has been most remarkable. While each candidate has delivered at least 25 speeches whatever has been said of a personal nature was so little as to be easily overlooked and the primaries are here without any bitter feeling on the part of any of the candidates. Thus the situation gives the democracy great hope for success at the polls.

A SIGHT WORTH SEEING

RIGHT HERE IN LOWELL

In the Merrimack street window of Dows' drug store is a display that is a very forcible reminder of the fact that Lowell is something besides "the Manchester of America," because its manufactures are something besides the products of the loom. The display is a collection of the many pharmaceutical preparations of the C. I. Hood Co. and to look at it is to experience an awakening of local pride. These preparations are so elegant it is not too much to say that pharmacy has reached its highest mark right here in Lowell.

6 O'CLOCK CIVIC FEDERATION

Session Opened by Pres. Lowe in New York Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Men, nationally and internationally prominent in public life and in the industrial world, were present in numbers today when the annual meeting of the National Civic Federation was opened here.

Pres. Lowe in his opening address outlined in general the weighty problems to be discussed by the speakers, the subjects of employers' liability, old age pensions and uniform legislation being well to the fore.

Mr. Lowe laid especial stress on the question of uniform legislation by this states of the Union, urging the co-operation of the federation's membership in forcing the subject upon public attention and securing effective action.

Distinguished foreigners who are here to participate in the deliberations of the federation include A. H. Gill, member of the British parliament, who is expected to speak on employers' liability and old age pensions, and Major Parkowski of the Krupp works at Essen, Germany, here to present the German view of modern industrial problems as they have to do with labor.

of the pathetic shawl-draped women whose watch about the pit mouth has begun each day before the rising of the sun and ended long after midnight. "Cheer up, dear," she whispered. "Didn't I tell you John would come up? There are Scotchmen down there. They will take care of them. When the men get to the ends they will find them waited in ready for another week of it."

Faith in the Scotch miners and their ability to care not only for themselves but their companions, is now held by the mine officials as well as the relatives of those still down in the mine.

Rumors of hearing the voices or signals of living miners from the east gallery which spread about town today were discredited by mine officials. No indication save the absence of the dead from the east gallery has pointed to the existence of other living men.

Reports that the work of attempting to reach miners who still may be alive was being retarded by a diffusion of authority among leaders of the coal company forces and those of the state of Illinois resulted in a serious conference last night. Captain Latimer and Lieut. Garrison, national guardsmen, questioned the manager of the mine. They did not declare that the work was being delayed by factional work but did declare that work was being hampered by a conflict of authority and it is believed Gov. Denton will be asked to appoint a supreme authority at the mine.

Rescuers coming to the surface at noon reported that live rats had been discovered in a newly explored portion of the mine. This increased the hope that the rats came from inmate sections of the cavern where comparative purity still remained and that if the rats could live there, men also could.

An official of the mine declared that if any more men are brought put alive the work would have to be done within 24 hours as the men must necessarily be almost starved. Rats, he said, would be able to live longer because of their ability to find crumbs and scraps of food scattered about from the men's lunches. Dr. L. V. Howe visited today all the survivors who were taken from the mine Saturday and reported them as convalescing but it is still considered inadvisable to give the patients other than the lightest food.

MORE DETAILS

Of the Wreck of Fruit Steamer

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Further details of the wreck of the fruit steamer Avalon, which was driven on the rocks by the high winds at Buff bay, Jamaica, on Nov. 14, were had today when the steamer Joss arrived from Port Antonio with Captain Oland and ten of the crew of the Avalon aboard. Capt. Oland said that the engine broke and the winds left his vessel on the rocks of Buff Bay before assistance could be reached. The Avalon's position became perilous and the crew were sent ashore to sleep in tents that night. Heavy seas began to break over the stranded steamer before morning and the captain left the Avalon when she began to break up.

The last extra dividend was one of 50 per cent declared in November, 1906. The total amount paid in dividends since 1899 is $5,852,240 and the company now has a surplus of $1,834,312. The percentage paid in that year has been 222.33 or 24.7 per cent yearly to investors. The regular dividends are 12 per cent annually payable in February and August.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Because of a typographical error in the wording of the November indictment, the federal grand jury today found a new blanket indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government on alleged false weights of sugar importations against James F. Her presence at Corinto on the Pacific side of Nicaragua was announced to the navy department late yesterday. The little gunboat is in command of Commander Halsestead. ## TY COBB FINED

For Assault on a Night Watchman

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 22.—Ty Cobb, outfielder on the Detroit baseball team, today was fined $100 and costs for assaulting George Stanfield, a night watchman in a hotel on the occasion of the Detroit's team last visit to Cleveland.

When the fine was announced by Judge Vickery, Cobb said he did not have that much money and the execution of judgment was continued to give the ball player an opportunity to obtain funds.

Cobb was indicted on the charge of cutting with intent to wound, following a fight with Stanfield in which the watchman was stabbed, but in criminal court today was allowed to plead guilty to assault and battery. This did away with the necessity of a trial.

ICE TRUST CASE

Attorney for the Co. Opened for the Defense Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The case of the defense in the trial of the American Ice Co. for the alleged violation of the anti-monopoly law was opened in the supreme court today after Justice Wheeler had denied motions to dismiss the indictment except as to one of the three counts which it contained. The charge set aside by the court alleged that the acts of the corporation had been in furtherance of a conspiracy since the incorporation of the American Ice Co. in 1899.

J. B. Stanchfield, attorney for the company, in opening for the defense, declared that he would show that the company had not sought to create a monopoly but to build up a large and legitimate business.

CHILD FATALLY BURNED

TWO KILLED IN FIGHT

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 22.—News of the killing of two men and the wounding of four others Saturday night at a dance near Point Clear, Ala., reached here today. The daughter of Simon Nelson at whose house the dance was held refused to dance with a young man named MacKenzie because she said he had been drinking. He began cursing and the fight resulted. MacKenzie was beaten to death and Bert Pierce was killed by a pistol bullet. The wounded will probably recover.

HEAVIEST EARTHQUAKE YET

SALINAS, Cal., Nov. 22.—The heaviest earthquake recorded here since the shock of April 18, 1906, was felt in this city early today. Buildings rocked and creaked for fifteen seconds and people rushed into the streets. So far as ascertained there was no damage.

NICARAGUAN AFFAIRS

Secretary Knox Preparing to Make a Decisive Move

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The next move in the game played with President Zelaya of Nicaragua will be made by Sec'y Knox and undoubtedly it will be an important and positively a decisive one. Zelaya has killed two Americans, it is believed, in the most summary and brutal manner and it is not expected that he will be permitted to settle at so much a head for these or any other American citizen he may see fit to kill. It is therefore reasonable to believe that something more than compensation for the death of Grace and Cannon will be involved in the next step taken by the state department.

Announcement was made by Assistant Sec'y Wilson that nothing additional had been heard from Nicaragua since yesterday afternoon. It appears that the department is awaiting additional information as to the details of the killing of Grace and Cannon and until that information is obtained by the vice-consul at Managua and cabled to the department here no important developments in the situation are looked for. The state department's action in recognizing the blockade of the port of San Juan del Norte is in effect a recognition of insurgency, but this action in all probability will be followed by what is much more important, recognition of belligerency. Once the belligerency of the insurgent forces is recognized Zelaya would be held to strict accountability for any prisoners he might undoubtedly capture and they would have to see to it that they were treated in every respect as prisoners of war, according to civilized standards. Belligerency would also improve the status of the revolutionary government before the world and at the same time it would measurably increase its responsibility.

DEBATE ON BUDGET

In the House of Lords is Exciting Great Interest

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Not since the peers refused to agree to the Irish home rule bill has public interest in the meeting of the upper house equalled that shown today when the lords met to begin debate on the budget in spite of the fact that the rejection of the budget bill is a foregone conclusion.

Early in the afternoon a crowd gathered outside Westminster palace and formed a long line from the entrance to the public gallery. Seats in the strangers gallery had already been allotted to distinguished visitors, the most of these being reserved for diplomats, many of whom take keen interest in the proceedings. Every seat reserved for women below the bar was occupied.

When the Earl of Crewe rose to move the second reading of the bill every seat in the house was occupied and many members of the commons stood behind the throne. King Manuel of Portugal was an interested spectator from a seat in the ambassadors' gallery from which Whitehall Reid, the American ambassador, also listened to the debate.

The Earl of Crewe formally moved the second reading of the measure without offering a word in support of the budget, which is taken as an indication that the government considered the finance bill a subject in which the house of lords was not concerned.

MINE EXPLORERS

Believe That More Miners Will be Recovered Alive

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 22.—Two explorers in the St. Paul mine found indications today which lead them to believe that there are a large number of living men in the east workings. The searchers at 3 p. m. were able to pass far into the galleries and their hope springs from the fact that where they expected to find a large number of dead, none were found. Nearly two hundred are still unaccounted for, but fell all night. Four of the score or more bodies were lying in the black dump were hoisted up. The gas made it impossible to reach the others although they were in plain view.

HOUSE OF LORDS

Determined to Kill the Budget Bill on November 25

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The United Kingdom is more absorbed in politics now than for many years and the coming week will see the culmination of the fierce warfare which has been carried on over the budget.

The house of lords is expected to vote on Lord Lansdowne's resolution calling for the rejection of the budget Thursday. Before then most of the big guns in the upper house will speak. Lord Rosebery's effort for the conservatives and that of the Earl of Halsbury for the liberals are awaited with the most interest.

Probably the largest number of lords will be mustered for the vote since the rejection of home rule. About 450, many of whom practically are strangers to parliament, are liable to be assembled and not more than one-quarter of these will support the budget.

Most of the politicians predict that when the question goes before the people at the general elections in January it will be impossible to wipe out the great liberal majority and that the liberal government will be returned, but with a comparatively small majority. The betting at Lloyd's is 3 to 1 in favor of the liberals. The liberal leaders declare that the issue is whether the hereditary chamber shall rule the country. The conservatives argue that the house of commons has no mandate from the people to introduce new forms of taxation and that the house of lords is fulfilling its function as a balance on the commons by forcing resort to a referendum.

Conservative gains will be acclaimed as victories for protection. The uncertainty of the country's financial policy is paralyzing the stock exchange and the possibility that the government will have to raise a large loan to meet current expenses makes the money market too uncertain for extensive private enterprises.

SHORTAGE OF $27,000

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—Louis La Beume, national secretary and treasurer of the Travelers Protective Association of America, has resigned and the board of directors yesterday accepted the resignation. A shortage of at least $27,000 it was announced, exists in the books of the order. The directors in accepting La Beume's resignation gave him a vote of confidence and he will continue with the organization in another capacity.

La Beume said last night that the records of William Henschen, head bookkeeper, who committed suicide last July, show a shortage.

DISTRICT JAIL AT WASHINGTON WHERE SHERIFF SHIPP IS HELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Here are two pictures of the district jail at Washington, where Sheriff Shipp of Tennessee is confined by order of the United States supreme court for having permitted a lynching in his county after the prisoner's case had been appealed to the highest tribunal. This jail will come in for further prominence in case Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison are actually confined on the contempt charges now pending against them. The time for the labor leaders to surrender themselves to the United States marshal has been extended to Nov. 23. It is expected that they will then sue out a writ of habeas corpus before some judge of the district supreme court, and should the judge refuse to discharge them the next step would be an appeal to the United States supreme court. No doubt exists of this right of appeal in a habeas corpus case, the same being provided for in the first amendment to the constitution.

BEAUTIFUL GIFT

Rev. Eugene A. Carney Honored by Lowell Friends

Sunday afternoon the officers of the Children of Mary and the immaculate Conception sodalities of St. Michael's parish called on their former director, Rev. E. A. Carney, at St. Patrick's parochial residence, Roxbury. Father Carney has recently been transferred to Roxbury. In behalf of the members of the sodality and his friends in St. Michael's parish, the young women presented him with a substantial check. The children's offering was a handsome chalice, beautifully inscribed. These gifts but faintly voiced the people's appreciation of the beloved priest's labors in our city.

Shortly after his appointment to Lowell, nearly ten years ago, Father Carney organized the Young Ladies' sodality. His fidelity to its interests soon made it the leading parish organization. Quiet and unassuming in his work, the affairs undertaken by the society met with a success that was really phenomenal. Materially and spiritually it became a powerful influence for good and thus Fr. Carney made for himself in less than ten years a record of which men much older in the ministry might feel justly proud.

In the children's societies and in the Sunday school Father Carney's efforts were equally effective. His own faithful attendance at both, his systematic grading of classes in the Sunday school, his keen personal interest in every detail of the work soon showed results in a largely increased membership and in the almost perfect attendance in many of the divisions. A quiet, but effective earnestness and zeal characterized every other phase of his work as well and it is not too much to say that, judging from his earliest efforts, the young priest's success in his chosen career is already assured. While his friends keenly regret his departure they just as sincerely congratulate him on his promotion to one of the most important parishes of the diocese. The good wishes of every member of St. Michael's parish go with him to this wider field. If these wishes are even half realized, he will indeed be blessed.

ELECTROCUTED

Man Murdered Two Children in Utica

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Theodore Rizzo who brutally murdered Theresa Procopio, seven years of age, and Freddie Infusino, two and a half years old, in Utica, N. Y., on Sunday night, Sept. 12, was put to death in the electric chair in Auburn prison at 6.15 o'clock this morning.

The execution was the thirty-sixth to take place here. Three shocks were necessary to kill, the first of two seconds more than a full minute, the next of three seconds, and the third of ten seconds.

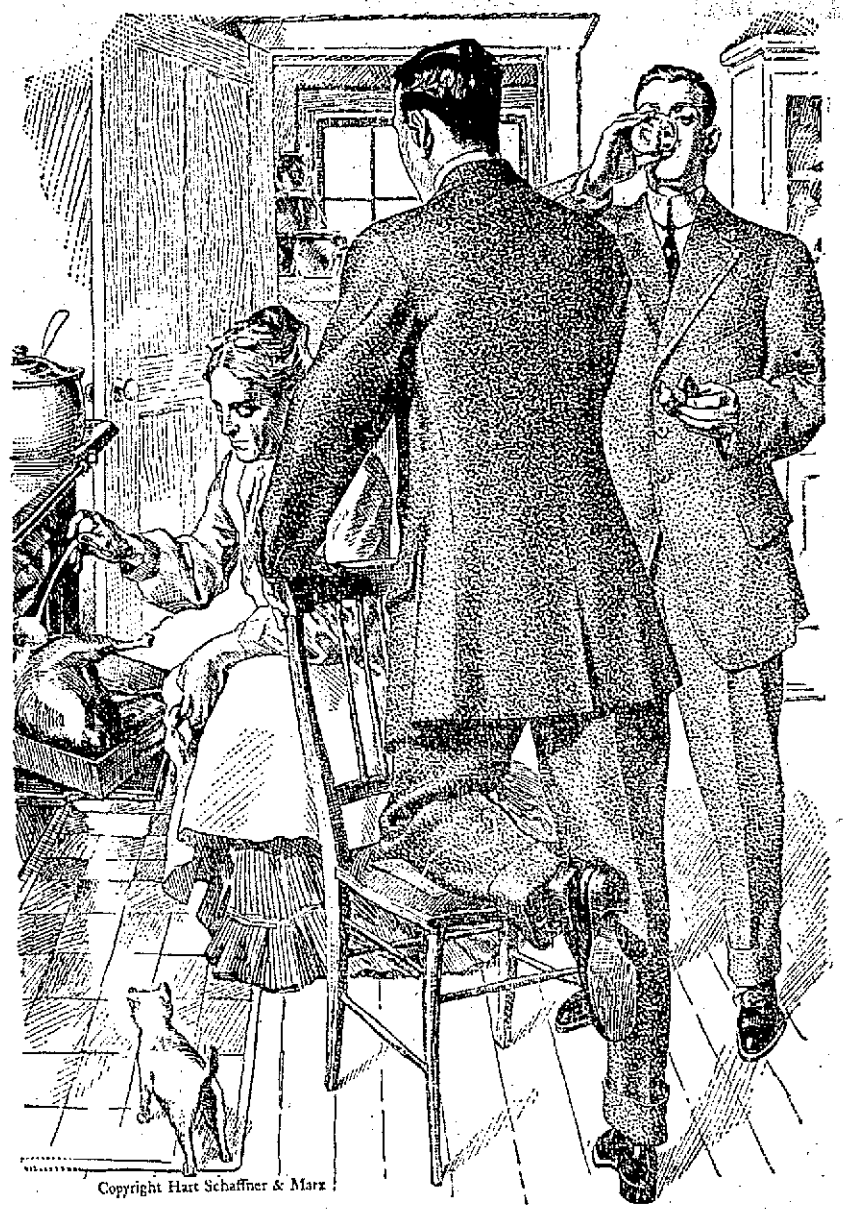

Rizzo died calmly and the prison physicians pronounced the execution successful.

Boston "L" Road Opens New Station

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—With the opening of the Forest Hills branch of the Boston elevated railroad the rapid transit service was further extended today. The new station at Forest Hills is 350 feet long and 75 feet wide. It is equipped with double tracks running between separate platforms for loading and unloading passengers which is a new feature in the elevated system of this city. The new branch runs south from Dudley street, the former terminal, to Forest Hill square, with one way station at Beggs street square. The running time between the new terminal and Dudley street is reduced by the elevated from 20 to 8 minutes. The extension is expected to be of great benefit to the people of Hyde Park and other suburbs as well as the district through which it runs and will bring them closer to the Hub.

HARVARD DEFEATED

Yale Won in Great Struggle in the Stadium

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 21.—The annual income of $100,000 spent for admission tickets represented only a part of the struggle between Harvard and Yale for eastern football championship honors Saturday. Crowds that gathered in the Harvard stadium where the game was played numbered nearly 40,000 people. It was a college assembly not unlike that at class day, although vastly larger. It was intensely enthusiastic and well versed in the mysteries of the game and the relative strength and ability of the teams and the players. It was warmly clothed and gaily decorated. College colors were carried almost universally and crimson and blue flags added lustre to the ranks. Some students in higher mathematics estimated that half a million violets and 50,000 red chrysanthemums contributed to the floral display; that 100,000 cones had given up their lives for furs to keep out the cold. And all to see two swift, agile and sturdy undergraduates trained for the hour and well drilled in football knowledge, run, kick and wrestle for seventy minutes. These chief actors remained well away from the scene until a few hours before the game began. The Harvard team, which has been quietly its nerves and conserving its strength at a suburban hunt club reached Cambridge just before noon for the last lunch at the training table. The Yale team was somewhat later and had lunch in its hotel at Auburn road, starting for the field in automobiles shortly before one o'clock. In the meantime the assembly at the stadium had begun.

The weather was somewhat uncertain. A lazy southerly wind brought up murky conditions, but while the sky did not promise sun, the clouds were thin and the main body of students reached Cambridge shortly after noon. While only one special train was advertised from New Haven over the New Haven system it was found necessary to split the train into six sections and this method was also adopted with the regular trains. The midnight train from New York, due in Boston at 7 a. m., which is usually made up of ten sleeping cars, was run in four sections of twelve sleepers each. Regular trains from New London and Norwich were also split up and rolled into the South station in Boston heavily laden with football enthusiasts.

Over the Boston & Albany division of the New York Central came a special from New York and one from Pittsfield. Each was in two divisions. The Harvard club of New York had a special train of parlor cars. All of the trains on this line stopped at Allston, less than half a mile from the stadium. The demand for accommodations from the north and east of Boston was so great that it was found necessary on the Boston & Maine railroad to run the trains from Maine and New Hampshire in sections.

The excursionists burdened with overcoats and sweaters streamed out of the cars and after snatching a hasty luncheon started for the stadium. At least a third of the arrivals were women. Several of the specials were composed entirely of parlor cars where food and drink held impromptu reunions.

The announced lineup was as follows:

Harvard	Yale
L. Smith	le Kilpatrick
McKinnis	le Hobbs
L. Witherington	le Andrus
P. Witherington	c Cooney
Fisher	rg Corbett
Fish	rt Lilley
Browne	re Savage
O'Flaherty	qb Howe
Corbett	lb Philbin
Leslie	rb Daley
Minot	cb Coy

Both teams were unusually prompt in appearing, Yale running on to the field at 1:45 and Harvard appearing a few minutes later. Five minutes before the fixed time officials and captains met in the centre and after a couple of minutes' discussion the coin was tossed.

Start of Game
Yale won the toss and took the south side of the field and the wind, giving Harvard the kickoff. P. Witherington kicked off to Yale's 35 yard line. It was a purposely short kick, but Yale caught it without gain. There was Harvard interference and it was Yale's ball on their 50 yard line. Lilley was injured and Brooks took his place. A Harvard fumble on the 15 yard line gave Yale the ball. Philbin made three through center and Coy two more. On the third down Coy failed at a try for a field goal from the 10 yard line. Harvard put the ball in play on a scrimmage on the 25 yard line. On the first down there was a fumble but the ball was not lost. Leslie plunged through center for three yards and Philbin fumbled the ball in the center of the field. Fish of Harvard fell on it.

Minot made five yards through center and Corbett circled Yale's end for three more.

On a skin tackle play Leslie made more than his distance and it was Harvard's ball on Yale's 35 yard line. Three similar rushes resulted in slight gains and a Harvard forward pass came outside on Yale's 20 yard line. There was interference, however, and it was Yale's ball on their 40 yard line.

Coy made a long run round his right end but the net gain was only four yards. He kicked on a second down to Harvard's 25 yard line. On a double back Corbett made 25 yards on a dash through Yale's left wing. Leslie was dragged through the Yale team to the center of the field.

Then Fish shook off the Yale team and placed the ball on Yale's 35 yard line. Some of the Harvard players began to hold and the Crimson was sent back to the 60 yard line. Corbett kicked on the first down, but it was Yale's ball on their 35 yard line.

Coy kicked on the first down to Harvard's 35-yard line. Corbett could make no gain round Kilpatrick's end and Leslie only got two yards more on a delayed pass. Minot kicked on the third down to Philbin on Yale's 25-yard line. The ball was nailed there for no gain. Philbin made two yards through right tackle. Coy kicked on the second down to O'Flaherty on Harvard's 20-yard line. For the third time the Harvard back fumbled but recovered the ball. A double pass resulted in no gains. Minot kicked on a second down to Yale's 47-yard line where Philbin was thrown without gain. Up to this point Yale had outkicked Harvard. The Crimson, however, had made more distance in rushing. Coy again kicked outside on Harvard's 30-yard line.

Corbett and Leslie found the Yale line impervious. Minot kicked to Yale's 40 yard line. There was Harvard interference and the ball was Yale's on Harvard's 50 yard line. Daley tried a long run round Yale's left end but was thrown back for a loss. On an inside kick which Cooney caught it was Yale's ball on Harvard's 25 yard line. On the first down Coy plunged through for 8 yards. On the next rush he only got a yard. It was a third down with half a yard to gain. Philbin made more than the needed distance and carried the ball to Harvard's 16 yard line.

Philbin struggled through tackle for a scant yard. Coy could only make two more. On the third down Coy made a second failure at a field goal. Harvard put the ball in play by a scrimmage on their 25 yard line.

Leslie went into the mighty Cooney for three yards. Corbett made seven yards through right tackle. Then the ball was kicked and a discussion of football ethics between Corbett and Kilpatrick. Minot then kicked on a third down to the center of the field.

Coy's forward pass went outside but as there was holding in the Yale line, the ball was brought in and the Blue retained it. Coy kicked on the first down to Harvard's 42-yard line. On the first down Minot made ten yards and then fumbled. Fish, however, was on the spot and rushed the ball into Yale's territory.

Three scrimmages in the centre of the field resulted in no gain. Harvard kicked on the third down to Yale's 35 yard line and Daley ran it back to the 42 yard line. Philbin was thrown back for a loss of seven yards on the first rush and then Coy kicked to O'Flaherty on Harvard's 35 yard line. O'Flaherty for the first time caught the ball, but as he was outside there was no gain. Brooks goes out and Spencer takes his place.

Three Harvard failed to gain on delayed passes. Minot's kick on the third down was blocked. Although the ball went behind the goal line Harvard recovered it. The ball was put in play on Harvard's 25 yard line.

Again the double pass was tried without gain. There was a Harvard penalty which sent the Crimson back to their two yard line. Minot punted out to Harvard's 40 yard line where Philbin made a fair catch.

There Yale tried a punt from placement. Andrus tried for a goal from placement. The kick went over the Harvard goal post, but was brought back for a second trial. On the second trial Andrus kicked low over Harvard's goal line.

The Harvard side heaved a great sigh of relief at the escape. Minot kicked on the third down to the 45-yard line and Philbin ran it back 14 yards.

Coy tried an inside kick on the first down and it was Harvard's ball on the 10 yard line.

On the first down standing on Harvard's 35 yard line Coy kicked a goal from the field.

Three Harvard rushes netted five yards and then the Crimson was sent back nearly to the goal line on a penalty where Minot kicked on the first down to Harvard's 35 yard line, where the ball was kicked.

There was a long discussion on Andrus' kick over Harvard's goal line when a Yale man fell on the ball, and finally the score board announced that it was a Harvard safety and Yale was given two points.

Coy failed at another goal from the field and on the first down Harvard kicked to the center of the field.

Play was resumed by Cooney kicking off to Leslie who ran in back to Harvard's 25 yard line.

After two Harvard rushes with slight gains, time for the first half was called with the ball in Harvard's possession on the 15 yard line.

Score at the end of the first half: Yale 5, Harvard 0.

SUMMARY, FIRST HALF

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 20.—Superior kicking gave Yale an advantage of 5 to 0 in the first half of today's game with Harvard. Two points were gained on a Harvard safety due to a mixup in a Yale kick over. The other three points were on a pretty goal from the field which Coy made standing on Harvard's 35 yard line. The Yale captain's fourth attempt at one of these plays was the greater portion of the half was in Harvard's territory. Nevertheless, the Crimson showed wonderful offensive power and play in the first ten minutes, carrying the ball 53 yards in five rushes. Harvard was twice inside of Yale's 35 yard line and each time was sent back on the penalties. Coy out-punted Minot but at the same time he outkicked his own ends and although the ball was almost invariably muffed by O'Flaherty it was usually recovered. Yale did very little consistent rushing and made only one first down in the first half. The Yale play seemed to be a rush to the Harvard's 25 yard line and then try for a field goal. The half was strung out to nearly one hour.

SECOND HALF

Between the halves it was explained that the Harvard safety came when Minot's kick was blocked and a Harvard man fell on it behind the goal line. The second half started with Cooney kicking off to McKay on Harvard's 20 yard line. The ball was rushed back four yards. Minot kicked on the second down to Yale's 40 yard line and Philbin ran it back four yards. A forward pass on the second down netted five yards and it was Yale's ball on their 52 yard line. Coy kicked on a third down to Harvard's 25 yard line. There was no gain in the run back. Leslie made four yards and then the ball was carried by Leslie dragged to the 40 yard line. Three line plunges only netted three yards and then Harvard carried off successfully an inside kick to Yale's 46 yard line. On the first down Yale was out-side and the ball went on her 41 yard line in Harvard's possession. Frothingham was dragged through for four yards and Minot made five more through center. It was the

STURDY MOLESKIN WARRIORS OF PENN AND CORNELL THAT WILL CLASH IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Although no championship title hinges on the outcome of the game between Cornell and Pennsylvania on Franklin field, Philadelphia, Nov. 25, considerable interest is being taken in the struggle. The game between the two eleven will wind up the football season among the big universities, the annual Army and Navy clash scheduled for Nov. 27 being called off on account of the death of Cadet Byrne. Cornell and Penn are evenly matched this year—in fact, more so than has been the case in many years. Cornell and Penn are the only big eastern eleven that slack up against the westerners annually and who give as near a line as possible on the difference between eastern and western football. Michigan recently defeated the Quakers by a score of 12 to 6. Cornell after being defeated by Harvard the week before, tackled the Chicago eleven and held third down on Yale's 35 yard line. Minot made it a first down on Yale's 29 yard line. Here the Yale line stood firm and Frothingham could gain but a yard and Minot only three more. The ball was on Yale's 25 yard line and Harvard tried an inside kick. The ball went over the goal line for a touch back. The ball was brought out and put in place by Coy on her 35 yard line.

On the first down Coy on a fake kick made 9 yards. On the second play Philbin made a second down on Yale's 42 yard line. Here there came a five-minute pause while the players had their faces sponged and Gosbel had his feet rubbed.

After nine yards had been made Coy kicked to Harvard's 25-yard line. Minot kicked on the third down and it was Yale's ball in the center of the field.

The Harvard line made only six yards in three rushes and Yale kicked to Harvard's 25 yard line. Wigglesworth took O'Flaherty's place.

Minot was dragged and pushed through Yale's line to Harvard's 36 yard line for a first down.

Minot and Frothingham gained nine yards in two rushes and then there came a Harvard penalty which took the ball back to the 35 yard line. Minot kicked out of bounds to the center of the field. After Yale had made 8 yards in three downs Coy kicked to Harvard's 10 yard line.

There was penalty in the second down which sent the ball to within yard of the Harvard goal line. Minot kicked out to Philbin on Harvard's 30 yard line.

Six yards were made in three rushes and then Coy dropped back for another

Maroons down to a tie score of 5 to 6. In the last sixteen years Cornell has won only one game from Penn, that in 1901. In 1906 they played a nothing to nothing tie. During the other fourteen times the eleven have clashed the Quakers have won easily. This season they have an excellent chance of scoring a victory over the Quakers. The team, which was very weak at the start of the season, has improved considerably during the last few weeks. On the other hand, Penn is not nearly as strong as it was in 1903 or 1907. Taken all in all, the struggle looks like an even bet and take your pick. The probable line of the two eleven is as follows: Penn—Bradcock, left end; Fretz, left tackle; Dietrich, left guard; Cozens, centre; Lamberton, right guard; Ferris, right tackle; Large, right end; Miller, quarterback; Sommers, left halfback; Hellman, right halfback; Hutchinson, full-

With Yale's side shouting "touch-down," Philbin made five yards through center and then Coy tried another inside kick, but again it was Harvard's ball on the 15 yard line. A Harvard trick play resulted in a loss of 10 yards and standing behind his own goal line, Minot punted to Harvard's 45 yard line. Again Coy kicked on the third down to Harvard's 13 yard line. Neither Minot nor Frothingham could make the distance in three rushes and an inside kick gave the ball to Yale on Harvard's 29 yard line.

The Yale stands rose and began to sing "Bright College Years." Three rushes however only yielded six yards. On the third down with the ball on Harvard's 35 yard line Captain Coy ten yards further back dropped the ball on the 15 yard line and the score was: Yale 6, Harvard 0.

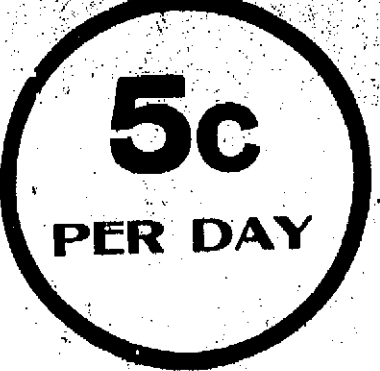

The teams changed sides and Harvard kicked off to Coy, who ran the ball back 15 yards to Yale's 33 yard line.

He kicked on the first and it was Harvard's ball on the Crimson's 32 yard line.

He took Howe's place. Poor rushing and penalties sent Harvard back to the 10 yard line where Minot kicked, where Minot kicked to the 40 yard line. Coy rushed it back 10 yards before he was downed. Coy tried an inside kick on the second down and Frothingham ran it back 10 yards to Harvard's 20 yard line. A penalty sent it back 6 yards on the first rush.

The game ended with the ball in Harvard's possession on the Crimson's 15 yard line.

CORNELL WON CHAMPIONSHIP

BROOKLINE, Nov. 22.—Led by T. S. Berna, Cornell's team easily won the intercollegiate cross country championship over the Massachusetts Institute of Technology course from nine other colleges yesterday. It was Cornell's eighth win in ten years. Technology was second, Michigan third and Yale fourth. The others finished in this order: Dartmouth, Syracuse, Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, Columbia, Princeton. Berna's time was 33.05 1-5, remarkable going for the broken Technology course of six miles. Behind him only one second at the finish was his team-mate Tappan.

The first five men to finish with their times were as follows:
T. S. Berna, Cornell, 33.05 1-5; W. H. Tappan, Cornell, 33.06 1-5; D. C. May, Michigan, 33.15; P. Witherington, Harvard, 33.24; H. Young, Cornell, 33.41.

GIRL IS ACCUSED

Of Having Shot Waltham Man

WALTHAM, Nov. 22.—Up to a late hour last night the police had been unable to find any trace of Hattie LeBlanc, the pretty 17-year-old girl who was accused by her employer, Clarence F. Glover, with his dying breath Saturday night of having shot him twice with his own revolver while the couple were together in the Waltham laundry, which Glover managed and in which he had a controlling interest.

All day until dark last night the metropolitan police dragged the river opposite and below the laundry in the hope of finding the body of the girl, while thousands looked on from the bridge and the banks.

The girl's body was not found, and last night the impression that she did not drown herself is growing stronger. Apparently the only thing on which the theory of suicide by drowning was based was the statement made by Glover an hour or so before his death to the effect that after the LeBlanc girl shot him and ran out of the office of the laundry she turned into the Metropolitan park reservation.

Late yesterday afternoon Police Inspector William P. McKenna received information from an undivided source that Hattie LeBlanc was alive and was going to take the 7 o'clock train out of Boston last evening en route for her old home at W. Arichal, Cape Breton. Inspector McKenna considered the tip important enough to act upon and he went into Boston, accompanied by Mayor Edward A. Walker, in whose employ is Irene LeBlanc, a sister of the missing girl. Mayor Walker knows Hattie LeBlanc through having seen her with Irene, and was depended upon to identify the fugitive, but a search of the train just before it started failed to reveal her.

Clarence F. Glover remained conscious until about a minute before he died at midnight Saturday night in the private hospital of Dr. Nicholas W. Cousens at the corner of Gifford avenue and Crescent street, to which the wounded man had dragged himself, and in his dying statement Glover said that Hattie LeBlanc had shot him without cause. He declined to tell why he and the girl were in the laundry alone at 9 o'clock at night, but he did say that Hattie had shot him with his own revolver.

TOOK HIS LIFE

Suicide Paid Funeral Expenses in Advance

John Wheeler, aged 55 years, committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple at the home of George H. Files, in East Chelmsford, Saturday forenoon, after making complete arrangements for his funeral, even to paying the undertaker.

For some time past he has informed his friends of his intention of ending his life and several months ago went to a local undertaker, made all arrangements for the funeral and paid the bill. He left notes to his relatives and instructions as to the disposal of his body.

About 10 o'clock Saturday morning Mrs. Files went to a neighbor's house, leaving Mr. Wheeler alone in the lower part of the house, apparently in his usual health and spirits. When she returned shortly afterward she heard groans in a room on the second floor and upon investigating found Wheeler lying on his bed, a revolver beside him and a wound in his right temple. Dr. Seabrook was hastily summoned but the aged man was beyond human aid and he died early in the afternoon without regaining consciousness.

Notes of direction were found upon the bureau, together with money to pay the expense of notifying relatives. He leaves one brother, Mbridge Wheeler of Chelmsford, a sister and two daughters living in Melrose.

FAMOUS SURGEON

Operated on Himself

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Prof. Jonnesco, dean of the University of Bucharest, who performed an operation at the St. Mary's hospital Thursday, using the new anaesthetic stovaine, has aroused the deepest interest in British medical circles by the successful demonstration of the possibilities of his discovery. Although a man of the highest standing at home, he came to England without having put himself in connection with any medical association or even an individual medical man of mark. He at first found great difficulty in securing a hearing and an opportunity for a demonstration of his discovery. He was surprised and hurt.

Fortunately, however, meeting Dr. Bland-Sutton, one of the greatest surgeons in England, his difficulties were removed, and the week after his arrival Prof. Jonnesco performed the operation. He was invited to lecture before the Royal Society of Medicine the following afternoon.

Prof. Jonnesco began his experiments in 1905, and soon proved on animals that the mixture of neutral sulphate of strychnine with stovaine in solution gave a perfect anaesthesia without any of the drawbacks of a general anaesthetic. The proportions of the mixture vary with the seat of the puncture and the age and general condition of the patient. Prof. Jonnesco, in hundreds of operations of all kinds, on all parts of the body from head to foot, and on patients varying in age from 21 months to 75 years, did not find a single instance of the heart or the respiration being affected. He has maintained the condition of anaesthesia during various periods up to two hours, which was the longest.

Many advantages for this form of anaesthesia are apparent immediately. One notably is the avoidance of difficulty to the operator from the danger to the patient in operations in the throat when the patient is unconscious, caused by blood interfering with breathing. Prof. Jonnesco's methods enabled him to go without tracheotomy in these cases.

A good example of the completeness of the anaesthesia and its total lack of bad effect on the patient was given by the professor in his lecture before the Royal Medical College, when he showed on a screen photographs of a surgeon operating on himself. The surgeon is a specialist in hernia living at Jassy, Roumania. He himself developed inguinal hernia, and had a strychnine-stovaine injection and operated on himself before a class of students, to whom he lectured while performing the operation.

Eight days later he removed the stitches, etc., and was perfectly cured. In no case yet has there been the slightest after ill-effect of stovaine. The man operated on Thursday by Prof. Jonnesco had a headache for a couple of hours at night. Otherwise he was not affected. Prof. Jonnesco will sail for America on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

SAVED BY ROPE

Five Persons Rescued
From Burning House

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—John Noseworthy of 54 Pearl street, Chelsea, lowered his wife and daughter to safety early yesterday morning while his house burned, dropped his baby and four-year-old boy into their mother's arms, then slid down the rope himself.

Florence, the 14 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noseworthy, arose in the night to take some medicine. She illuminated her path through the rooms with a match, and it is supposed the match set the fire. After Florence had returned to bed, Patrick J. Boyle, a motorman returning to his home at 55 Pearl street, saw the fire. He aroused Noseworthy and the family by banging on their front door.

The tenement has only one exit, and that was completely cut off by the flames. Noseworthy ran to the rear of the house and, seizing a knife, leaped far out of the window and cut a clothes line running from the window to a post in the yard. With the six foot length of line, Noseworthy first lowered Mrs. Noseworthy as far as the rope would reach and she reached the ground safely. Sadie, 18 months old, was then dropped by Noseworthy into the arms of his wife. Then Ralph, four years old, was dropped and caught in the same manner. Florence was lowered, and then Noseworthy made his way to the ground by hitching one end of the rope to the blind fastening and sliding down. The house, owned by Jacob Cohen, was damaged to the amount of $200, and Noseworthy's furniture was damaged $500 worth. The Noseworthy family were victims of the Chelsea conflagration of 1908.

BRESLAU, Prussia, Nov. 22.—What appears to have been an attempt upon the life of Baron Albrecht Rothschild of Vienna, is reported from Schillersdorf, the Rothschild hunting seat in upper Silesia. The schoolmaster consented and had continued on his way when the letter exploded, frightfully injuring the bearer.

THE NICARAGUAN DIFFICULTY.

The action of President Taft in sending two warships to defend the rights of Americans in Nicaragua will be strongly approved by public sentiment throughout this country. There is a revolution in the little republic, and it seems that a de facto president has got the upper hand in the struggle and is now setting out to strengthen his position by executing a lot of the belligerents opposed to him. The latter cannot be regarded as revolutionists in the ordinary sense of the word because they are fighting for the deposed president, in the hopes of restoring him to power.

The fact that President Zelaya has executed two Americans without trial should result in prompt recognition of the opposing belligerents by the United States, thus giving them a standing in international law that would operate to their advantage during the struggle.

There are so many revolutionary and other outbreaks in the Central American republics that it is difficult to keep track of them and difficult to tolerate some of their outrages. It is likely that the offenders in the present case will be taught a severe lesson.

Some months ago the coarse treatment of our minister, Mr. Coolidge, caused his recall, so that we have now no minister in Nicaragua. President Taft has refused to receive any representative of the de facto government, and it is not improbable that as a result of early recognition by the United States, the belligerents opposing Zelaya may be able to recover control.

THE FIRST BOYCOTT.

There may be some people of the rising generation who do not know the origin of "boycotting." The word boycott was added to the English language about twenty-five years ago when the land war was at its height in Ireland. There was a certain Captain Boycott in the west of Ireland who evicted a lot of his tenants and attempted to bring strangers in to occupy the farms thus vacated.

Now, it was a rule of the Land league that nobody should rent a farm from which the tenant had been evicted; and anybody who did so incurred the enmity of the people far and near.

This Captain Boycott had cleared out a lot of tenants and made himself so obnoxious by his deeds of tyranny that the people conspired to ostracize him. They refused to work for him, to speak to him, to have any dealings whatever with him, so that he felt as if he were upon a desert island. He tried to bring servants, laborers and even tenants from a distance, but these were treated same as himself. They too soon tired of the isolation, and from this cause or actual fear they soon left the place.

In the end Capt. Boycott had to give up the fight, and whenever any other landlord made himself obnoxious, the leaders issued the order to "boycott" him. That was the origin of the word, and the term "boycott" therefore originally meant a conspiracy to ostracize socially, to ruin a man's business and drive him out of the community. As applied in labor conflicts in this country it is aimed only at the business of the concern boycotted.

LAST WORD RELATIVE TO CANDIDATES.

The campaign for the nominations now drawing to a close has been one of the most harmonious ever conducted by the democratic party. The five young men who are seeking the mayoralty nomination are to be congratulated upon the clean lines on which they conducted the canvass. It bespeaks victory at the polls, for we are confident that the voters appealed to, and educated as they have been in reference to the essential qualities in the candidate who can win, will nominate the strongest man.

Once again we would remind the democratic voters of the great importance of attending the primaries and voting according to their best judgment for the man who will be most likely to win on election day. The citizens of all parties look to the democratic party on this occasion to redeem this city from a condition of humiliation under which it has suffered during the present year.

The list of candidates to be voted upon at the caucuses includes men for all offices who are eminently qualified to fill the various positions sought. There are weak men and strong men; there are men who can win and men who cannot. It is the duty of the voters to discriminate wisely in casting their ballots, remembering that they are not voting to put a man in any office, but simply selecting a candidate to be put before the voters on election day.

It is the duty of every voter to use his influence in favor of the strongest candidates for all offices. By the "strongest" we mean those men who by training and experience, by their record of public and private honesty and official integrity, whether as public officials or business men, have given proof of their ability to serve the city acceptably in every respect, men who, if elected, will reflect credit upon themselves, their party and the city at large.

We need a new charter, but until we get one our only hope lies in selecting our best men for office. In this way the evils of a defective system will in a measure be overcome, and good government secured in spite of the old charter.

While the people attach the greatest importance to the office of mayor and properly so under present conditions, yet it is very important to select a good aldermanic ticket that will back up the mayor in any reform he may inaugurate. Where the aldermen and common council are of a high standard then the city will have the benefit of progressive ideas and the mayor will find it much easier to carry out the various reforms demanded by the people.

There is a feeling in certain quarters that anybody is good enough for the common council. That is a mistake that should be corrected in the coming primaries. To put a weak man in the common council will reflect discredit upon the democratic party and injure its prospects for the future. Furthermore, the men who serve in the council may be regarded as in training for the position of alderman or some other office. That is another reason why no weak man should be selected for the lower branch of the city council. What is said of the need of good men in the city council may also be said in regard to the school board in which matters affecting the educational interests of the city are to be decided upon. Remember that water does not rise above its own level and neither does education. Men who are not fairly well educated should not be sent to the school board.

SEEN AND HEARD

Sometimes a farmer can raise almost everything on his farm except the mortgage.

Forward children don't always make the smartest men. Some of them are girls, you know.

Men who despise a kicker pay unheeded of prices for tickets to football games.

The man who is confident that he can do anything can usually do three or four things pretty well.

Even if a man has done nothing but his plain duty, he is always pleased to have a little commendation.

There are two kinds of men in this world—those who take off a porous plaster, and those who let it wear off.

Why buy expensive umbrellas? If other people want expensive umbrellas, let them buy them for themselves.

If a man really likes a woman's hat, he doesn't offend her any, no matter how frequently he says so.

"Know thyself" is good advice to follow. Anyhow, try to know yourself as well as the neighbors know you.

It may be true that the girl who has never been kissed doesn't know what she has missed, but she can imagine.

The inmates at the city farm are patiently awaiting the inauguration of a democratic mayor that they may get a good cup of tea.

You wouldn't be any happier if you had your own way all the time. Part of the joy of living comes from having something to complain about.

When a woman goes with her husband to buy him a new suit of clothes, he ought always to try to look as if he liked it.

When does a man really begin to become elderly? Young people think it is somewhere about thirty-five, but every man of sixty-five knows better.

Maybe living is cheaper in Europe than it is over here, but most of us will never know from personal experience.

Government seeds may be sometimes disappointing, but if you scatter seeds of discontent, they are sure to come up in course of time and bear a lot of fruit.

Once in a while a woman has courage enough to say "Yes" when a man takes a cigar out of his pocket, and asks her before lighting it if she objects to smoking.

THE LAST FLY

'Tis the last fly of summer, Left moping alone, All his heavy companions Have vanished and gone. Now he lingers with us, Left lonely behind; But do his desolation And grief makes us kind?

Oh, no! We all swat him, Or try to, at least, And call on each other To slaughter the beast. Our hearts are not tender; No mercy is shown To the last fly of summer, Left moping alone.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of William M. Laffan of the N. Y. Sun, the Boston Herald says: "Mr. William M. Laffan, who has dominated the New York Sun for many years, and who has been its controlling personal factor since Mr. Dana's death, was a versatile man, astute in finance, interested in promoting inventions, organizer of a weekly news bureau, a writer upon the fine arts, a conversant in cranial, and the champion of ultra-conservative views in politics and social evolution. He was a good-hater, a hard hitter, and maintained the Dana traditions of brilliancy and candor. One of the leastlachrymose mourners at his tomb will be ex-President Roosevelt."

When the Washington state legislature passed a law requiring superior and supreme court judges to wear gowns, it made no provision for paying for them. The judges, with one or two exceptions, footed the bill, but Judge Mitchell asked the counties of his district to pay for his gown. One county paid its share, but Thurston county refused, and is now being sued by the judge. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer does not approve Judge Mitchell's course. "The bad aspect of the whole controversy," it says, "is the manifestation of prejudice against the law by judges. The prejudiced man is not judicial in his mental processes and attitude."

Miss Helen Keller's first published verse since her remarkable "Chant of Darkness" will be "The Song of the Stone Wall," a long unrhymed poem, somewhat in the manner of Whitman, which will appear in the Christmas Century with a photographic portrait of the writer.

Theodore Roosevelt in his third African article, in the Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine, says: "The English rule in Africa has been of incalculable benefit to Africans themselves and indeed this is true of the rule of most European nations. It adds my tribute of unfeigned admiration for the disinterested and efficient work done, alike in the interest of the white man and the black, by the government officials whom I met in East Africa."

Wilfred Stevens of Shakopee, Minn., translator in the service of the United States government, has a working knowledge of twenty-old languages and can converse in as many dialects of various other tongues as may be demanded of him. He knows more diplomatic secrets than any official of the government, with the possible exception of the president and secretary of state. In his capacity of chief translator of the state department he practically reads every secret message that comes to Washington from other governments. When he entered the state department as a translator a little over five years ago he was familiar with nine languages, and since that time has mastered every language of political importance in the world. Mr. Stevens has recently perfected an entirely original classification of all the Chinese characters, whereby he is able to place his finger instantly on any one of the 2,000 something which is said to be impossible under any other classification in use.

Miss Alice Fischer traveled all the way from New York to Cheyenne, Wyo., to cast her vote in the recent elections. The trip cost in the neighborhood of $200.

No less competent an authority than G. M. Stearns, editor of the Amsterdam Telegraph, who is now in this country, estimates that Dutch people have invested at the present time in American securities between $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. In proportion this enormous sum among the estimated population of thirty Holland, which is placed around 5,000,000, we find the interesting and startling fact that if the wealth were equally distributed, it would work out at nearly $100 a head for each one of the population, says the Financial World.

RIVAL LAWYERS

In the Standard Oil Dissolution

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The government's success in securing a decision of the United States circuit court for the district of Missouri dissolving the Standard Oil company and declaring it an illegal corporation is largely due to the efforts of Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, who assisted in the case by Charles B.

Morrison of Chicago. The Standard Oil company was represented by a distinguished array of legal talent, headed by John E. Alburn of Buffalo and including David T. Watson of Pittsburgh, Morris Rosenthal of Chicago and John G. Johnson of Philadelphia. The decree of dissolution takes effect in thirty days unless suspended by an appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

At the Opera House tonight a production of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which takes an extraordinary strong cast to present, will be seen. Frederick W. Pierce, in the difficult dual role of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," is complimented by both press and public. An excellent company supports Mr. Pierce. The play tells of the discovery by Dr. Jekyll of a drug which will bring out a second or lower nature; he experiments on himself. While under the influence of the drug he is known as Mr. Hyde, a demon who delights in torturing the helpless. The drug gains such power over him that he is unable to control the transformation from Hyde to Jekyll. The play is one of the best known of the present day, and never fails to interest theatregoers.

"THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER"

"The Convict's Daughter," which will be the attraction at the Opera House tomorrow night, is said to be one of the best presented comedy dramas offered in the theatregoing public, while in incident and theme it is most powerful, every climax breaking with almost volcanic intensity. So much, by way of introduction. To go into the play itself, nothing can be said to detract from its worth. In the entire company, from the actor who interprets the leading role, down to the stage stage boys, there is not one single person who has been negligently selected or unintelligently cast. The climaxes develop quickly and break magnificently while the lighter moments are as rolling as a Sousa march, the sentimental fragments being truly natural and the comedy hits as sparkling as the lights which adorn the stage.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD"

For nearly a quarter of a century Danna Thompson's "The Old Homestead" has been seen in the various cities throughout the country, and the desire to witness it does not seem to show any abatement. It may well be called a problem play, the problem being how to account for the rapidly phenomenal success which it has enjoyed through all the theatrical seasons that have intervened since Mr. Thompson first presented it to the public at the Boston theatre in the spring of 1886. In speaking of the success of his play, recently, Mr. Thompson said he had never doubted what the outcome would be if only he could succeed in convincing the theatregoing public that he was presenting on the mimic stage real live people and not the venerable pictures which our fathers knew in the days of John Owen's "Solon Shilingle," with his "barl of apple sass." And when people began to realize after a while that way back in boyhood days they had known characters like Uncle Josh, Cy, Grim, Seth, Perkins, Aunt Matilda and the rest, they were not slow to come to the conclusion that at last the real Yankee farmer had been transplanted from the New England farm to the stage. "The Old Homestead" became a success from the start, and the reason it is so successful in this, its 24th season, is due to a great extent to the fact that the same attention is paid to detail as at the beginning. "The Old Homestead" comes to the Opera House Wednesday, Nov. 25, matinee and night.

"EAST LYNNE"

"East Lynne," the favorite dramatic vehicle in the past of many famous actors and actresses, and one of the most powerful magnets in the theatrical field today, will be given a notably artistic presentation by Joseph King's New York company at the Opera House, Thursday, Nov. 25. This great drama is one of the real dramatic treats of the season. It will be ably interpreted by the efforts of a carefully selected and well trained dramatic company. Everything required in the way of scenic equipment and accessories has been provided and competent stage direction will insure a smooth and well balanced performance.

"TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM"

The attraction at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday will be Leon W. Washburn's grand production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." This beautiful drama depicts a series of truthful scenes in the course of a drunkard's life. Some of them are touching in the extreme, and some are dark and terrible. Step by step is portrayed the downward course of the tempting vendor and his infatuated victim, until both are involved in hopeless ruin.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This is the week of Thanksgiving, and one of the occasions for giving thanks is the delightful vaudeville program offered at the Hathaway theatre. What is left as an appetizer previous to indulging in turkey, or as dessert subsequent to the enjoyment of the bird, it is equally good, and no pleasure-seeker should miss it. The show is headed by a big novelty, in the appearance of Miss Mabel Bardine and her company, presenting the Chinese dramatic playlet, "Suey San." No act in the varieties has aroused more enthusiasm than this unique playlet, which depicts the secrets of the new famous "Chinese Slave Mystery," that has perplexed the police heads of every important city in the United States. The playlet is powerful in its dramatic intensity and startling climax, and it gives Miss Bardine a wide scope to delight audiences by her clever acting. Her role is that of Suey San, a beautiful Chinese maiden, abducted by a rich man and imprisoned in San Francisco's Chinatown, where she is rescued by the devotion of her lover, Cho Sang. The effectiveness of the playlet is heightened by an elaborate stage setting, representing a street in the Chinese quarter. "The Great Ergott" and his Lilliputians give a wonderful exhibition of Rialley work, and head and hand balancing, and their act should be the acrobatic hit of the season. The two comedians, who take part are handsome little fellows, and they possess extraordinary skill and agility. In his Rialley performance Ergott catches them with unfailing accuracy on his upturned feet when they leap from the top of a high stepladder; there is some startling low-dive work and the finish, in which the midgets sail around, circling over the orchestra, in airships balanced at opposite ends of a pole balanced on Ergott's feet, is very catchy. No name is dearer to vaudeville than that of Gracie Emmett, most lovable of stage old women, and her presentation of the old and new "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband," which will be one of the stellar numbers, is a veritable classic in its art. Her lines sparkle with Celtic wit, the situations are irresistibly comic, and in the occasional serious moments her characterization is handled with skill. "The Merry Wizard" and "That Peculiar Trickster," is a comedy magician who always has something new in his sleeve, and his act is full of amusing surprises. Marron and Heines, "The Minstrel Boys," are as entertaining as a whole blackface troupe, in their vaudeville interpretation of minstrelsy's most pleasing features. An act that is real vaudeville in its versatility and power to interest is supplied by Bert and Lottie Walton, with a bit of acrobatics, singing, dancing and roller skating. Anna Chandler, an excellent comedienne, is another strong feature to the bill. The motion pictures are all new.

"THEATRE VOYONS"

Two feature pictures are offered at the Theatre Voyons today together with other pictures which are new, interesting and the best to be had. "The Great Career" is a French picture acted with an extra special cast and its story of a woman's life history is a dramatic and interesting one. "Up San Juan Hill" tells a story of the Spanish-American war in a manner that is a surprise for one hardly thinks it possible to show such scenes of war with so many actors, artillery and camp outfits as are presented in this picture. Outside of its spectacular features its story is a strong and interesting one that will please everyone. There are other pictures on the bill and one of the best illustrated songs well sung.

Keeato's educated dogs, performing feats which amaze the spectators, and Ted Letell, eccentric comedian, are high priced vaudeville attractions. Today two large audiences attended the shows, consisting of vaudeville, motion pictures and illustrated songs. Fisher and Fisher, the crazy cyclists, in the funniest knockabout act on the American stage, will be at the theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

WATER FAMINE

One Threatened in Bristol Has Been Averted

BRISTOL, R. I., Nov. 22.—All danger of a water famine in Bristol and Warren has been averted through the completion yesterday of the work of laying 3000 feet of mains connecting the pumping station with Echo Lake. It took only four days to lay and connect 3000 feet of water pipe, besides setting up the pump. Continual pumping will now be carried on doubling the amount of water supplied during the past ten days. At one time last week the water supply was so low that the residents of Bristol and Warren were forced to use salt water for washing and large loads of water were brought from Fall River and Providence to supply the boilers of factory engines.

CAR DERAILED

WHILE ON THE WAY TO THIS CITY

A Lowell bound car of the Lowell & Woburn line of the B. & N. was derailed Saturday afternoon near the Talbot mills oval in North Billerica. Owing to the fact that one of the trucks was damaged it was necessary to send for the wrecking crew to replace the car on the rails.

Near the point where the accident occurred is a crossover switch and the other cars used double track from Lowell to this place and single track from here to the Fordway bridge, so that traffic on the Billerica line was not affected to any great extent. The damaged car was brought back to Lowell about midnight.

THE ASTOR YACHT

Has Not Been Located According to Latest Reports

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22.—Mystery still surrounds the whereabouts of the steam yacht Nourmahal with the New York millionaire John Jacob Astor, her owner, and a party of friends on board. Failure of confirmation through Key West this morning by means of the only present intact method of communicating with the West Indian island, the government wireless system, has had the effect of casting doubt on the correctness of the report yesterday received from Curacao which said that the Nourmahal was at San Juan, Nov. 14, and was safely anchored there Nov. 15. Reason for doubting this report is twofold.

In the first place the operator at the government wireless station at San Juan declared early today that he knew nothing of the presence of the Nourmahal there and if she were in port he would doubtless have known it. At the same time the San Juan operator volunteered the information that there was at present a large steam yacht in San Juan harbor but that it belonged to a Cuban. This vessel might easily have been mistaken for the missing Nourmahal.

It is practically certain that no wireless communication will be established by the station here with San Juan during the day. The reported interruption to the cable service to that city may prevent any positive news as to the presence of Mr. Astor's yacht except by wireless. This means that it will be Tuesday morning, some time after midnight, possibly just before daybreak, when the wireless service is at its best that confirmation can be had unless steamships at sea or other stations forward the news.

That the friends of Col. Astor are not sanguine for the safety of the party is indicated by the number of messages sent to the wireless station here inquiring for the yacht and asking for any scrap of information that can be secured. The operator here has been on duty constantly for the last twenty-four hours and has sent calls to every station within the zone affected by the cable. It was shortly after 4 o'clock this morning that the navy wireless men attempted to communicate with the San Juan station. They began by calling the naval station at Guantanamo and asking whether communication could be established with San Juan.

While this question was being asked San Juan station answered but the response came feebly. Later communication with San Juan improved and Key West station was able to send a considerable number of messages addressed to Col. Astor and his friends. The wireless communication continued until shortly before six o'clock when atmospheric conditions destroyed the wireless waves. It is anticipated that the investigation of the wrecked vessel off the north coast of Cuba will be made some time today or early tomorrow morning and an immediate report of the wreck's identity could be made. This vessel is on the shoals just off Elbow Key and will be found easily. Captain Schalkie of the German steamer Wotan is positive that he saw three masts. He was informed that the Nourmahal had only two masts. He immediately said that the vessel he saw was not the Nourmahal. When informed that the Nourmahal had three masts he said that the probability was stronger that it was this vessel. He declared that the masts he saw were not those of a schooner as they were too close together and of smaller shape.

SECY DOBBY'S OPINION
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Word from Tampa, Fla., that the wireless station received no confirmation of the presence of John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Nourmahal in San Juan is regarded by William Dobby, secretary of Col. Astor, as having no significance. The Nourmahal has probably by this time proceeded to some other port, says Mr. Dobby.

"The report made by the Red D line steamship Caracas at Willemstad that the Nourmahal was in San Juan lately" is undoubtedly correct.

WHAT WIRELESS MEN SAY
KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22.—The San Juan Porto Rico wireless station of the government continued communication with the naval wireless station here up to a late hour this morning, but no confirmation of the presence of the steam yacht Nourmahal with the New York millionaire and a party of friends on board was heard from San Juan. The operator at the Porto Rico station, conversed some time with Key West and reported nothing of the Nourmahal's arrival there. The wireless men declare that if the Nourmahal had been at San Juan the wireless men there undoubtedly would have spoken of it.

A SAD SERVICE

Funeral of Miss Mary A. Shanley Today

One of the saddest funeral services that has taken place in a long time at St. Patrick's church was that held this morning over the remains of Miss Mary A. Shanley, the young and talented daughter of Mr. Joseph A. Shanley, who dropped dead while at her studies in the Lowell High school on Friday, for aside from the shocking suddenness of the taking away of one in the charm of girlhood, the blighting of a personality so beautiful, rendered most poignant the grief of all who enjoyed the pleasure of her acquaintance. The deceased was a young Miss of lovable disposition and character, was adored within the family circle, well beloved by her large circle of friends and universally admired at school. Throughout the sad hours prior to the funeral the saddened home was crowded with sorrowing friends, drawn thither to extend their sympathy to the heart-broken family and to breathe the silent tribute of a prayer for the eternal happiness of the departed soul. A wealth of floral tributes nicely and fragrantly bore testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by friends, even far beyond her family and kin. The lengthy funeral cortege left the house of mourning, 26 Phillips street, at 9:30 o'clock, and proceeded to St. Patrick's church, at which the deceased was a devout and constant attendant, where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Joseph Curtin, assisted by Rev. Timothy Callahan, deacon, and Rev. J. A. Fitzgerald, sub-deacon. An unusually large congregation was in attendance at the service, including many of the older families of St. Patrick's parish, of which the family of the deceased have been highly respected members for many years. Among those present from the city were: John and Joseph Shanley of New York, brothers of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welch of Lawrence; Miss T. Faulkner of Laconia, N. H.; Mrs. T. H. Heffernan, Mr. John Heffernan and Miss Ellen M. Francis of Framingham; Mrs. James McManus of New York; Miss Teresa and Annie Smith of Framingham; Mrs. Cassin of Natick; Miss Mary Kirby of Boston; Mrs. John Welch and Miss Julia Welch of Lawrence.

The choir, under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, who also presided at the organ, rendered the Vesper edition of the requiem mass. At the offertory Mr. Andrew A. McCarthy sang "Pie Jesu" from the Gregorian. After the elevation Miss Alice Murphy gave "Pie Jesu" from the Gregorian. At the conclusion of mass the choir rendered "In Paradisum," and as the funeral procession was leaving the church, "The Profundus" was sung. The casket was borne by Messrs. James, John and Joseph Shanley and Mr. John Heffernan. The funeral cortege then proceeded to St. Patrick's cemetery, where the remains were tenderly consigned to their final resting place. Rev. Fr. Curtin read the prayer for the repose of the soul. The interment was in charge of James H. McDermott.

The grave was completely hidden under a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, which included the following: Large cross on base of roses, chrysanthemums and galax leaves inscribed "Our Darling" from the parents; closed book of roses and galax leaves, inscribed "Her Course is Completed" from her brothers, Joe and John; sprays of pink and chrysanthemums from her sisters Theresa and Joanna; star and crescent on base of white roses and giant white gladioli; large cluster chrysanthemums, from teachers and classmates of the Bartlett school, class of 1909; mammoth wreath of pink, maiden hair ferns and galax leaves from Principal Irish and the following assistants at the High school, Mr. Deunett, Mr. Brennan, Miss Vinton, Miss Cassidy, Miss Allen, Miss Ward and Miss Lambert; pillow inscribed "Mary," Misses Sarah, Hannah and Mary Ryan; basket of pink and roses, inscribed "Dear Mary," Mr. and Mrs. James Spiers; spray of 16 double pink chrysanthemums, Mr. John Curt and family; wreath of roses, pink and chrysanthemums, the Misses Tull and large cluster chrysanthemums, Mrs. P. Hogan and family of Natick; spray of white pinks, Master Willie and Miss Katherine Ready; large spray of pink and chrysanthemums, Mr. James McDermott; spray of pink and ferns, Mrs. John Conway; spray of pink, Mrs. Foye; spray of white chrysanthemums, Miss Gladys Crowley, Abington, Mass.; spray of pinks, Misses Grace and Maria Dunn; spray of pinks, James and Michael O'Dougherty; spray of pinks, Miss Mary and Mr. Charles Deehan; spray of pinks, Miss Rita Quinn; spray of chrysanthemums, Miss Annie White; spray of pink, Mr. and Mrs. Whitelend and many others.

Business men, without regard to party, assure William H. McElholm their support at the polls in the event of his nomination. Democrats nominate him and he will win.

THREE WERE KILLED

Members of a Wedding Party in an Automobile Accident

CUTHBERT, Ga., Nov. 22.—Three members of a wedding party were killed and two probably fatally injured in an automobile accident here late last night. The accident occurred two miles west of this place as the party was returning from Cuthbert to Coleman.

With the purpose of being married, James Sheppard, a brother of the groom, and Miss Mary Mattox, a sister of the bride-to-be, secured an automobile at Fort Gaines last evening, and were quickly driven to Cuthbert by Curtis Williams. All the Cuthbert ministers refused to marry the couple on account of their youth, neither of them having passed twenty. After being unable to secure the services of a minister, the party left town. Speeding alone at a rate of 30 miles an hour and while attempting to light a cigarette, Chauffeur Williams lost control of his machine crossing a 30 foot bridge over the Central railroad and the car was totally wrecked.

The chauffeur's neck was broken and death resulted instantly. The two Sheppards died in a few moments. Miss Helen Mattox was severely bruised and her face and arms were badly lacerated. She also received internal injuries. Miss Mary Mattox's injuries are also believed to be fatal. The ladies were removed to a neighboring farmhouse. The bodies of the three men were brought here on a handcar. Williams was 25 years of age and unmarried.

The Y.M.C.A. Campaign Begins Friday Several Others Injured in a Fight

Next Friday in this city and in Lawrence campaigns for the purpose of raising $150,000 for the Y. M. C. A. will be begun and the fact that both cities are to engage in the same work and with the same object in view will add to the interest and enthusiasm. The money raised here will be devoted to the erection of a new building and in Lawrence for a similar purpose. Down in Lawrence they believe that the money can be readily raised and here in Lowell we believe that the amount can be raised quicker than in Lawrence.

The campaign in both cities will be engineered by Charles S. Ward, the national secretary. He will visit Lowell and Lawrence every day while the campaign is on and will hear all daily reports. The undertaking may look a bit formidable to the ordinary man, but it doesn't jar Mr. Ward because he has engineered half million dollar propositions on the same basis.

The campaign has been fully mapped out and everything is in readiness for a big and vigorous start. Dinner will be served in Prescott hall Friday night and Mr. Ward will be present and from here he will go to Lawrence by automobile in time to attend the dinner there. All of the committees will attend the dinner in Prescott hall and the first gun of the campaign will be fired.

Circulars explaining just what the campaign is for and how it is to be conducted will be issued today and will be obtainable at all of the downtown stores. These circulars may also be obtained at the local Y. M. C. A.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOULDER, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we are sure it is genuine. Surely such valuable testimony, therefore, should create confidence in the minds of suffering women.

NORMAN MACK

SEES GOOD CHANCE OF DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS
BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Chairman Norman E. Mack of the democratic national committee, in a signed article in the December number of the National Monthly, says that he believes democracy will triumph in the congressional elections next year.

Chairman Mack reviews the outcome of the November elections, and says: "The sugar trust scandals, the temper of the people and the dissembling of the republican party organization, together with the activity of the insurgents, cannot make hopeful the task of the republican candidates in close districts."

Gilson Hill Presented to Appalachian Club

It was only a little more than a fortnight ago that announcement was made of the saving of two noted White Mountain waterfalls through the good offices of the Appalachian Mountain club. Now the club's trustees have accepted a gift of a Massachusetts hilltop, together with a mile of approaching woodroads, that one of the best viewpoints in Middlesex county may be forever kept open to the public.

This new reservation is on Gilson Hill in the town of Billerica, and it has been made possible through the generosity of Warren H. Manning of Brookline and John E. Rowell of Billerica.

Mr. Manning is a summer resident of Billerica. Some years ago he acquired the old Manning homestead at North Billerica and restored the picturesque house which was one of the noted landmarks of that section. The new proprietor's interest extended beyond the boundaries of his own farm, however, and he soon became a moving spirit in the work of the town's improvement association. As a landscape designer his personal interest naturally centered on the betterment of the roadside trees, the embellishment of the grounds about the schools and other town buildings, and in directing public attention to the need of providing park reservations in anticipation of future requirements. One of his earliest thoughts in this connection was to secure the reservation of Gilson Hill. In this he was heartily supported by two townsmen, the late F. A. Macey and Mr. Rowell. Mr. Macey purchased a large tract of land at that time, including the hilltop, with the intention of dedicating it to the public. Unfortunately he died before he could carry out his intent, but Mr. Manning and Mr. Rowell conspired to fulfill the plan at their expense.

Gilson Hill is situated about two miles northwest of the Billerica station on the Boston & Maine railroad and it is approximately the same distance from North Billerica village. Thus the reservation will connect the two chief centers of population within the town. The hill is not high, being but 320 feet above the sea, but as it stands out by itself with comparatively level surroundings it commands a wide prospect including Wachusett, the Highlands, Joe English, and a broad sweep toward the sea. One of the hill itself some nine acres have been reserved, while in the three 100-foot strips which connect the reservation with the highways on the north, east and south, there are approximately fifteen acres more. The hill and the approaches are largely covered by a growth of hardwood and pine, but under Mr. Manning's supervision the trees will be pruned and thinned with a view to develop the outlook from the summit, and the general attractiveness of the property. Gradually roadways will be developed through the 100-foot strips, which are so laid out as to wind prettily and naturally through the woods from the old Rangeway road on the north, and equally ancient Treble Cove road on the south and east. Near the foot of the hill on Mr. Manning's land is a spring, near which one of the early settlers of the town, Gilson, by name, built his house. The house has long since disappeared, but the spring and the hill still remain and bear the name of the colonist. Mr. Manning has deeded a right of way from the reservation to this spring.

In acquisition of Gilson Hill swells the list of the Appalachian Mountain club's public reservations to 15. Ten of these are in New Hampshire, two in Maine, and three in Massachusetts. These are all held under deeds of trust for the benefit of the general public, a board of five trustees managing the properties. In the case of Gilson Hill,

CAVALIER'S HAIR

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the "grand opera soprano," whom some people call the most famous beauty in the world, has a long article in the New York Sunday American, Jan. 17, 1909, in which she says: "With a lifeless condition of the hair I have always found two corresponding conditions of the scalp. The scalp is hot and dry. Also, the brushing of the scalp is dangerous, and must be profuse. It is a condition that must be corrected. First to remove the dandruff, for the dandruff must be removed. Hair cannot thrive when that fine, light powder lies upon the scalp, obstructing its pores. To rid one's self of it, the hair must be washed, not once, but often. I resolve upon washing it every day for a week." Here Cavalieri shows she has learned what most women never learn. She washes her hair and scalp often, while women generally do not do so more than once a month. There is just one way to have beautiful hair, and that is to have a healthy scalp, and there is just one way to have a healthy scalp, and that is to keep it clean, soft and supple. Common soaps and shampoos won't do, because they contain too much alkali, and make the hair harsh and dry, and the scalp hot and scaly. Tonics and renewers and invigorators won't do either, because they do not cleanse. First the scalp must be kept clean, and the hair in the world for cleansing the hair and scalp.

Important Thanksgiving Offering

200 High Grade

Tailored Winter Suits

At $25.00

This is a chance to buy Winter Suits of Merrimack standard for a lowered price—a sale that is the result of planning to do something "special" just before Thanksgiving time.

It should be understood that not one of these suits is of the ordinary commercial, ready-to-wear sort that wholesale tailors make up to sell the ordinary stores.

Every one of these suits was made expressly for us, and made in the Merrimack way. They were made by those tailors who put together our finest and most costly garments in stock. In fact, in our regular early stocks many suits identical with these have sold for $40.00 and $60.00.

There is enough variety in materials, patterns and colorings, so that every woman will find something that will please her. The special price will be $25.00, and the invitation to buy is especially extended to women who have not yet worn Merrimack garments, and do not yet know how much they are above ordinary standards.

A good range of sizes here today and we believe we will be able to fit most women with but slight alterations.

however, a departure has been made from previous practice, and a compact has been entered into between the club and the Billerica Improvement association, by the terms of which the latter society will maintain the paths and approaches, and in general care for the reservation at its own cost, but under such regulations as the trustees of the club may make.

This arrangement is similar to that made by the English reservation society (the so-called "National Trust") for the maintenance of the great reservations on the Hindhead in Surrey. Where a special committee was formed for the upkeep of the reservation are annually provided by subscription.

It is important to note that the Gilson Hill reservation and its wood roads are destined to form an important link in a carefully studied system of wood road and riverside reservations for Billerica. This has all been most carefully worked out by Mr. Manning, and arrangements have been made which afford reasonable assurance that some four miles of woodland way will be provided connecting with the Gilson Hill tracts both on the north end and on the south, and leading from Billerica Centre to North Billerica. In short, the general scheme, of which Gilson Hill is but a feature, is an example of how a town may provide itself with a modest park system without the necessity of incurring a bonded debt, provided, of course, that it has a few public spirited citizens who have the judgment to look forward to the probable needs of succeeding generations. It is only one phase of the policy of conservation of natural resources.

Vote for the man who can win at the polls. William H. McElholm is nominated for purchasing agent, will win.

TEWKSBURY

Miss Whittemore, of the State infantry, at Tewksbury, was thrown from a horse while riding Saturday and narrowly escaped being seriously injured.

The accident was caused by the breaking of a stirrup which allowed her to slip to the ground. She struck on her head and was stunned, but some men who were working nearby rushed to her assistance. Dr. Larrabee was summoned and after he had attended her she was removed to her home.

SECRETARY KNOX

Says That Nicaragua Will Have to Make Reparations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—After a conference with the president at the White House last night on the Nicaraguan situation, Secretary of State Knox authorized the following statement:

"Certain representations of fact which have been made to the state department concerning the Grace and Cannon case are verified by inquiries that have been made. This government will at once prepare a demand on the Nicaraguan government for reparation for the death of these two men."

For two hours last night, President Taft conferred with Secretary Knox on the Nicaraguan situation. The secretary of state, accompanied by Henry Hoyt, counselor of the state department, reached the White House shortly after 9 o'clock. Previous to going to the executive mansion, Mr. Knox held a conference in his home with Asst. Sec. Huntington Wilson.

The secretary carried a formidable array of papers when he entered his carriage to drive to the White House and Counselor Hoyt also carried a bulging portfolio.

The only other event of importance during the day was the dispatch of orders to the transport Buffalo, on duty on the Pacific coast, to sail at once for Panama. The navy department's instructions to the commander of the Buffalo, were explicit, and the vessel was expected to set sail last night from Funchique Bay, Cal., after taking on adequate supplies of coal and provisions.

This hurried ordering of the Buffalo southward is taken to mean that this government is making ready to set a column of United States marines in the Nicaraguan turmoil for the protection of American lives and property. While the 500 marines are scattered generally over the canal zone they can be quickly concentrated by means of the railroad at Panama where there are military stores and supplies.

Any expedition against Nicaragua in which the marines figure would be undertaken on the Pacific side of the Isthmus. The Buffalo would land the men on the port of Corinto, which is a short forty miles from Managua. The authorities last night insisted that the dispatch of the Buffalo is not to be accepted as meaning that any expedition is to be launched against the Zelayan government, but that the vessel is ordered south to be in readiness should occasion suddenly arise.

The Buffalo carries six guns, is of 3833 tons burden and her engines develop 3600 horsepower. The vessel will be carried at top speed to Panama where on her arrival her commander has been instructed to report immediately to Washington.

PREPARING TO SAIL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Active preparations are being made at the Philadelphia navy yard for the sailing of the cruiser Dixie and Prairie. The latter is expected to depart for Panama on Thanksgiving day with 400 marines. Rumors were current at the yard yesterday that both vessels are destined for Nicaragua but the authorities could not confirm these reports.

Commander Rear Admiral Uriah B. Harris said that the present sailing orders of the Dixie name Boston and those of the Prairie he said are "as far as we know for Colon in Panama, but of course any change in the inter-tions of the department may be announced at any time."

Preparations are also being made to prepare the battleships in the yard for their mid-winter cruise which is expected to begin about December 1.

She Was Murdered for Her Money

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 22.—Miss Ella Smith was murdered for her money and her body was incinerated in the ruins of her home on Bull Run battlefield some time Saturday night. Her charred corpse was discovered in the smoking wreckage of her small house yesterday.

The authorities are looking for a negro who lived close to the Smith house, but who is missing. Miss Smith received a considerable amount of money within the past few days, the proceeds of the sale of poultry, and it is believed she was robbed and murdered and the house burned to destroy evidence of the crime. The community is greatly excited by the murder.

GREAT ACTIVITY

In Commercial Conditions in U. S.

The increased commercial activity which has characterized conditions in the United States during the past few months is beginning to make itself apparent in other parts of the world. The records of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, which have during the past several months indicated a marked improvement in both the internal and foreign commerce of the United States, are now showing improved conditions in the foreign commerce of many of the countries of the world.

Argentina's imports in the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a gain of 9 million dollars over the same months of last year; exports a gain of 28 millions. Australia, while showing a slight decline in imports, shows an increase of 7 millions in exports in the first 6 months of 1909 over the corresponding period of 1908. Austria-Hungary for the 7 months ending with July last shows an increase of 18 millions in imports and 2 millions in exports. Belgium for the 8 months ending with August shows a gain of 34 millions in imports and 14 millions in exports. Brazilian imports for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a drop of 8 million dollars, but the exports meantime show an increase of 23 millions. British South Africa shows for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a gain of 6 millions in imports and 11 millions in exports. Canada's imports for the 5 months ending with August, 1909, are 142 million dollars, against 112 millions in the corresponding months of last year; and her exports 97 million dollars, against 90 millions in the same months of last year. Cuba for the 12 months ending June 30, 1909, shows imports $4 million dollars, against 37 millions in the preceding fiscal year; and the exports, 116 millions, against 97 millions last year. Egypt shows, for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a decline of 4 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 6 millions in exports.

France for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, shows an increase of 40 million dollars in imports and of 48 millions in exports. Germany shows, for the 6 months ending in June, 1909, an increase of 47 million dollars in imports, and of 12 million dollars in exports. British India for the 7 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 20 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 30 millions in exports. Italy shows, for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, an increase of 29 million dollars in imports and of 12 millions in exports. Japan for the 7 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 21 millions in imports, but an increase of 5 millions in exports. Russia in Europe for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, shows a decline of 14 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 75 millions in exports.

Switzerland for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, shows an increase of 5 million dollars in imports and of 4 millions in exports. The United Kingdom shows for the 9 months ending with September, 1909, imports, 2150 million dollars, against 2121 millions in the same months of 1908; and exports, 1350 millions, against 1390 millions in the corresponding period of last year—an increase in imports but a decline in exports. Imports into the United States in the 10 months ending with October, 1909, the latest period for which figures are available, amounted to 1195 million dollars, against 900 millions in the same months of the preceding year; and exports, 1260 millions, against 1403 millions in the corresponding months of the preceding year; while for the single month of October the figures are, imports, 127 million dollars, against 102 millions in October of last year; and of exports, 139 millions, against 172 millions in the same month of 1908.

These increases in foreign commerce both in the case of the United States and of other countries, while indicating in some degree an increase in quantity of merchandise moved, are in part due to higher prices. Just as lower prices in many articles immediately followed the commercial depression of 1907-8, an advance in prices has in many cases, followed the improved trade conditions of 1909.

PASTOR RESIGNS

From Mt. Vernon Free Baptist Church

Rev. James A. Deolay, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Free Baptist church has resigned his pastorate there. His letter of resignation was read by him yesterday morning. It was as follows:

On April 25, 1909, I received a call to become pastor of the Mt. Vernon church through the clerk of this corporation.

Upon May 7, 1909, I accepted said call. Believing now that the time has come, when it would be for the best interests of all concerned for me to withdraw the acceptance of the call, I do now withdraw it.

Thanking you for all the kindnesses shown me, while I have been your pastor, I pray the Heavenly Father through His Son, Jesus Christ, that we may be led in the pleasant ways of the Christian life.

Your pastor,
James A. Deolay.

He was imported from the United States for the $25,000 Mexican derby of 1910 and was held favorite in the future betting on that event. He was owned by George L. Han, an American banker, who valued the colt at $10,000.

DARING ATTEMPT

To Poison Army Officers in Vienna

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—An extraordinary attempt at wholesale poisoning of military officers here has caused a sensation. A large number of officers, just promoted to be captains in the general staff have received through the mails sample boxes of pills. These were accompanied by a circular recommending them for nervous debility. One of the officers, Captain Mader, took some of the pills and died almost immediately. An autopsy revealed the presence of cyanide of potassium, and that his death was caused by that poison.

A further investigation showed that all the pills contained cyanide of potassium in large quantities, and that many of the first lieutenants attached to the staff, but not promoted did not receive pills. The circulars were signed "Charles Francis" and bore a false address.

All attempts so far to unravel the mystery have failed, and it is suggested that the poison may have been sent out by some disappointed officer, or that the poisoning is an anarchist outrage.

HIGGINS IS SAFE

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A dispatch from Funchal, Madeira, says that Eugene Higgins and his friends arrived there well. His yacht, Varuna, which went ashore on the northwest coast, cannot yet be approached, as the seas are high and breaking over. The captain says that the yacht was out of her course for some reason unknown, and he maintains that there was a strong and unusual current which carried the vessel into the shoals.

EMERY ELEVATING CARRIAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Although the first appropriation for the construction of the so-called Emery 12-inch elevating carriage for the ordnance equipment of the army was made in 1893, the board of ordnance and fortifications in its annual report, made public yesterday states that "so far the government has nothing to show for its expenditure except the foundations for the carriage."

Additional appropriations have been made since 1893, so that the total available for the carriage is given by the board as $114,343, of which amount $206,811 has been paid the constructor, A. H. Emery.

In the latter part of 1908 Mr. Emery constructed a railroad track connecting the site selected for his carriage at Fort Hancock with the Sandy Hook proving ground railroad," says the board. "This was used for the transportation of the material for the construction of the concrete foundations for the carriage. Under the provisions of the act of May 27, 1908, Mr. Emery was paid $6000 on the completion of this work, since which time no further deliveries have been made." The board states that "all the work on the Emery design has been done under direct legislative enactment and the only part taken, or to be taken by the board in the matter is that when completed the carriage is to be tested under the supervision of the board."

PRESIDENT TAFT

Prepared to Take Steps in the Nicaraguan Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Strained now, almost to the breaking point it remains for the next few days, perhaps one or two will suffice, to show whether the relations between the United States and Nicaragua are to be snapped off short.

This government has not accepted as facts beyond all contradiction the explanation of Nicaragua touching the execution of Grace and Cannon in that country. Sufficient credit has been given statements that have been made to the department of state to prompt inquiries into the reasons that moved President Zelaya to order the two Americans put to death. Secretary Knox himself is authorized for the statement that a demand for reparation will be made upon Nicaragua should these inquiries develop that allegations touching the death of the Americans are well grounded.

Late last night the secretary declared himself and proceedings in the Nicaraguan affair today will doubtless be along the line of prosecution of the inquiries to ascertain the truth as to Grace and Cannon.

Secretary Knox is acting with the full approval of the president. Mr. Taft has had the Nicaraguan situation presented fully and he is prepared to take any needed steps to bring about a more satisfactory status than now exists.

American ships of war today are speeding toward the shores of Nicaragua. The gunboat Vicksburg will probably arrive at Corinto on the Pacific coast today and the cruiser Des Moines may arrive at about the same time at Port Limon. The Marietta, too, is on her way to the Atlantic coast. The transport Buffalo calling at Pichilique bay, Cal. is under orders for Panama. There a force of 500 marines will board the vessel should orders to that effect be issued. Such orders will doubtless be forthcoming should the two countries not prove able to settle peacefully the issue that has arisen.

STRUCK BY TRAIN TO WED NURSE

Woman is Not Expected to Recover

Wealthy Widower Figures in Romance

HYDE PARK, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Jessie Corcoran Light, widely known as a public singer, was struck by a train at the Hyde Park station yesterday afternoon, while crossing the tracks, and received injuries so severe that she is not expected to live.

She had an engagement to sing at the Readville chapel, and about 2 o'clock left her home on Warren avenue for the station. While waiting for the Readville train she was talking with a friend on the station platform.

She stopped a little too long and when she crossed the tracks to get to the Readville train she was struck by the locomotive of another train and knocked down.

Her skull was fractured and one foot cut off. She was taken to the Emergency hospital here. The doctors state that she has small chance to live.

LYNN, Nov. 22.—A secret which Fred S. Pevear, formerly president of the National City Bank, and Miss Ruth H. Glidden, a nurse connected with a local private hospital, had guarded for several weeks, became known yesterday when it was learned that they are engaged and are to wed soon.

Mr. Pevear is a widower of 67 and has one son, Everett, who figured in a romantic marriage recently. They reside at 21 Henry avenue. Mr. Pevear's father is Henry A. Pevear, a retired morocco merchant, who not long ago celebrated the 50th anniversary of his own marriage. In the Pevear home, located at 150 Washington street.

Henry A. Pevear amassed a fortune in the morocco business and has spent thousands of dollars in charity and philanthropy. In operating the home for orphan boys at Barre, he gave outright $30,000 and spent as much more in purchasing and endowing the "Rest for Weary Mothers and Their Children from the City" at Shirley.

Fred S. Pevear, the son whose engagement has just become known, first met Miss Glidden four years ago when she came to his home to nurse Mrs. Pevear in her last illness. A few months ago Mrs. Henry A. Pevear died and the devotion of the nurse to his mother during the weeks of her sickness won the wealthy widower's heart. Miss Glidden is a Maine girl. She came to Lynn 10 years ago and after her graduation from the Lynn hospital training school entered the private hospital conducted by Dr. William B. Little at 4 Nahant street.

PANIC AT SEA

Was Caused by the Heroism of a Steward

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Heroism on the part of a young steward caused a panic at sea among the 1441 steerage passengers of the Cunard liner Pannonia, which arrived yesterday from Mediterranean ports. When the immigrants were released many of them sought to kiss the man they had threatened three weeks ago.

"Girl overboard!" "There she goes!" shouted a score of steerage passengers on the night of Oct. 30, when a steward rushed to the rail and threw a lighted lamp covered with a long white sheet into the ocean.

A few days after the Pannonia had left Flume one of the passengers was hearing water over an alcohol lamp. A sudden lurch of the vessel tipped over the lamp, which was resting on the edge of the woman's berth, and the sheet took fire. Immediately there was a cry of "Fire!" The steerage passengers began to pick up bibles and beads. Some of them rushed to the upper decks and commenced to pray.

The cry of "Fire!" had been heard by a young steward, who seized the sheet, wrapped it about the lamp, and, running on deck, threw it overboard. Several score of other steerage passengers who knew nothing of the fire, seeing the white sheet, began to shout in their native language: "Girl overboard!"

In an instant a panic followed. The crowd of excited foreigners gathered around the steward and began to threaten him. Several of them tried to strike him. The noise and shouts reached Captain Irvine, who was on the bridge. He then tried his best to calm the frightened passengers. Calling to six sailors and two junior officers, he sent them out in lifeboats and also threw overboard two illuminated buoys. For fully 20 minutes a search was made around the vessel for the supposed girl that had been thrown overboard. Finally an interpreter was secured, who told the steerage passengers the truth.

The steward was thanked by the steerage passengers for his heroism and presented with trinkets which came from different parts of the world. Before the excitement had subsided the ship's doctor announced that Mrs. Julia Kovas, a young woman who was coming here to meet her husband, a farmer in New Jersey, had given birth to a boy. Count Vaya de Vaya Lus-kod, Lord Abbott of St. Martins, who happened to be a passenger on the same vessel, presided at the christening at the request of the steerage passengers. A collection of $250 was made for the new arrival. Mrs. Kovas said she would place the money in a savings institution in the name of her little son and keep it there until he became of age.

Rescued Several Persons From Burning Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—A fire which burned the greater part of the night, causing a loss of $25,000 to $30,000, and which was attended by the thrilling rescue of several women and children, broke out in the Connor and Verette blocks, corner of Elm and Spruce streets, shortly before midnight Saturday.

The fire originated in some unknown manner in the basement of the saloon of Napoleon J. Pischette in the Connor block, a four-story wooden structure with a brick front. The flames made their way through the partitions to the room and spread to the Verette block.

The first floors of both blocks were occupied for business purposes and the three stories above as tenements. Women and children were rescued on ladders by the firemen and police after flames had been cut off by smoke and gases which filled the stairways.

Mrs. Mary Cologne, who had just returned to her home after giving birth to a child in a hospital, was placed on a stretcher, and the stretcher pulled across a ladder from one of the windows in the Connor block to the roof of an adjoining building. Mrs. Cologne's child was rescued by Mrs. Mary Cloutier, one of the occupants of the block, who performed heroic work in aiding the occupants of the tenements to places of safety. Patrolmen John W. and Florence O'Leary and instrumental in removing Mrs. Cologne to a place of safety.

Councilman William Connor of ward 10, with the aid of James Harlan and Dominick O'Garra, raised ladders in a back alley by means of which seven persons escaped. Mr. Connor looks after the plumbing in the blocks, and being familiar with their interior, was able to render valuable service.

The fire burned in the partitions to the top of both buildings. The heaviest damage was done to the grocery and meat store of Moise Verette, which was heavily stocked and occupied the entire first story of Verette block, extending from 609 to 613 Elm street.

Mrs. Cloutier, who rescued the child of Mrs. Cologne, is being mentioned for Carnegie recognition. She wrapped a shawl about her head and then dashed into the burning smoke, picked up the infant and returned with it under her shawl. She brought out the other children in the same manner, feeling her way with her hands on each journey into the building, as she was familiar with the rooms, having made her home in the building for a long time.

The Connor block is owned by Michael Connor, and he was overcome by a suffocating smoke after having entered the building and was carried out by the firemen.

The grocery of James J. Griffin, situated on Spruce street, was filled with smoke and the proprietor suffers some loss.

SCHLEY ANGRY

At the Action of the Ballet

PITTSBURG, Nov. 22.—Admiral Schley and United States Senator Geo. T. Oliver were Saturday night the victims of practical jokers on the stage of the Gaiety theatre.

The joke was a sort of boomerang on the instigators for many of them are today trying to explain to indignant wives why they, too, were the party that slipped wine from a common loquacious cup with chorus girls Saturday night while an audience of 2000 brewed the song, "How Dry I Am."

The admiral and the United States senator were so plainly the victims of a fiendish joke that they have escaped censure and the hero of Santiago was beginning to smile once more when he left for Washington yesterday. There was blood on the moon for a few moments Saturday night, however.

Admiral Schley was the guest of Syrian Temple of the Mystic Shrine all Saturday and Saturday evening when the entire Gaiety theatre had been bought out by the Shriners for a stag night.

One of the features near the end of the show was the presentation of a beautiful loving cup made of armor plate to the admiral. Then they stood on either side of the embarrassed admiral and made signs for him to drink. Admiral Schley finally raised the cup to his lips while the audience broke into "How Dry I Am." Admiral Schley then passed the cup to United States Senator Oliver, who had seemed paralyzed since the ballet descended on them. The senator took his sip, then gallantly passed it to the chorus girls, who in turn passed it to the score of Shriners who had come on the stage with them to assist in the complete embarrassment of Admiral Schley and Senator Oliver.

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Nichol celebrated the third anniversary of their marriage Saturday night at their home in Austin street. Relatives and friends of the couple called and assisted in making the affair a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichol were the recipients of many appropriate gifts. An appetizing supper was served during the evening.

A progressive young business man, William H. McElholm, will give a successful advertisement of the affairs of the purchasing agent's office if elected.

PRETTY HEIRESS

To Become Bride of Blind Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—When Miss Vera MacFarland Moses, whose father is a multi-millionaire, leaves St. Thomas' Church on Dec. 1 as the bride of Edward Matthews Chamberlain, hers will probably be the most pathetic wedding procession that has ever walked down the aisle of that famous church.

The white satin and tulle and orange blossoms, with which she will be arrayed, will be unseen by her husband, although she will lean proudly on his arm.

The childish prattle of the two little flower girls, her niece, Lydia Merrill, and his niece, Edith Clendenin, will be heard by him, but their happy faces, their baskets of posies will count nothing for Mr. Chamberlain, who comes of an old Virginia family, is blind.

The God of Love, however, is also supposed to be sightless, and Miss Moses is happily preparing for her coming marriage to the man of her choice and is planning all the details as thoughtfully, as carefully, as though each would come under his special notice.

The bride-to-be, a beautiful young woman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moses of the Hotel Savoy.

Sec'y MacVeagh Tells How the United States Was Defrauded

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Institution of criminal prosecutions against perpetrator against "sleeper" trunk customs frauds with ramifications in all parts of the country; the pressing of existing indictments to avoid lapses under the statute of limitations and the customs investigation generally were discussed at a conference at the treasury department today. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, Attorney General Wickersham, Collector Loeb of the port of New York, and United States Dist. Atty. Henry Wise of the southern district of New York participated.

Sec'y MacVeagh announced that the $2,000,000 which the American Sugar Refining Co. had paid over to the government on account of evasion of duties was regarded by the government as a complete settlement for all its underweighing frauds but that amount affected no other evasions of duty and in no wise figured as to any other matters, and that the government intended to recover much more money as the result of the frauds the so-called trust had committed.

The conference lasted over two and a half hours. At its end Sec. MacVeagh smilingly referred to the sugar frauds over-shadowing in interest one of the most important phases of the whole affair—frauds by importers bringing in trunks with false bottoms involving losses to the government of

GENERAL WOOD

Criticises the Present
Army System

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—"Oslerization of army officers to a radical degree was recommended to the war department today by Gen. Leonard Wood in command of the department of the coast. He wants an elimination law enacted so that officers above the grade of captain will attain grades of an average of at least ten years younger than at present.

"Our present system," said Gen. Wood, "results generally in the best years of a man's life being spent in a subordinate position and in his reaching a position of responsibility and command at a time when his interest is diminished or gone and his physical and mental energies are in most cases on the wane, in many instances to such an extent as to render him wholly unfit for any large measure of responsibility or hard service of any kind."

He recommended the re-establishment of the cadet at army posts.

THANKSGIVING

Plenty for the Holiday
Dinner

Now for Thanksgiving dinner and what are we going to have? This is the question that confronts the housekeeper, and you can make up your mind "right smart" that whatever you select you'll pay well for, yet prices as a whole, do not show much advance over last year. The following retail prices were gathered this afternoon, and a shortage of turkeys is reported. Yet most of the dealers allowed there would be turkeys enough to go round: Turkey, 26 to 32 cents a pound; chickens, 25; fowl, 22; ducks, 25; geese, 22; celery, Boston market, 15 a bunch; common, 10; lettuce, 5; butter beans, 15; green beans, 10; white turnips, 25 cents a peck; squash, 3 cents a pound; pumpkins, 3 cents a pound; cranberries, 5 to 10 cents a quart, sweet potatoes, 12 pounds for 25 cents; spinach 15 cents a peck; pigeons, $3 a dozen; cucumbers, 8 cents apiece; roast pork, 16 cents a pound; nuts, 15 cents a pound, two pounds for 25 cents; best mixture, 18 cents, two pounds for 35 cents; grapes, Concord, 15 cents a basket; Malaga, 15 to 20c; oranges, 20 to 30 cents a dozen; apples (from 20 to 40 cents a dozen, or 40 to 75 cents a peck; bananas, 30 to 25 cents a dozen.

SHOT BULL MOOSE

Lowell Hunting Party Had a Very Successful Trip

Frank B. Kenney, president and manager of the T. C. Entwistle Co., in Market street, and Fred G. Webber, secretary and inspector of the Lowell Board of Underwriters, arrived home Saturday after a hunting trip of two weeks in the Maine woods and they distinguished themselves by killing the first bull moose to be killed in the Rangely region for thirteen years. The moose was a monster and carried fine antlers. There were also in the trophies of the hunt four magnificent buck deer. The bull moose was shot by Mr. Webber and honors were even on the deer.

The hunters were accompanied by their wives and they made their headquarters at a camp of which Mr. Kenney is a part owner. The camp is picturesquely situated at a spot known as Black Point, near upper dam in the

Session Opened by Pres. Lowe in New York Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Men, nationally and internationally prominent in public life and in the industrial world, were present in numbers today when the annual meeting of the National Civic Federation was opened here.

Pres. Lowe in his opening address outlined in general the weighty problems to be discussed by the speakers, the subjects of employers' liability, old age pensions and uniform legislation being well to the fore.

Mr. Lowe laid especial stress on the question of uniform legislation by the states of the Union, urging the co-ordination of the federation's membership in forcing the subject upon public attention and securing effective action.

Distinguished foreigners who are here to participate in the deliberations of the federation include A. H. Gill, member of the British parliament, who is expected to speak on employers' liability and old age pensions, and Major Perkowski of the Krupp works at Essen, Germany, here to present the German view of modern industrial problems as they have to do with labor.

of the pathetic shawl-draped woman whose watch about the pit mouth has begun each day before the rising of the sun and ended long after midnight. "Cheer up, dear," she whispered. "Didn't I tell you John would come up? There are Scotchmen down there. They will take care of them. When the men get to the ends they will find them walled in ready for another week of it."

Faith in the Scotch miners and their ability to care not only for themselves but their companions, is now held by the mine officials as well as the relatives of those still down in the mine. Rumors of hearing the voices or signals of living miners from the east gallery which spread about town today were discredited by mine officials. No indication save the absence of the dead from the east gallery has pointed to the existence of other living men.

Reports that the work of attempting to reach miners who still may be alive was being retarded by a diffusion of authority among leaders of the coal company forces and those of the state of Illinois resulted in a serious conference last night. Captain Latimer and Lieut. Garrison, national guardsmen, questioned the manager of the mine. They did not declare that the work was being delayed by factional work but did declare that work was being hampered by a conflict of authority and it is believed Gov. Denison will be asked to appoint a supreme authority at the mine.

Rescuers coming to the surface at noon reported that live rats had been discovered in a newly explored portion of the mine. This increased the hope that the rats came from remote sections of the cavern where comparatively pure air remained and that if the rats could live there, men also could.

An official of the mine declared that if any more men are brought out alive the work would have to be done within 24 hours as the men must necessarily be almost starved. Rats, he said, would be able to live longer because of their ability to find crumbs and scraps of food scattered about from the men's lunches. Dr. L. V. Howe visited today all the survivors who were taken from the mine Saturday and reported them as convalescing but it is still considered inadvisable to save the patients other than the lightest food.

Of the Wreck of Fruit Steamer

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Further details of the wreck of the fruit steamer Avalon, which was driven on the rocks by the high winds at Buff Bay, Jamaica, on Nov. 14, were had today when the steamer Joss arrived from Port Antonio with Captain Oland and ten of the crew of the Avalon aboard. Capt. Oland said that the engine broke and the winds left his vessel on the rocks of Buff Bay before assistance could be reached. The Avalon's position became perilous and the crew were sent ashore to sleep in tents that night. Heavy seas began to break over the stranded steamer before morning and the captain left the Avalon when she began to break up.

The par value of the stock is $100 but it has been selling at $332 for some time past. The present capital stock of the company is $2,555,000. The last extra dividend was one of 50 per cent declared in November, 1905. The total amount paid in dividends since 1899 is $5,553,240 and the company now has a surplus of $1,534,312. The percentage paid in that time has been 22.35 or 24.77 per cent, yearly to investors. The regular dividends are 12 per cent, annually payable in February and August.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Because of a typographical error in the wording of the November indictment, the federal grand jury today found a new blanket indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government on alleged false weights of sugar importations against James F. The argument of demurrers on the new indictment will be heard Wednesday.

AMERICAN WARSHIP ARRIVES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The first American warship to arrive in Nicaraguan waters was the gunboat Vicksburg. Her presence at Corinto on the Pacific side of Nicaragua was announced to the navy department late yesterday. The little gunboat is in command of Commander Halstead. She is equipped with six four-inch guns and eight guns of smaller calibre and is said to be in condition to give a good account of herself in any emergency that may arise.

TY COBB FINED

For Assault on a Night Watchman

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 22.—Ty Cobb, outfielder on the Detroit baseball team, today was fined $100 and costs for assaulting George Stanfield, a night watchman in a hotel on the occasion of the Detroit's team last visit to Cleveland.

When the fine was announced by Judge Vickery, Cobb said he did not have that much money and the execution of judgment was continued to give the ball player an opportunity to obtain funds.

Cobb was indicted on the charge of cutting with intent to wound, following a fight with Stanfield in which the watchman was stabbed, but in criminal court today was allowed to plead guilty to assault and battery. This did away with the necessity of a trial.

ICE TRUST CASE

Attorney for the Co. Opened for the Defense Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The case of the defense in the trial of the American Ice Co. for the alleged violation of the anti-monopoly law was opened in the supreme court today after Justice Wheeler had denied motions to dismiss the indictment except as to one of the three counts which it contained. The charge set aside by the court alleged that the acts of the corporation had been in furtherance of a conspiracy since the incorporation of the American Ice Co. in 1899.

J. B. Stanchfield, attorney for the company, in opening for the defense, declared that he would show that the company had not sought to create a monopoly but to build up a large and legitimate business.

TWO KILLED IN FIGHT

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 22.—News of the killing of two men and the wounding of four others Saturday night at a dance near Point Clear, Ala., reached here today. The daughter of Simon Nelson at whose house the dance was held refused to dance with a young man named MacKenzie because she said he had been drinking. He began cursing and the fight resulted. MacKenzie was beaten to death and Bert Pierce was killed by a pistol bullet. The wounded will probably recover.

HEAVIEST EARTHQUAKE YET

Secretary Knox Preparing to Make a Decisive Move

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The next move in the game being played with President Zelaya of Nicaragua will be made by Secretary Knox and undoubtedly it will be an important and positively a decisive one. Zelaya has killed two Americans. It is believed, in the most summary and brutal manner and it is not expected that he will be permitted to settle at so much as a head for these or any other American citizen he may see fit to kill. It is therefore reasonable to believe that something more than compensation for the death of Grace and Cannon will be involved in the next step taken by the state department.

Announcement was made by Assistant Sec'y Wilson that nothing additional had been heard from Nicaragua since yesterday afternoon. It appears that the department is awaiting additional information as to the details of the killing of Grace and Cannon and until that information is obtained by the vice-consul at Managua, and called to the department here no important developments in the situation are looked for. The state department's action in recognizing the blockade of the port of San Juan del Norte is in effect a recognition of insurgency, but this action in all probability will be followed by what is much more important, recognition of belligerency. Once the belligerency of the insurgent forces is recognized Zelaya would be held to strict accountability for any prisoners he might undoubtedly capture and he would have to see to it that they were treated in every respect as prisoners of war, according to civilized standards. Belligerency would also improve the status of the revolutionary government before the world and at the same time it would measurably increase its responsibility.

DEBATE ON BUDGET

In the House of Lords is Exciting Great Interest

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Not since the peers refused to agree to the Irish home rule bill has public interest in the meeting of the upper house equaled that shown today when the lords met to begin debate on the budget in spite of the fact that the rejection of the budget bill is a foregone conclusion.

Early in the afternoon a crowd gathered outside Westminster palace and formed a long line from the entrance to the public gallery. Seats in the strangers gallery had already been allotted to distinguished visitors, the most of these being reserved for diplomats, many of whom take keen interest in the proceedings. Every seat reserved for women below the bar was occupied.

When the Earl of Crewe rose to move the second reading of the bill every seat in the house was occupied and many members of the commons stood behind the throne. King Manuel of Portugal was an interested spectator from a seat in the ambassadors' gallery from which Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, also listened to the debate.

The Earl of Crewe formally moved the second reading of the measure without offering a word in support of the budget, which is taken as an indication that the government considered the finance bill a subject in which the house of lords was not concerned.

MINE EXPLORERS

Believe That More Miners Will be Recovered Alive

CHERRY, Ill., Nov. 22.—Two explorers in the St. Paul mine found indications today which lead them to believe that there are a large number of living men in the east workings. The searchers at 3 p. m. were able to pass far into the galleries and their hope springs from the fact that where they expected to find a large number of dead, none were found. Nearly two hundred are still unaccounted for. Rain fell all night. Four of the severe or more bodies seen lying in the black damp were hoisted up. The gas made it impossible to reach the others although they were in plain view.

HOUSE OF LORDS

Determined to Kill the Budget Bill on November 25

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The United Kingdom is more absorbed in politics now than for many years and the coming week will see the culmination of the fierce warfare which has been carried on over the budget.

The house of lords is expected to vote on Lord Lansdowne's resolution calling for the rejection of the budget Thursday. Before then most of the big guns in the upper house will speak. Lord Rosebery's effort for the conservatives and that of the Earl of Halsbury for the liberals are awaited with the most interest.

Probably the largest number of lords will be mustered for the vote since the rejection of home rule. About 450, many of whom practically are strangers to parliament, are liable to be assembled and not more than one-quarter of these will support the budget.

Most of the politicians predict that when the question goes before the people at the general elections in January it will be impossible to wipe out the great liberal majority and that the liberal government will be returned, but with a comparatively small majority. The betting at Lloyd's is 3 to 1 in favor of the liberals. The liberal leaders declare that the issue is whether the hereditary chamber shall rule the country. The conservatives argue that the house of commons has no mandate from the people to introduce new forms of taxation and that the house of lords is fulfilling its function as a balance on the commons by forcing resort to a referendum.

Conservative gains will be acclaimed as victories for protection. The uncertainty of the country's financial policy is paralyzing the stock exchange and the possibility that the government will have to raise a large loan to meet current expenses makes the money market too uncertain for extensive private enterprises.

SHORTAGE OF $27,000

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—Louis La Beaume, national secretary and treasurer of the Travelers Protective Association of America, has resigned and the board of directors yesterday accepted the resignation. A shortage of at least $27,000 it was announced, exists in the books of the order. The directors in accepting La Beaume's resignation gave him a vote of confidence and he will continue with the organization in another capacity.

La Beaume said last night that the records of William Henschen, head bookkeeper, who committed suicide last July, show a shortage.

DISTRICT JAIL AT WASHINGTON WHERE SHERIFF SHIPP IS HELD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Here are two pictures of the district jail at Washington, where Sheriff Shipp of Tennessee is confined by order of the United States supreme court for having permitted a lynching in his county after the prisoner's case had been appealed to the highest tribunal. This jail will come in for further prominence in case Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison are actually confined on the contempt charges now pending against them. The time for the labor leaders to surrender themselves to the United States marshal has been extended to Nov. 29. It is expected that they will then sue out a writ of habeas corpus before some judge of the district supreme court, and should the judge refuse to discharge them the next step would be an appeal to the United States supreme court. No doubt exists of this right of appeal in a habeas corpus case, the same being provided for in the first amendment to the constitution.

BEAUTIFUL GIFT

Rev. Eugene A. Carney Honored by Lowell Friends

Sunday afternoon the officers of the Children of Mary and the Immaculate Conception societies of St. Michael's parish called on their former director, Rev. E. A. Carney, at St. Patrick's parochial residence, Roxbury. Father Carney has recently been transferred to Roxbury. In behalf of the members of the sodality and his friends in St. Michael's parish, the young women presented him with a substantial check. The children's offering was a handsome gift, beautifully inscribed. These gifts but faintly voiced the people's appreciation of the beloved priest's labors in our city.

Shortly after his appointment to Lowell, nearly ten years ago, Father Carney organized the Young Ladies' sodality. His fidelity to its interests soon made it the trading parish organization. Quiet and unassuming in his work, the affairs undertaken by the society met with a success that was really phenomenal. Materially and spiritually it became a powerful influence for good and thus Fr. Carney made for himself in less than ten years a record of which men much older in the ministry might feel justly proud.

In the children's societies and in the Sunday school Father Carney's efforts were equally effective. His own faithful attendance at both his systematic grading of classes in the Sunday school, his keen personal interest in every detail of the work soon showed results in a largely increased membership and in the almost perfect attendance in many of the divisions. A quiet, but effective earnestness and zeal characterized every other phase of his work as well and it is not too much to say that, judging from his earliest efforts, the young priest's success in his chosen career is already assured. While his friends keenly regret his departure they just as sincerely congratulate him on his promotion to one of the most important parishes of the diocese. The good wishes of every member of St. Michael's parish go with him to this wider field. If these wishes are even half realized, he will indeed be blessed.

Man Murdered Two Children in Utica

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Theodore Rizzo who brutally murdered Theresa Procopio, seven years of age, and Freddie Infusino, two and a half years old, in Utica, N. Y., on Sunday night, Sept. 12, was put to death in the electric chair in Auburn prison at 6:15 o'clock this morning.

The execution was the thirty-sixth to take place here. Three shocks were necessary to kill, the first of two seconds more than a full minute, the next of three seconds, and the third of ten seconds.

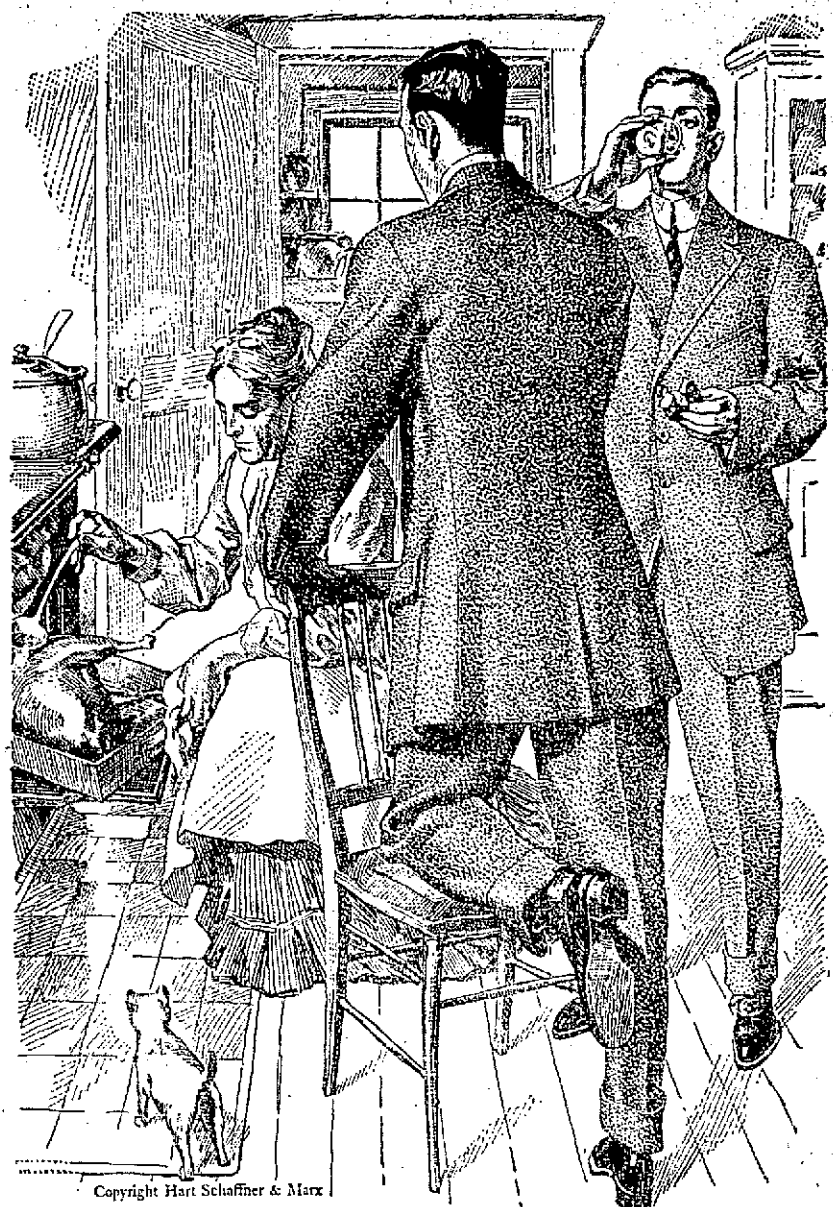

Rizzo died calmly and the prison physicians pronounced the execution successful.

Boston "L" Road Opens New Station

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—With the opening of the Forest Hills branch of the Boston elevated railroad the rapid transit service was further extended today. The new station at Forest Hills is 360 feet long and 75 feet wide. It is equipped with double tracks running between separate platforms for loading and unloading passengers which is a new feature in the elevated system of this city. The new branch runs south from Dudley street, the former terminal, to Forest Hill square, with one way station at Egginton square. The running time between the new terminal and Dudley street is reduced by the elevated from 20 to 8 minutes. The extension is expected to be of great benefit to the people of Hyde Park and other suburbs as well as the district through which it runs and will bring them closer to the hub.

FAMOUS SURGEON

Operated on Himself

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Prof. Jonnesco, dean of the University of Bucharest, who performed an operation at the St. Men's hospital Thursday, using the new anaesthetic stovaine, has aroused the deepest interest in British medical circles by the successful demonstration of the possibilities of his discovery. Although a man of the highest standing at home, he came to England without having put himself in connection with any medical association or even an individual medical man of mark. He at first found great difficulty in securing a hearing and an opportunity for a demonstration of his discovery. He was surprised and hurt.

Fortunately, however, meeting Dr. Bland-Sutton, one of the greatest surgeons in England, his difficulties were removed, and the week after his arrival Prof. Jonnesco performed the operation. He was invited to lecture before the Royal Society of Medicine the following afternoon.

Prof. Jonnesco began his experiments in 1903, and soon proved on animals that the mixture of neutral sulphate of strychnine with stovaine in solution gave a perfect analgesia without any of the drawbacks of a general anaesthetic. The proportions of the mixture vary with the seat of the puncture and the age and general condition of the patient.

Prof. Jonnesco, in hundreds of operations of all kinds, on all parts of the body from head to foot, and on patients varying in age from 21 months to 75 years, did not find a single instance of the heart or the respiration being affected. He has maintained the condition of analgesia during various periods up to two hours, which was the longest.

Many advantages for this form of analgesia are apparent immediately. One notably is the avoidance of difficulty to the operator from the danger to the patient in operations in the throat when the patient is unconscious, caused by blood interfering with breathing. Prof. Jonnesco's methods enabled him to do without tracheotomy in these cases.

A good example of the completeness of the analgesia and its total lack of bad effect on the patient was given by the professor in his lecture before the Royal Medical College, when he showed on a screen photographs of a surgeon operating on himself. The surgeon is a specialist in hernia living at Jassy, Roumania. He himself developed inguinal hernia, and had a strychnine-slovaline injection and operated on himself before a class of students, to whom he lectured while performing the operation.

Eight days later he removed the stitches, etc., and was perfectly cured. In no case yet had there been the slightest after ill-effect of stovaine. The man operated on Thursday by Prof. Jonnesco had a headache for a couple of hours at night. Otherwise he was not affected. Prof. Jonnesco will sail for America on the steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

SAVED BY ROPE

Five Persons Rescued
From Burning House

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—John Noseworthy of 54 Pearl street, Chelsea, lowered his wife and daughter to safety early yesterday morning while his house burned, dropped his baby and four-year-old boy into their mother's arms, then slid down the rope himself.

Florence, the 14 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noseworthy, arose in the night to take some medicine. She illuminated her path through the rooms with a match, and it is supposed the match set the fire. After Florence had returned to bed, Patrick J. Boyle, a motorman returning to his home at 58 Pearl street, saw the fire. He aroused Noseworthy and the family by banging on their front door.

The tenement has only one exit, and that was completely cut off by the flames. Noseworthy ran to the rear of the house and, seizing a knife, leaped far out of the window and cut a clothes line running from the window to a post in the yard.

With the six foot length of line, Noseworthy first lowered Mrs. Noseworthy as far as the rope would reach and she reached the ground safely. Sadie, 18 months old, was then dropped by Noseworthy into the arms of his wife. Then Ralph, four years old, was dropped and caught in the same manner. Florence was lowered, and then Noseworthy made his way to the ground by fastening one end of the rope to the blind fastening and sliding down. The house, owned by Jacob Cohen, was damaged to the amount of $200, and Noseworthy's furniture was damaged $500 worth. The Noseworthy family were victims of the Chelsea conflagration of 1908.

TO KILL BARON

Rothschild

BRESLAU, Prussia, Nov. 22.—What appears to have been an attempt upon the life of Baron Albrecht Rothschild of Vienna, is reported from Scyllersdorf, the Rothschild hunting seat in upper Silesia. A schoolmaster who was on his way to Scyllersdorf was stopped by a man who courteously requested the other to deliver a letter to the baron. The schoolmaster consented and had continued on his way when the letter exploded, frightfully injuring the bearer.

STATE PAYS BACK

The balances due the city of Lowell and the towns in the vicinity are as follows: Due Lowell, $30,286.46; Billerica, $8179.68; Braintree, $602.70; Tewksbury, $2062.00; Tyngsboro, $229.70; Westford, $6346.48; Andover, $24,128.64; Chelmsford, due the commonwealth, $667.66.

Eventually You'll Buy a Crawford Why Not Now?

Almost every day someone comes in to exchange other makes of ranges for a Crawford; in some cases they have had their stove for only a few months, but are so dissatisfied with it that they want to change it for a Crawford. Of course, they have to lose a good deal on the price they paid for this range. Why not buy a Crawford in the first place and know you have the best? They always give satisfaction. You're always proud to say you have a Crawford Range. Everybody knows you have the best when you say you have a Crawford Range.

THE NICARAGUAN DIFFICULTY.

The action of President Taft in sending two warships to defend the rights of Americans in Nicaragua will be strongly approved by public sentiment throughout this country. There is a revolution in the little republic, and it seems that a de facto president has got the upper hand in the struggle and is now setting out to strengthen his position by executing a lot of the belligerents opposed to him. The latter cannot be regarded as revolutionists in the ordinary sense of the word because they are fighting for the deposed president, in the hopes of restoring him to power.

The fact that President Zelaya has executed two Americans without trial should result in prompt recognition of the opposing belligerents by the United States, thus giving them a standing in international law that would operate to their advantage during the struggle.

There are so many revolutionary and other outbreaks in the Central American republics that it is difficult to keep track of them and difficult to tolerate some of their outrages. It is likely that the offenders in the present case will be taught a severe lesson.

Some months ago the coarse treatment of our minister, Mr. Coolidge, caused his recall, so that we have now no minister in Nicaragua. President Taft has refused to receive any representative of the de facto government, and it is not improbable that as a result of early recognition by the United States, the belligerents opposing Zelaya may be able to recover control.

THE FIRST BOYCOTT.

There may be some people of the rising generation who do not know the origin of "boycotting." The word boycott was added to the English language about twenty-five years ago when the land war was at its height in Ireland. There was a certain Captain Boycott in the west of Ireland who evicted a lot of his tenants and attempted to bring strangers in to occupy the farms thus vacated.

Now, it was a rule of the Land League that nobody should rent a farm from which the tenant had been evicted; and anybody who did so incurred the enmity of the people far and near.

This Captain Boycott had cleared out a lot of tenants and made himself so obnoxious by his deeds of tyranny that the people conspired to ostracize him. They refused to work for him, to speak to him, to have any dealings whatever with him, so that he felt as if he were upon a desert island. He tried to bring servants, laborers and even tenants from a distance, but these were treated same as himself. They too soon tired of the isolation, and from this cause or actual fear they soon left the place.

In the end Capt. Boycott had to give up the fight, and whenever any other landlord made himself obnoxious, the leaders issued the order to "boycott" him. That was the origin of the word, and the term "boycott" therefore originally meant a conspiracy to ostracize socially, to ruin a man's business and drive him out of the community. As applied in labor conflicts in this country it is aimed only at the business of the concern boycotted.

LAST WORD RELATIVE TO CANDIDATES.

The campaign for the nominations now drawing to a close has been one of the most harmonious ever conducted by the democratic party. The five young men who are seeking the mayoral nomination are to be congratulated upon the clean lines on which they conducted the canvass. It bespeaks victory at the polls, for we are confident that the voters appealed to, and educated as they have been in reference to the essential qualities of the candidate who can win, will nominate the strongest man.

Once again we would remind the democratic voters of the great importance of attending the primaries and voting according to their best judgment for the man who will be most likely to win on election day. The citizens of all parties look to the democratic party on this occasion to redeem this city from a condition of humiliation under which it has suffered during the present year.

The list of candidates to be voted upon at the caucuses includes men for all offices who are eminently qualified to fill the various positions sought. There are weak men and strong men; there are men who can win and men who cannot. It is the duty of the voters to discriminate wisely in casting their ballots, remembering that they are not voting to put a man in any office, but simply selecting a candidate to be put before the voters on election day.

It is the duty of every voter to use his influence in favor of the strongest candidates for all offices. By the "strongest" we mean those men who by training and experience, by their record of public and private honesty and official integrity, whether as public officials or business men, have given proof of their ability to serve the city acceptably in every respect, men who, if elected, will reflect credit upon themselves, their party and the city at large.

We need a new charter, but until we get one our only hope lies in selecting our best men for office. In this way the evils of a defective system will in a measure be overcome, and good government secured in spite of the old charter.

While the people attach the greatest importance to the office of mayor and properly so under present conditions, yet it is very important to select a good aldermanic ticket that will back up the mayor in any reform he may inaugurate. Where the aldermen and common council are of a high standard then the city will have the benefit of progressive ideas and the mayor will find it much easier to carry out the various reforms demanded by the people.

There is a feeling in certain quarters that anybody is good enough for the common council. That is a mistake that should be corrected in the coming primaries. To put a weak man in the common council will reflect discredit upon the democratic party and injure its prospects for the future. Furthermore, the men who serve in the council may be regarded as in training for the position of alderman or some other office. That is another reason why no weak man should be selected for the lower branch of the city council. What is said of the need of good men in the city council may also be said in regard to the school board in which matters affecting the educational interests of the city are to be decided upon. Remember that water does not rise above its own level and neither does education. Men who are not fairly well educated should not be sent to the school board.

SEEN AND HEARD

Sometimes a farmer can raise almost everything on his farm except the mortgage.

Forward children don't always make the smartest men. Some of them are girls, you know.

Men who despise a kicker pay unheeded of prices for tickets to football games.

The man who is confident that he can do anything can usually do three or four things pretty well.

Even if a man has done nothing but his plain duty, he is always pleased to have a little commendation.

There are two kinds of men in this world—those who take off a porous plaster, and those who let it wear off.

Why buy expensive umbrellas? If other people want expensive umbrellas, let them buy them for themselves.

If a man really likes a woman's hat, he doesn't offend her any, no matter how frequently he says so.

"Know thyself," is good advice to follow. Anyhow, try to know yourself as well as the neighbors know you.

It may be true that the girl who has never been kissed doesn't know what she has missed, but she can imagine.

The inmates at the city farm are patiently awaiting the inauguration of a democratic mayor that they may get a good cup of tea.

You wouldn't be any happier if you had your own way all the time. Part of the joy of living comes from having something to complain about.

When a woman goes with her husband to buy him a new suit of clothes, he ought always to try to look as if he liked it.

When does a man really begin to become elderly? Young people think it is somewhere about thirty-five, but every man of sixty-five knows better.

Maybe living is cheaper in Europe than it is over here, but most of us will never know from personal experience.

Government seeds may be sometimes disappointing, but if you scatter seeds of discontent, they are sure to come up in course of time and bear a lot of fruit.

Once in a while a woman has courage enough to say "Yes" when a man takes a cigar out of his pocket, and asks her before lighting it if she objects to smoking.

All his pesky companions
Have vanished and gone.
Now he lingers with us,
But do his desolation
And grief makes us kind?

Oh, no! We all await him,
Or try to, at least,
And call on each other
To slaughter the beast.
Our hearts are not tender;
No mercy is shown
To the last fly of summer,

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Speaking of William M. Laffan of the N. Y. Sun, the Boston Herald says: "Mr. William M. Laffan, who has dominated the New York Sun for many years, and who has been its controlling personal factor since Mr. Dana's death, was a versatile man, active in finance, interested in promoting inventions, organizer of a serviceable news bureau, a writer upon the fine arts, a connoisseur in ceramics, and the champion of ultra-conservative views in politics and social evolution. He was a good hater, a hard hitter, and maintained the Dana traditions of wit, bluntness and candor. One of the least jocular of mortals, his tomb will be ex-President Roosevelt."

When the Washington state legislature passed a law requiring superior and supreme court judges to wear gowns, it made no provision for paying for them. The judges with one or two exceptions, footed the bills, but Judge Mitchell asked the counties of his district to pay for his gown. One county paid its share, but Thurston county refused, and is now being sued by the judge. The Seattle Post-Intelligencer does not approve Judge Mitchell's course. "The law, as it is, is the whole controversy," it says, "is the manifestation of prejudice against the law by judges. The prejudiced man is not judicial in his mental processes and attitude."

Miss Helen Keller's first published verse since her remarkable "Chant of Darkness" will be "The Song of the Stone Wall," a long unrhymed poem, somewhat in the manner of Whitman, which will appear in the Christmas Century with a photograph portrait of the writer.

Theodore Roosevelt in his third African article, in the Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine, says: "The English rule in Africa has been of inestimable value to the Africans themselves and indeed this is true of the rule of most European nations. I wish to add my tribute of unstinted admiration for the disinterested and efficient work done, alike in the interest of the white man and the black, by the government officials whom I met in East Africa."

Wilfred Stevens of Shakopee, Minn., translator in the services of the United States government, has a working knowledge of twenty-odd languages and can converse in as many dialects of various other tongues as may be demanded of him. He knows more diplomatic secrets than any official of the government, with the possible exception of the president and secretary of state. In his capacity of chief translator of the state department he practically reads every secret message that comes to Washington from other governments. When he entered the state department as translator a little more than five years ago he was familiar with nine languages, and since that time has mastered every language of political importance in the world. Mr. Stevens has recently perfected an entirely original classification of all the Chinese characters, whereby he is able to place his finger instantly on any one of the 12,000—something which is said to be impossible under any other classification in use.

Miss Alice Fischer traveled all the way from New York to Cheyenne, Wyo., to cast her vote in the recent elections. The trip cost in the neighborhood of $200.

No less competent an authority than G. M. Simmonds, editor of the Amsterdam Telegraph, who is now in this country, estimates that Dutch people have invested at the present time in American securities between $50,000,000 to $500,000,000. In proportion this enormous sum among the estimated population of thirty Holland, which is placed around 5,000,000, we find the interesting and startling fact that if the wealth were equally distributed, it would work out at nearly $100 a head for each one of the population, says the Financial World.

In the Standard Oil Dissolution

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The government's success in securing a decision of the United States circuit court for the district of Missouri dissolving the Standard Oil company and declaring it an illegal corporation is largely due to the efforts of Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, who assisted in the case by Charles B.

Morrison of Chicago. The Standard Oil company was represented by a distinguished array of legal talent, headed by John G. Milburn of Buffalo and including David T. Watson of Pittsburgh, Moritz Rosenthal of Chicago and John G. Johnson of Philadelphia. The decree of dissolution takes effect in thirty days unless suspended by an appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

At the Opera House tonight a production of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," which takes an extraordinary strong cast to present, will be seen. Frederick W. Pierce, in the difficult dual role of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," is complimented by both press and public. An excellent company supports Mr. Pierce. The play tells of the discovery by Dr. Jekyll of a drug which will bring out a second or lower nature; he experiments on himself. While under the influence of the drug he is known as Mr. Hyde, a demon who delights in torturing the helpless. The drug gains such power over him that he is unable to control the transformation from Hyde to Jekyll. The play is one of the best known of the present day, and never fails to interest theatregoers.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD

For nearly a quarter of a century Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead" has been seen in the various cities throughout the country, and the desire to witness it does not seem to show any abatement. It may well be called a problem play, the problem being how to account for the really phenomenal success which it has enjoyed through all the theatrical seasons that have intervened since Mr. Thompson first presented it to the public at the Boston theatre in the spring of 1888. In speaking of the success of his play, recently, Mr. Thompson said he had never doubted what the ultimate result would be if only he could succeed in convincing the theatregoing public that he was presenting on the mimic stage real live people and not the venerable pictures which our fathers know in the days of John Owen's "Solon" with his "bar of apple sauce." And when people began to realize after a while that what back in boyhood days they had known characters like Uncle Josh, Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, Aunt Matilda and the rest, they were not slow to come to the conclusion that at last the real Yankee farmer had been transplanted from the New England farm to the stage. "The Old Homestead" became a success from the start, and the reason it is so successful in this 21st season, is due to a great extent to the fact that the same attention is paid to detail as at the beginning. "The Old Homestead" comes to the Opera House Wednesday, Nov. 21, matinee and night.

"EAST LYNNE"

"TEN NIGHTS IN A BARROOM"

The attraction at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday will be Leon W. Washburn's grand production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom." This beautiful drama depicts a series of truthful scenes in the course of a drunkard's life. Some of them are touching in the extreme, and some are dark and terrible. Step by step is portrayed the downward course of the tempting vendic and her company, presenting the complete stage direction will insure a smooth and well balanced performance.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This is the week of Thanksgiving, and one of the occasions for giving thanks is the delightful vaudeville program acted by the Hathaway theatre. Whether taken as an appetizer previous to indulging in turkey, or as dessert subsequent to the enjoyment of the bird, it is equally good, and no pleasure-seeker should miss it. The show is headed by a big novelty, in the appearance of Miss Mabel Hardine and her company, presenting the Chinese dramatic playlet, "Suey San." No act in the varieties has aroused more enthusiasm than this unique playlet, which depicts the secrets of the now famous "Chinese Slave Mystery," that has perplexed the police heads of every important city in the United States. The playlet is powerful in its dramatic intensity and startling climax, and it gives Miss Hardine splendid scope to delight audiences by her clever acting. Her role is that of Suey San, a beautiful Chinese maiden, abducted by a rich man and imprisoned in San Francisco's Chinatown, where she is rescued by the revolution of her lover, Cho San. The effectiveness of the playlet is heightened by an elaborate stage setting, representing a street in the Chinese quarter. "The Great Ergotti" and his Lilliputians give a wonderful exhibition of Risley work, and head and hand balancing, and their act should be the acrobatic bit of the season in this city. The two midgits who take part are handsome little fellows, and they possess extraordinary skill and agility. In his lily performance Ergotti catches them with unflinching accuracy on his upturned feet when they leap from the top of a high stepladder, there is some starting too, and some work, and the flash, in which the midgits sail around, circling over the orchestra, in airships balanced at opposite ends of a pole balanced on Ergotti's feet, is very catchy. # THE ASTOR YACHT

Has Not Been Located According to Latest Reports

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22.—Mystery still surrounds the whereabouts of the steam yacht Nourmahal with the New York millionaire John Jacob Astor, her owner, and a party of friends on board. Failure of confirmation through Key West this morning by means of the only present intact method of communicating with the West Indian island, the government wireless system, has had the effect of casting doubt on the correctness of the report yesterday received from Curacao which said that the Nourmahal was at San Juan, Nov. 14, and was safely anchored there Nov. 15. Reason for doubting this report is twofold.

In the first place the operator at San Juan declared early today that he knew nothing of the presence of the Nourmahal there and if she were in port he would doubtless have known it. At the same time the San Juan operator volunteered the information that there was at present a large steam yacht in San Juan harbor but that it belonged to a Cuban. This vessel might easily have been mistaken for the missing Nourmahal.

It is practically certain that no wireless communication will be established by the station here with San Juan during the day.

The reported interruption to the cable service to that city may prevent any positive news as to the presence of Mr. Astor's yacht except by wireless. This means that it will be Tuesday morning, some time after midnight, possibly just before daybreak, when the wireless service is at its best that confirmation can be had unless steamships at sea or other stations forward the news.

That the friends of Col. Astor are not sanguine for the safety of the party is indicated by the number of messages sent to the wireless station here inquiring for the yacht and asking for any scrap of information that can be secured. The operator here has been on duty constantly for the last twenty-four hours and has sent calls to every station within the zone affected by his call. It was shortly after 4 o'clock this morning that the navy wireless men attempted to communicate with the San Juan station. They began by calling the naval station at Guantanamo and asking whether communication could be established with San Juan.

While this question was being asked San Juan station answered but the response came feebly. Later communication with San Juan improved and Key West station was able to send a considerable number of messages addressed to Col. Astor and his friends. The wireless communication continued until shortly before six o'clock when atmospheric conditions destroyed the wireless waves. It is anticipated that the investigation of the wrecked vessel off the north coast of Cuba will be made some time today or early tomorrow morning and an immediate report of the wreck's identity could be made. This vessel is on the shoals just off Elbow Key and will be found easily. Captain Schickler of the German steamer Wotan is positive that he saw three masts. He was informed that the Nourmahal had only two masts. He immediately said that the vessel he saw was not the Nourmahal. When informed that the Nourmahal had three masts he said that the probability was stronger that it was this vessel. He declared that the masts he saw were not those of a schooner as they were too close together and of smaller shape.

SECY DOBBY'S OPINION

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Word from Tampa, Fla., that the wireless station received no confirmation of the presence of John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Nourmahal in San Juan is regarded by William Dobbey, secretary of Col. Astor, as having no significance. The Nourmahal has probably by this time proceeded to some other port, says Mr. Dobbey.

The report made by the Red D line steamship Caracas at Willemstad that the Nourmahal was in San Juan lately is undoubtedly correct.

WHAT WIRELESS MEN SAY

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22.—The San Juan Porto Rico wireless station of the government continued communication with the naval wireless station here up to a late hour this morning, but no confirmation of the presence of the steam yacht Nourmahal with the New York millionaire and a party of friends on board was heard from San Juan. The operator at the Porto Rican station conversed some time with Key West and reported nothing of the Nourmahal's arrival there. The wireless men declare that if the Nourmahal had been at San Juan the wireless men there undoubtedly would have spoken of it.

LET US ALL BE THANKFUL!

A SAD SERVICE

Funeral of Miss Mary A. Shanley Today.

One of the saddest funeral services that has taken place in a long time at St. Patrick's church was that held this morning over the remains of Miss Mary A. Shanley, the young and talented daughter of Mr. Joseph A. Shanley, who dropped dead while at her studies in the Lowell High school on Friday; for aside from the shocking suddenness of the taking away of one in the charm of girlhood, the blighting of a personality so beautiful, rendered most poignant the grief of all who enjoyed the pleasure of her acquaintance. The deceased was a young Miss of lovable disposition and character, was adored within the family circle, well beloved by her large circle of friends and universally admired at school. Throughout the sad hours prior to the funeral the saddened home was crowded with sorrowing friends, drawn thither to extend their sympathy to the heart-broken family and to breathe the silent tribute of a prayer for the eternal happiness of the departed soul. A wealth of floral tributes, nutlets and fragrant bore testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by friends, even far beyond her family and kin. The lengthy funeral cortege left the house of mourning, 26 Phillips street, at 9:30 o'clock, and proceeded to St. Patrick's church, at which the deceased was a devout and constant attendant, where at 10 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Joseph Curtin, as celebrant, assisted by Rev. Timothy Callahan, deacon, and Rev. J. A. Fitzgerald, sub-deacon. An unusually large congregation was in attendance at the service, including many of the older families of St. Patrick's parish, of which the family of the deceased have been highly respected members for many years.

Among those from out of town were: John and Joseph Shanley of New York; brothers of the deceased; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Welch of Lawrence; Miss T. Faulkner of Laconia, N. H.; Mrs. T. H. Heffernan, Mr. John Heffernan and Miss Ellen M. Franks of Framingham; Mr. and Mrs. James McManus of Natick; Misses Teresa and Annie Smith of Framingham; Mrs. Cessie of Natick; Miss Mary Kirby of Boston; Mrs. John Welch and Miss Julia Welch of Lawrence.

The choir, under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, who also presided at the organ, rendered the Vatican edition of the requiem mass. At the offertory Mr. Andrew A. McCarthy sang "Ave Maria" and Mrs. McCarthy sang "The Mass" from the Gregorian. At the conclusion of mass the choir rendered "In Paradisum," and as the funeral procession was leaving the church, "De Profundis" was sung. Mr. McCarthy sustained the solos. The casket was borne by Messrs. James, John and Joseph Shanley and Mr. John Heffernan. The funeral cortege then proceeded to St. Patrick's cemetery, where the remains were tenderly consigned to their final resting place. Rev. Fr. Curtin read the prayers at the grave. The interment was in charge of James H. McDermott.

Large cross on base, of roses, chrysanthemums and galax leaves inscribed "Our Darling," from the parents; closed buds of roses and galax leaves, inscribed "Her Course is Completed" from her brothers, Joe and John; sprays of pinks and chrysanthemums from her sisters, Theresa and Joanna; star and crescent on base, of white roses and giant white and yellow chrysanthemums, from teachers and classmates of the Bartlett school, class of 1909; mammoth wreath of pinks, maiden hair ferns and galax leaves from Principal Irish and the following assistants at the High school, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Brennan, Miss Vinton, Miss Cassidy, Miss Allen, Miss Ward and Miss Lambert; pillow inscribed "Mary," Misses Sarah, Hannah and Mary Ryan; basket of pinks and roses, inscribed "Dear Mary," Mr. and Mrs. James Splers; spray of 16 double pink chrysanthemums, Mr. John Ort and family; wreath of pinks, chrysanthemums, the Misses Tully; large cluster chrysanthemums, Mrs. P. Hogan and family of Natick; spray of white pinks, Master Willie and Miss Katherine Ready; large spray of pinks and chrysanthemums, Mr. James McDermott; spray of pinks and ferns, Mrs. John Conroy; spray of pinks, Mrs. Foye; spray of white chrysanthemums, Miss Gladys Crowley, Abington, Mass.; spray of pinks, Misses Grace and Maria Dunn; spray of pinks, James and Michael O'Donoghue; spray of pinks, Miss Mary and Mr. Charles Deehan; spray of pinks, Miss Rita Quinn; spray of chrysanthemums, Miss Annie White; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. Armitstead and many others.

church in leading the meetings. The evangelist, Rev. George R. Stair, has been the central figure. Singing by J. W. Reynolds was a pleasant and inspiring feature of the meetings.

A large number of men attended the mass meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Highland M. E. church under the auspices of Evangelists Stair and Reynolds. The afternoon's program was a well planned one and proved interesting to those present. There was singing by Mr. Reynolds and the church choir and the affair came to a close by congregational singing. Speeches at the meeting were of some length on "Opportunities Lost."

will make several speeches, the places and time being advertised in another column.

Messrs. Crowley, Daly and Meehan were the guests of the Manhattan club yesterday afternoon and made addresses that were well received.

Major Crowley and William E. Maloney held all day meetings at their respective headquarters and met a large number of voters.

The rain this noon somewhat interfered with the crowds at the mill gate rallies of Candidates Daly, Maloney and Meehan but they addressed good sized audiences nevertheless. The remarks of all three abounded in the spirit of harmony and all three asked for unity of party after the caucuses.

Mr. Daly will make 10 speeches this evening starting at 7:15. His itinerary will be found in another column. He addressed large gatherings Saturday night and made a good impression. James E. O'Donnell addressed a large gathering at his headquarters yesterday, and among other things he said that he was thankful to the earnest and energetic friends who had toiled night and day in behalf of his candidacy. Mr. O'Donnell said he felt if nominated he could claim and would receive the hearty co-operation of his competitors. He had discussed with the voters his views on public questions affecting their interests and had endeavored modestly but truthfully to advance his own qualifications without disparagement to the claims of the other candidates. He felt from the generous assurances that he had received from all sections of the city that he would be his party's choice and if so he would labor unceasingly for his own and his party's triumph.

Great confidence was expressed at Major Crowley's headquarters last evening, and the candidate in expressing his thanks to his friends assured them that in the event of another campaign securing the nomination he would work as hard for the success of the ticket up to the closing of the polls on election day and if he were nominated he expected them to do the same. Representative John F. Meehan spoke at headquarters at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon before a large and interested gathering. This noon Ken Morhan addressed a gathering of 400 at the Carpet mills. He discussed the issues of the campaign and dwelt particularly upon his services to his party and the working people. His remarks were heartily applauded.

Speaking of contests, there is some class to the school board affair in ward four, where the following young men are holding a friendly contest for the nomination: John J. Conlon, Daniel P. Kelly, John H. Payne, Jos. T. McGirr and John O'Loughlin. The voters are expected to indicate their intelligence by picking out of the bunch the man best equipped by education and experience for the place.

For Purchasing Agent
In the excitement over the mayoralty campaign the contest for the nomination for purchasing agent has been conducted very quietly. The democrats have three most acceptable candidates, any one of whom will conduct the affairs of the office with credit to himself and his party.

last year for the nomination, is again a candidate. He is the well known grain and paper dealer, and a progressive young business man; a member of the Knights of Columbus and other fraternal organizations.

Thomas J. Fitzgerald is the former treasurer of the democratic city committee and a successful business man, being the proprietor of two tobacco stores. He is a member of the Knights of Equity, the C. Y. M. L., and other organizations.

William H. McElholm is well known throughout the city as a successful master plumber, a member of the Masters association, the Builders exchange, board of trade and Alpine club. He is a brother of former Wire Inspector James F. McElholm.

Through misinformation, the Sun of Saturday stated that John J. Duffy, one of the democratic candidates for alderman, was an engineer in the Bigelow Carpet company. Mr. Duffy was formerly employed in the Bigelow Repair shop, but is now an employee of the water works. He is a native of Lowell and a member of Court Merrimack, P. of A. School Contest.

Ward two is deeply interested in a lively contest for the school board between Thomas Mahoney, Jr., the present incumbent, and John J. Sullivan, for the past 20 years a clerk at Daly's drug store in Suffolk street. Each has served one term and is seeking a second.

Big Vote Expected
With the unusually large number of candidates in both tickets the caucus vote will be undoubtedly one of the largest cast in a long time, especially on the democratic end. This will mean that the result will not be known until the wee small hours of the morning. The polls open at noon and will remain open until nine o'clock.

Last Day of Registration
Wednesday will be the last day for registration for city election. The names of many school board suffragettes who voted last year have been dropped from the list and it is expected there will be quite a registration of women on Wednesday.

ATTELL AND MORAN
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Abe Attell, featherweight champion, will meet Jimmy Moran of Brooklyn before the Phoenix A. C. here today to travel eight rounds, the legal limit. The men are to weigh in at 122 pounds at 6 p. m. They have been in training ten days and are well conditioned.

BARON DE REUTER DEAD
LONDON, Nov. 22.—Baron George DeReuter, younger son of the late Baron DeReuter, who founded Reuters' Telegram Co. and a brother of the present Baron De Reuter, managing director of Reuters, died today. The widow is the daughter of John Potter of Philadelphia, who married Baron George in 1891. They have two young sons.

Baron George made his home usually in Paris and devoted himself chiefly to the promotion of financial institutions rather than to journalistic affairs. He was born in 1863 and was admitted to the bar in 1886. He was a commander of the royal order of the Saviour of Greece.

OLD TREMONT HOUSE

To be Converted Into Theatre for Moving Pictures

Present Tenants Will Have to Move—Another Picture Theatre to be Built in Bridge Street—Some Talk of Another Garage

The old Tremont house in Merrimack street is to be turned into a theatre for moving picture shows and that means that two new picture theatres are to be added to Lowell's present list, as another is booked for Bridge and Paige streets. No applications for permits to build or make alterations have been submitted at the office of the inspector of buildings, but it is known that the theatres are to be established. The one to occupy the old Tremont house will be arranged and managed by George Husson. The inspector of lands and buildings has already looked the building over, but no permits of any description have as yet been issued. Mr. Husson will first have to do business with the state inspector and if the building ordinance is complied with he will not meet with any interference on the part of the local inspector.

The studding in the old Tremont house is low and there are two propositions being considered. It is either a case of raising the building or dropping the floor. There are two stores in the building at the present time, a fish and a fruit store, and it was stated this forenoon that both had been given notice to vacate.

The other new theatre, at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets, will be engineered by a son of Alexander Strauss, proprietor of the Caesar Aisch store. The theatre will be built on the White property. It will take about 50 feet on Bridge street and will extend back to the alley in Paige street.

Another Garage
It is reported that negotiations for a location for a new garage near the site of the proposed new picture theatre in Bridge street are pending. If built the garage will stand just beyond the theatre, and it, too, will be on the White property.

STANDARD OIL MEN

Discuss Course to be Taken by the Company Now

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Conferences of officers and leading counsel of the Standard Oil Co. were held in this city today to begin the work of outlining the company's course of action following the adverse decision in the government's suit against the company rendered on Saturday.

Thirty days are allowed before the decree of the court takes effect and within that time the form of the appeal which the corporation has announced that it will take to the United States supreme court will have to be perfected. The voluminous opinion and decree of the U. S. circuit court are yet to be digested by the attorneys for the corporation. Early beginning of this process was considered essential, hence the prompt summoning of the legal forces at the command of the Standard Oil to assay the task.

In speaking of the decision today John D. Archbold, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co., took an optimistic view of the situation. He said: "I believe that the decision will result in legislation looking toward the repeal of the Sherman anti-trust act. For under that law it is not only possible for practically every corporation to transact business but even co-partnerships may be attacked. I believe that the officials at Washington are coming to the view that the law is too drastic and that even Mr. Roosevelt himself shares in that opinion." Standard Oil stock was again affected on the curb market today by the court's decision. The stock closed at $90 Saturday and the first sale today was $89, a decline of 40 points.

Early prices on the stock exchange showed declines of nearly a point in some issues but there was support detected and prices rallied.

THE MORSE CASE

Decision Reserved by the Court

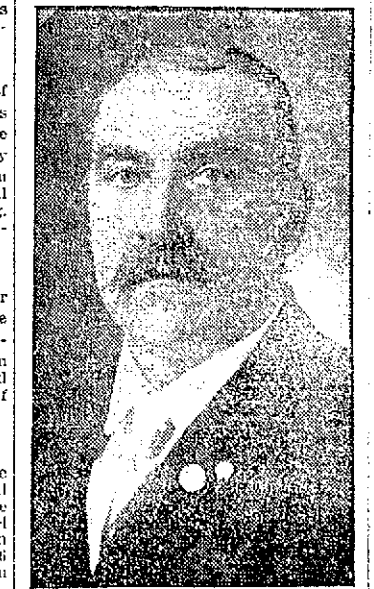

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, argued a motion for a new trial before the court of appeals today in the course of which he alleged that there had been promiscuous jury drinking among the members of the jury which convicted Morse, and that one member was suffering from alcoholism to such an extent that a cot had to be carried into the jury room. Former U. S. Dist. Atty. Stinson, who prosecuted the Morse case, opposed the motion. Decision was reserved by the court.

AWAITS INVESTIGATION
HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—D. K. Cannon, father of Leroy Cannon, who was shot in Nicaragua, said today that he had determined to await the result of the government's investigation into the execution before taking any steps for claim of damages for the death of his son and the confiscation of his property. He asked Congressman Olmstead of this district to request the federal government to secure the body and many people in this city will also make petitions to that effect.

NORTH ENDS WON

The North Ends and the Indians clashed on the North common Saturday afternoon for the 135 pound championship of the city and in the presence of 1600 people. The North Ends were victorious by a score of 3 to 0. Both teams were evenly matched and put up a strenuous battle. There was no scoring done in the first half. Both teams answered the whistle for the second half and after steady slugging the North Ends got the ball on the Indians' 20 yard line and Noonan was sent out to kick the ball over the goal posts for a field goal. Both teams lined up for the kick-off and the Indians received the ball. They kicked the ball down the field to the North Ends' 15 yard line and Bleakly made an unsuccessful kick for a field goal. The game ended shortly after with the ball in the centre of the field. Noonan, Giddee and La Jeunesse, excellent for the North Ends, while Rebarge, Dow, Joe Flynn and Toy were the stars for the Indians.

The Tigers of North Tawakshury met the Avens of Lowell Saturday afternoon in a game of football, and won by a score of 23 to 0.

Says That Nicaragua Will Have to Make Reparations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—After a conference with the president at the White House last night on the Nicaraguan situation, Secretary of State Knox authorized the following statement:

"Certain representations of fact which have been made to the state department concerning the Grace and Cannon case are verified by inquiries that have been made. This government will at once prepare a demand on the Nicaraguan government for reparation for the death of these two men."

For two hours last night President Taft conferred with Secretary Knox on the Nicaraguan situation. The secretary of state, accompanied by Henry Hoyt, counselor of the state department, reached the White House shortly after 9 o'clock. Previous to going to the executive mansion, Mr. Knox held a conference in his home with Asst. Sec. Huntington Wilson.

The secretary carried a formidable array of papers when he entered his carriage to drive to the White House and Counselor Hoyt also carried a bulging portfolio.

The only other event of importance during the day was the dispatch of orders to the transport Buffalo, on duty on the Pacific coast, to sail at once for Panama. The navy department's instructions to the commander of the Buffalo were explicit, and the vessel was expected to set sail last night from Pichelinque Bay, Cal., after taking on adequate supplies of coal and provisions.

This hurried ordering of the Buffalo southward is taken to mean that this government is making ready to set a column of United States marines in the Nicaraguan turmoil for the protection of American lives and property. While the 500 marines are scattered generally over the canal zone they can be quickly concentrated by means of the railroad at Panama where there are military stores and supplies.

Any expedition against Nicaragua in which the marines figure would be undertaken on the Pacific side of the isthmus. The Buffalo would land the men on the port of Corinto, which is a short forty miles from Managua. The authorities last night insisted that the dispatch of the Buffalo is not to be accepted as meaning that any expedition is to be launched against the Zelayan government, but that the vessel is ordered south to be in readiness should occasion suddenly arise.

The Buffalo carries six guns, is of 6555 tons burden and her engines develop 3600 horsepower. The vessel will be carried at top speed to Panama where on her arrival her commander has been instructed to report immediately to Washington.

PREPARING TO SAIL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Active preparations are being made at the Philadelphia navy yard for the sailing of the cruisers Dixie and Prairie. The latter is expected to depart for Panama on Thanksgiving day with 400 marines. Rumors were current at the yard yesterday that both vessels are destined for Nicaragua but the authorities could not confirm these reports. Commander Rear Admiral Uriah B. Harris said that the present sailing orders of the Dixie name Boston and those of the Prairie he said are "as far as we know for Colon in Panama, but of course any change in the intentions of the department may be announced at any time."

She Was Murdered for Her Money

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 22.—Miss Ella Smith was murdered for her money and her body was incinerated in the ruins of her home on Bull Run battlefield some time Saturday night. Her charred corpse was discovered in the smoking wreckage of her small house yesterday.

The authorities are looking for a negro who lived close to the Smith house, but who is missing.

Miss Smith received a considerable amount of money within the past few days, the proceeds of the sale of poultry, and it is believed she was robbed and murdered and the house burned to destroy evidence of the crime. The community is greatly excited by the murder.

GREAT ACTIVITY

In Commercial Conditions in U. S.

The increased commercial activity which has characterized conditions in the United States during the past few months is beginning to make itself apparent in other parts of the world. The records of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, which have during the past several months indicated a marked improvement in both the internal and foreign commerce of the United States, are now showing improved conditions in the foreign commerce of many of the countries of the world.

Argentina's imports in the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a gain of 9 million dollars over the same months of last year; exports a gain of 28 millions. Australia, while showing a slight decline in imports, shows an increase of 7 millions in exports in the first 6 months of 1909 over the corresponding period of 1908. Austria-Hungary for the 7 months ending with July last shows an increase of 18 millions in imports and 2 millions in exports. Belgium for the 8 months ending with August shows a gain of 34 millions in imports and 14 millions in exports. Brazilian imports for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, show a drop of 8 million dollars, but the exports meantime show an increase of 33 millions. British South Africa shows for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a gain of 6 millions in imports and 11 millions in exports. Canada's imports for the 5 months ending with August, 1909, are 143 million dollars, against 112 millions in the corresponding months of last year; and her exports, 97 million dollars, against 90 millions in the same months of last year. Cuba for the 12 months ending June 30, 1909, shows imports, 84 million dollars, against 97 millions in the preceding fiscal year; and the exports, 116 millions, against 97 millions last year. Egypt shows for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, a decline of 5 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 6 millions in exports.

France for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, shows an increase of 40 million dollars in imports and of 48 millions in exports. Germany shows for the 6 months ending in June, 1909, an increase of 47 million dollars in imports and of nearly 3 millions in exports. British India for the 4 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 21 millions in imports, but an increase of 20 million dollars in exports. Italy shows for the 8 months ending with August, 1909, an increase of 20 million dollars in imports and of 12 millions in exports. Japan for the 7 months ending with July, 1909, shows a decrease of 21 millions in imports, but an increase of 15 million dollars in exports. Russia in Europe for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, shows a decline of 14 million dollars in imports, but an increase of 75 millions in exports.

Switzerland for the 6 months ending with June, 1909, shows an increase of 5 million dollars in imports and of 4 millions in exports. The United Kingdom shows for the 9 months ending with September, 1909, imports, 2183 million dollars, against 2121 millions in the same months of 1908; and exports, 1350 millions, against 1330 millions in the corresponding period of last year—an increase in imports but a decline in exports. Imports into the United States in the 10 months ending with October, 1909, the latest period for which figures are available, amounted to 1185 million dollars, against 800 millions in the same months of the preceding year; and exports, 1350 millions, against 1400 millions in the corresponding months of the preceding year; while for the single month of October the figures are, imports, 127 million dollars, against 102 millions in October of last year; and of exports, 159 millions, against 172 millions in the same month of 1908.

These increases in foreign commerce both in the case of the United States and of other countries, while indicating in some degree an increase in quantity of merchandise moved, are in part due to higher prices. Just as lower prices in many articles immediately followed the commercial depression of 1907-8, an advance in prices has in many cases followed the improved trade conditions of 1909.

PASTOR RESIGNS

From Mt. Vernon Free Baptist Church

Rev. James A. Deejay, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Free Baptist church has resigned his pastorate there. His letter of resignation was read by him yesterday morning. It was as follows:

On April 25, 1909, I received a call to become pastor of the Mt. Vernon church through the clerk of this corporation.

Upon May 7, 1909, I accepted said call. Believing now that the time has come, when it would be for the best interests of all concerned for me to withdraw the acceptance of the call, I do now withdraw it.

Thanking you for all the kindnesses shown me, while I have been your pastor, I pray the Heavenly Father through His Son, Jesus Christ, that we may be led in the pleasant ways of the Christian life.

Your pastor,
James A. Deejay.

VALUABLE COLT DEAD

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—Howard, a bay colt, two years old, by Odd Fellow-Nimonia, died in his stall at the Peraltilla race track yesterday. He was imported from the United States for the $25,000 Mexican derby of 1910 and was held favorite in the future betting on that event. He was owned by George I. Mann, an American banker, who valued the colt at $10,000.

FRANK KRUG DEAD

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—Frank Krug, president of the local Iron Molders union, died yesterday from a bullet wound in his head. He was waylaid and shot Saturday night outside a saloon. The police say they know who shot him.

DARING ATTEMPT

To Poison Army Officers in Vienna

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—An extraordinary attempt at wholesale poisoning of military officers here has caused a sensation. A large number of officers, just promoted to be captains in the general staff have received through the mails sample boxes of pills. These were accompanied by a circular recommending them for nervous debility. One of the officers, Captain Mader, took some of the pills and died almost immediately. An autopsy revealed the presence of cyanide of potassium, and that his death was caused by that poison.

A further investigation showed that all the pills contained cyanide of potassium in large quantities, and that many of the first lieutenants attached to the staff, but not promoted did not receive pills. The circulars were signed "Charles Francis" and bore a false address.

Attempts so far to unravel the mystery have failed, and it is suggested that the poison may have been sent out by some disappointed officer, or that the poisoning is an anarchist outrage.

HIGGINS IS SAFE

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A despatch from Funchal, Madeira, says that Eugene Higgins and his friends arrived there well. His yacht Varuna, which went ashore on the northwest coast, cannot yet be approached, as the seas are high and breaking over. The captain says that the yacht was out of her course for some reason unknown, and he maintains that there was a strong and unusual current which carried the vessel into the shoals.

EMERY ELEVATING CARRIAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Although the first appropriation for the construction of the so-called Emery 12-inch elevating carriage for the ordnance equipment of the army was made in 1893, the board of ordnance and fortifications in its annual report made public yesterday states that "so far the government has nothing to show for its expenditure except the foundations for the carriage."

Additional appropriations have been made since 1893, so that the total available for the carriage is given by the board as $114,345, of which amount $206,811 has been paid the constructor, A. H. Emery.

"In the latter part of 1908 Mr. Emery constructed a railroad track connecting the site selected for his carriage at Fort Hancock with the Sandy Hook proving ground railroad," says the board. "This was used for the transportation of the material for the construction of the concrete foundations for the carriage. Under the provisions of the act of May 27, 1908, Mr. Emery was paid $5000 on the completion of this work, since which time no further deliveries have been made."

The board states that "all the work on the Emery design has been done under direct legislative enactment and the only part taken, or to be taken by the board in the matter is that when completed the carriage is to be tested under the supervision of the board."

PRESIDENT TAFT

Prepared to Take Steps in the Nicaraguan Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Strained now almost to the breaking point it remains for the next few days, perhaps one or two will suffice, to show whether the relations between the United States and Nicaragua are to be snapped off short.

This government has not accepted as facts beyond all contradiction the explanation of Nicaragua touching the execution of Grace and Cannon in that country. Sufficient credit has been given statements that have been made to the department of state to prompt inquiries into the reasons that moved President Zelaya to order the two Americans put to death. Secretary Knox himself is authority for the statement that a demand for reparation will be made upon Nicaragua should these inquiries develop that allegations touching the death of the Americans are well grounded.

Late last night the secretary declared himself and proceedings in the Nicaraguan affair today will doubtless be along the line of prosecution of the inquiries to ascertain the truth as to Grace and Cannon.

Secretary Knox is acting with the full approval of the president. Mr. Taft has had the Nicaraguan situation presented fully and he is prepared to take any needed steps to bring about a more satisfactory status than now exists.

American ships of war today are speeding toward the shores of Nicaragua. The gunboat Vicksburg will probably arrive at Corinto on the Pacific coast today and the cruiser Des Moines may arrive at about the same time at Port Limon. The Marietta, too, is on her way to the Atlantic coast. The transport Buffalo coaling at Pichilniqué bay, Cal. is under orders for Panama. There a force of 500 marines will board the vessel should orders to that effect be issued. Such orders will doubtless be forthcoming should the two countries not prove able to settle peacefully the issue that has arisen.

Was Caused by the Heroism of a Steward

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Heroism on the part of a young steward caused a panic at sea among the 141 steerage passengers of the Cunard liner Pannonia, which arrived yesterday from Mediterranean ports. When the immigrants were released many of them sought to kiss the man they had threatened three weeks ago.

"Girl overboard!" "There she goes!" shouted a score of steerage passengers on the night of Oct. 30, when a steward rushed to the rail and threw a lighted lamp covered with a long white sheet into the ocean.

A few days after the Pannonia had left Fiume one of the passengers was heating water over an alcohol lamp. A sudden lurch of the vessel tipped over the lamp, which was resting on the edge of the woman's berth, and the sheet took fire. Immediately there was a cry of "Fire!" The steerage passengers began to pick up bibbles and beads. Some of them rushed to the upper decks and commenced to pray.

The cry of "Fire!" had been heard by a young steward, who seized the sheet, wrapped it about the lamp, and, running on deck, threw it overboard. Several score of other steerage passengers who knew nothing of the fire, seeing the white sheet, began to shout in their native language: "Girl overboard!"

In an instant a panic followed. The crowd of excited foreigners gathered around the steward and began to threaten him. Several of them tried to strike him. The noise and shouts reached Captain Irvine, who was on the bridge. He ordered that the vessel be stopped. He then tried his best to calm the frightened passengers. "Call to six sailors and two junior officers, he sent them out in lifeboats and also threw overboard two illuminated buoys. For fully 20 minutes a search was made around the vessel for the supposed girl that had been thrown overboard. Finally an interpreter was secured, who told the steerage passengers the truth.

The steward was thanked by the steerage passengers for his heroism and presented with trinkets which came from different parts of the world.

Before the excitement had subsided the ship's doctor announced that Mrs. Julia Kovas, a young woman who was coming here to meet her husband, a farmer in New Jersey, had given birth to a boy. Count Vaya de Vaya Las-kod, Lord Abbott of St. Martins, who happened to be a passenger on the same vessel, presided at the christening at the request of the steerage passengers. A collection of $250 was made for the new arrival. Mrs. Kovas said she would place the money in a savings institution in the name of her little son and keep it there until he became of age.

Rescued Several Persons From Burning Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—A fire which burned the greater part of the night, causing a loss of $25,000 to $30,000, and which was attended by the thrilling rescue of several women and children, broke out in the Connor and Verette blocks, corner of Elm and Spruce streets, shortly before midnight Saturday.

The fire originated in some unknown manner in the basement of the saloon of Napoleon J. Fischette in the Connor block, a four-story wooden structure with a brick front. The flames made their way through the partitions to the room and spread to the Verette block.

The first floors of both blocks were occupied for business purposes and the three stories above as tenements. Women and children were rescued on ladders by the firemen and police after egress had been cut off by smoke and flames which filled the stairways.

Mrs. Mary Cologne, who had just returned to her home after giving birth to a child in a hospital, was placed on a stretcher, and the stretcher pulled across a ladder from one of the windows in the Connor block to the roof of an adjoining building. Mrs. Cologne's child was rescued by Mrs. Mary Cloutier, one of the occupants of the block, who performed heroic work in aiding the occupants of the tenements to places of safety. Patrolmen John Watts and Florence O'Leary were instrumental in removing Mrs. Cologne to a place of safety.

Councilman William Connor of ward 10, with the aid of James Harlan and Dominick O'Gara, raised ladders in a back alley by means of which seven persons escaped. Mr. Connor looks after the plumbing in the blocks, and being familiar with their interior, was able to render valuable service.

The fire burned in the partitions to the top of both buildings. The heaviest damage was done to the grocery and meat store of Melrose Verette, which was heavily stocked and occupied the entire first story of Verette block, extending from 609 to 613 Elm street.

Mrs. Cloutier, who rescued the child of Mrs. Cologne, is being mentioned for Carnegie recognition. She wrapped a shawl about her head and then dashed into the blinding smoke, picked up the infant and returned with it under her shawl. She brought out the other children in the same manner, feeling her way with her hands on each journey into the building, as she was familiar with the rooms, having made her home in the building for a long time.

The Connor block is owned by Michael Connor, who was overcome by a suffocating smoke after having entered the building and was carried out by the firemen.

The grocery of James J. Griffin, situated on Spruce street, was filled with smoke and the proprietor suffers some loss.

SCHLEY ANGRY

At the Action of the Ballet

PITTSBURG, Nov. 22.—Admiral Schley and United States Senator Geo. T. Oliver were Saturday night the victims of practical jokes on the stage of the Gaiety theatre.

The joke was a sort of boomerang on the instigators for many of them are today trying to explain to indignant wives why they, too, were the party that sipped wine from a common loving cup with chorus girls Saturday night while an audience of 2000 bawled the song, "How Dry I Am."

The admiral and the United States senator were so plainly the victims of a flimsy joke that they have escaped censure and the hero of Santiago was beginning to smile once more when he left for Washington yesterday. There was blood on the moon for a few moments Saturday night, however.

Admiral Schley was the guest of Syria Temple of the Mystic Shrine all Saturday and Saturday evening when the entire Gaiety theatre had been bought out by the Shriners for a stag night.

One of the features near the end of the show was the presentation of a beautiful loving cup made of armor plate to the admiral.

United States Senator Oliver presented the cup formally to the admiral on the centre of the stage and as he finished there rushed from the wings half a dozen chorus girls in short skirts, etc.

Two of them had opened bottles of champagne, which they emptied into the loving cup which they found in the hands of the admiral. Then they stood on either side of the embarrassed admiral and made signs for him to drink.

Admiral Schley finally raised the cup to his lips while the audience broke into "How Dry I Am." Admiral Schley then passed the cup to United States Senator Oliver, who had seemed paralyzed since the ballet descended on them.

The senator took his sip, then gallantly passed it to the chorus girls, who in turn passed it to the score of Shriners who had come on the stage with them to assist in the complete embarrassment of Admiral Schley and Senator Oliver.

To Become Bride of Blind Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—When Miss Vera MacFarland Moses, whose father is a multi-millionaire, leaves St. Thomas' Church on Dec. 1 as the bride of Edward Matthews Chamberlain, hers will probably be the most pathetic wedding procession that has ever walked down the aisle of that famous church.

The white satin and tulle and orange blossoms, with which she will be arrayed, will be unseen by her husband, although she will lean proudly on his arm.

The childish prattle of the two little flower girls, her niece, Lydia Merrill, and his niece, Edith Clendenin, will be heard by him, but their happy faces, their baskets of posies will count nothing for Mr. Chamberlain, who comes of an old Virginia family, is blind.

The God of Love, however, is also supposed to be sightless, and Miss Moses is happily preparing for her coming marriage to the man of her choice and is planning all the details as thoughtfully, as carefully, as though each would come under his special notice.

The bride-to-be, a beautiful young woman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moses of the Hotel Savoy.

Colgate Hoyt will be best man, and Percy Weeks, Sherman Hoyt of New York, William Boney, Jr., Chumpey Hackett and Lucius Huntley of Maryland will be ushers. Afterward Mrs. Noble will give a reception at her home.

Hundreds Saw Policeman Battle With a Madman

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—For nearly an hour yesterday a policeman and William Lowe of Brooklyn battled with a lunatic on a house top to prevent him from throwing them four stories down an airway. Before the crazy man was overcome 2000 persons were attracted to the scene, and police reserves were called on for help.

The struggle took place at 480 Prospect place, an apartment house. Policeman Noll and Lowe, who lives in the apartment, had as opponent Charles Wygant of 230 Lincoln road, Flatbush. While Lowe was taking his bath yesterday morning his wife called to him that there was a strange man in an apartment on the floor below, and the women living there could not get him to leave.

Clad only in a bath robe and slippers, Lowe went downstairs and found a well dressed young man in the hall. When asked what he was doing there the man said he lived in the flat, and showed a key to prove it. He was told he would have to leave the house, the stranger refused to leave, and Lowe told his wife to go for a policeman.

Some one got Lowe's shoes, and while he was putting them on the man ran up another flight of stairs and got out on the roof. Lowe looked the trap door and finished dressing. Policeman Noll came a few minutes later, and from the sidewalk asked the man on the roof what he was doing there.

"Looking for the north pole," was the answer. Noll went to the roof and tried to compel the crazy man to come down. Then the fight began.

Wygant was forcing Noll to the edge of the roof when the policeman called to Lowe for help. Lowe took a hand in the fight, but the lunatic was a match for both. Several times he had them almost to the edge of the roof, and it was only because each time they ran against a chimney that they were saved from a fall.

After the struggle had gone on for nearly half an hour, and the lunatic had winded both of his antagonists, some one ran for another policeman, who sent in a call for reserves.

A great crowd gathered in the street, watching the struggle. The lunatic was getting stronger all the time, while the policeman and Lowe were weakening. Finally all three went down, the policeman under the lunatic, who was choking him, and Mr. Lowe on top. All three rolled to the edge of the roof again and it seemed they would fall off and be killed.

Just then the reserves gained the top of the house and pulled the struggling men back. It took only a moment to overcome Wygant. He was bound hand and foot and carried to the hospital.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—A general meeting of the conductors of every section of the Boston & Maine system who could attend was held yesterday at 104 Canal street to consider, informally, the general proposition now before the various divisions of the order of railway conductors regarding a request for a wage increase and an equalization of hours, and to enforce the demand with a strike if necessary.

The proposition is that decided upon at the recent convention in this city of the eastern association of the general chairmen of the conductors and trainmen's boards of arbitration and adjustment of every one of the railroad systems east of the Mississippi, north of the Chesapeake & Ohio road and including eastern Canada.

Yesterday's proceedings were secret. It was admitted that it was more in the nature of an instructive general gathering to discuss every phase of the situation and the proposition. The proposition is now before the B. & M. conductors' organization for a vote next week.

THE SURVIVORS

Of the Steamer St. Croix Landed

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 22.—Furnished, nearly exhausted and clad in borrowed clothes the 106 men, women and children passengers on the steamer St. Croix, which was burned and sank last night off Point Dume arrived yesterday. With them came the 78 members of the crew, likewise exhausted and destitute.

All were brought from Santa Monica by trolley car after the police department and residents of that city had furnished food that broke a fast which for some had lasted 36 hours. The survivors had walked, ridden and made their way to Santa Monica as best they could from the isolated landing place.

Mrs. L. A. Wallace remained at the beach city hospital with her six months old baby. She was severely injured when a davit rope broke and the boat she was in plunged how first into the sea.

Captain Frederick Wurmer came into Santa Monica among the last of the shipwrecked throng. He described the burning of the vessel and the rescue as follows:

"I was in my cabin when some one ran to my door and shouted, 'Captain, the ship is afire below the second cabin.' I shouted to the first officer, Mr. Miller, in the next cabin to take charge of the watch below and went on the bridge and ordered full speed astern to stop the ship's headway, so as not to fan the flames which I saw bursting out of the after port.

"An alarm was sounded. Each man of the crew promptly went to his station. Mr. Miller had five lines of hose rigged.

"The ship came to a full stop and the passengers were placed in the lifeboats. Then the first officer reported that the ammonia pipes of the refrigerating plant had burst and that the vapor was overwhelming his men. The fire was gaining shaft the second cabin. Apparently it started somewhere in the second cabin, and the powerful draft was drawing it through the shaft alley to the boiler room. Realizing that the fight was hopeless, I ordered the men up from below and the fire room was cleared.

"At no time was there any serious confusion. All the passengers provided themselves with life preservers. Mrs. Wallace afterwards said that it was her husband who enabled her to keep herself and her baby up after they had fallen overboard.

"Boat No. 1 was the first to be filled and I ordered it cast loose. An eye bolt in the stern post drew out and the boat dropped bow first, throwing some of the passengers violently and slightly injuring a few.

"It was then that Mrs. Wallace and little Vilhelmin went overboard. I saw several men jump to the rescue. Immediately I shouted to let the other davit rope go, and the boat righted itself immediately. In a few minutes those who had fallen overboard were picked up and were back on board and the boat was on its way, outside the line of danger. A few life rafts were named, but these were abandoned and those on them were taken into the boats."

THE STATE BUREAU OF STATISTICS TODAY issues its quarterly bulletin on the state of employment in the organized industries of Massachusetts for the three months ending Sept. 30.

Just 797 unions, with a membership of 113,464, made returns. That number, it is stated, represents about 60 per cent. of the unions and the same per cent. of organized workers.

Just 5431 of the 113,464 members of the 797 unions which reported were idle from all causes on Sept. 30, or 4.80 per cent. The figures show that there has been a return to more normal conditions than have prevailed since the industrial depression of 1907. A total of 616 of the unions, principally the smaller ones, reported no members idle.

But 0.15 per cent. of the members were idle by reason of strikes or lock-outs.

Of the unions reporting, 519, with a membership of 93,330, or 82.27 per cent. of the membership, are located in the 16 largest cities. The percentage of idleness in Salem, Lowell, New Bedford, Lynn, Fall River and Brockton exceeded the percentage for the state as a whole. Holyoke showed the smallest per cent. of idle members, 1.35 per cent. Boston showed 4.13 per cent.

In the building trades, which comprised 20.10 per cent. of the total members reported, the percentage of idleness was 3.09, as compared with 9.34 per cent. at the same time last year. In the boot and shoe manufacturing industry the percentage of idleness was 7.12, as compared with 17.14 at the same time last year.

In the textile industry there was considerable improvement, the percentage of idleness being 5.12, against 6.34 on June 30 of this year and 15.32 on Sept. 30 of last year.

MINNEOLA, L. I., Nov. 22.—Letting her imagination run riot in every variety of bloodthirsty threat that could be devised by the most desperate cut-throat, Mrs. Charles McDonald of Glen Landing, a nearby village, has been terrifying her husband for the last year by writing "Black Hand" letters to herself. The sole reason for those grim missives, so far as could be fathomed by District Attorney Colles of Nassau and one of his sketches, was her husband's desire to force her to return to Scotland, whence both of them emigrated several years ago. Apparently, she believed the only sure way of forcing McDonald, who is a landscape gardener employed in the millionaire colony about Glen Landing, to leave this country would be to frighten him with the "Black Hand" letters.

To the district attorney and County Detective Seaman, who was responsible for the discovery that the mysterious letters, with the scrawled signature of the "Black Hand," emanated from the fertile brain of Mrs. McDonald, the woman emphatically denied her authorship.

Incomplete fragments found in her writing desk match letters which went through the mail.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—In recording in the archives of the war department an account of the successful flight of the Wright aeroplane the board of ordnance and fortification which purchased the machine for the government has endeavored to give the credit for the recent advancement in mechanical flight to Dr. Samuel Langley, the late secretary of the Smithsonian institute.

"As a scant need of justice to a distinguished scientist who was very sensitive to the ridicule and abuse heaped upon his efforts in his later days" the board explains its action in thus honoring Dr. Langley.

The successful outcome of the tests of the Wright machine are held by the board in its annual report made public today to justify the belief in the practicability of the aeroplane as a useful military adjunct.

"It is not asserted that the aeroplane as furnished under the contract with the Wright brothers will revolutionize our present methods of warfare," says the board, "but as a result of the very rapid development of the art of aviation in the past year it has been demonstrated that in its present form the aeroplane is practicable for certain purposes of observation and reconnaissance."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—In recording in the archives of the war department an account of the successful flight of the Wright aeroplane the board of ordnance and fortification which purchased the machine for the government has endeavored to give the credit for the recent advancement in mechanical flight to Dr. Samuel Langley, the late secretary of the Smithsonian institute.

"As a scant need of justice to a distinguished scientist who was very sensitive to the ridicule and abuse heaped upon his efforts in his later days" the board explains its action in thus honoring Dr. Langley.

The successful outcome of the tests of the Wright machine are held by the board in its annual report made public today to justify the belief in the practicability of the aeroplane as a useful military adjunct.

"It is not asserted that the aeroplane as furnished under the contract with the Wright brothers will revolutionize our present methods of warfare," says the board, "but as a result of the very rapid development of the art of aviation in the past year it has been demonstrated that in its present form the aeroplane is practicable for certain purposes of observation and reconnaissance."
